

HARVARD FIRST BEAT PRINCETON IN '77 BECAUSE TIGER "FIFTEEN" WAS "ALL FLUSTERED UP"

TIGERS ARE SHIFTED FOR HARVARD GAME

Official Line-up and Statistics for Princeton-Harvard Game

Table with columns for Princeton and Harvard players, listing names, positions, and statistics.

By SPICK HALL. Staff Correspondent of the Evening Public Ledger. Princeton, N. J., Nov. 6. There has been no announcement made here or at Cambridge of the official opening line-up for Saturday's football classic between the Princeton Tigers and Harvard, notwithstanding the line-ups above are correct for both teams, and when the whistle blows at 2 o'clock day after tomorrow, the men will be in the positions as set forth.

Coach Roper, after watching his men work out for three days this week, decided that the strongest combination that he could muster in the backfield would be to put Garrity, who has been practicing at fullback, at right halfback and to use Witmer at full.

One of the reasons for this ninth-hour shift was to have the best available punter in the game, and that man is Witmer. As remarked on other occasions, Scherer is the best punter on the squad, but he has not yet developed sufficient all-round playing ability to warrant his being put on the varsity as a first-string player in spite of his fine kicking ability.

Davis, Right End. Several shifts have been made in the line and at the ends, and Williams will be used by Roper at left end and the other wing will be protected by Davis, who has done wonderful work in the scrimmages this week. Higher is a high-grade player, and has been playing end in great style, so, in order to keep him in the line-up, the Tiger tutors decided that the best combination in the line would be to use him at right tackle, with Rothchild at guard.

On the other side of the line Captain McGraw will perform at tackle and Dickson at guard. Callahan, of course, will occupy the center post. Keck will not start.

Few Changes Made. It can be seen from Harvard's line-up that it is virtually the same that the coaches have been using all week. Of course, a number of shifts have been made in the scrimmages, but the eleven men who appear above have been getting most of the signal drilling, which precedes and follows the scrimmage work each day.

Yesterday the Princeton students had a big celebration in honor of the opening of the gates of Palmer Stadium for practice. Hundreds of enthusiastic undergraduates lined up in front of the cannon, and, headed by the band, proceeded in squad formation to the stadium, where they watched their hopes work out in the last hard scrimmage before meeting Harvard. Roper stated that he intended to have a scrimmage this afternoon, but it will be of a light order, and the chances are that he will use most of his scrumming men for this work against the scrubs.

Expect Huge Crowd. Every preparation is being made to accommodate the largest crowd that ever gathered to see a football game in Princeton. There will be hundreds of automobiles from Philadelphia, New York and other points in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Besides these, every train running out of the two metropolitan cities of the Keystone and Empire states will have a full quota of football enthusiasts.

The railroad yards at Princeton are being overhauled to take care of the specials that will be run. The Pennsylvania Railroad will run frequent extra trains from New York and Philadelphia Saturday, cancelling virtually all of the regular ones.

This is the way the Pennsy has arranged to carry the people to and from the big game: Frequent special train service from Penn.

STATE WILL HOLD ATHLETIC CARNIVAL

Lehigh Game, Clash With Pitt Fresh and Soccer Match Feature Pennsylvania Day

CROSS-COUNTRY RUN LISTED

State College, Pa., Nov. 6.—Tomorrow and Saturday promise to constitute one of the greatest week-ends ever held at Penn State, for the college will celebrate its annual Pennsylvania Day.

Athletic events will feature the two-day celebration, with two football games, a soccer game and a cross-country run on the schedule. Lehigh will be the big visiting attraction, the Brown and White furnishing the competition in all but one event. The latter will be a football game between the Penn State Freshmen and the Pitt Freshmen.

The freshmen football game will take place tomorrow afternoon, college classes being curtailed after 3:30 o'clock. The varsity game with Lehigh will take place on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and it will be preceded by the soccer game and the cross-country run.

Hot Off the Gridiron

There was a nip to the air yesterday that was welcomed by the Lehigh squad after several days of rain and unseasonably warm weather.

Coach Roper, of Drexel Institute, is working three squads until the Lehigh game, which will be held at the University of Pennsylvania at Sixty-third and Walnut streets.

Despite adverse weather conditions, the Brown coaches had the squad out in the mud and rain scrimmaging.

Haverford's gridiron prospects staggered under a severe test yesterday, when it was made in the scrimmage that the eleven men who appear above have been getting most of the signal drilling, which precedes and follows the scrimmage work each day.

Coach Mercer sent the Garnet eleven through a long workout yesterday in preparation for Saturday's game with Franklin and Marshall.

The big western Pennsylvania football classic will be staged next Saturday and will bring together the University of Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson College at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh.

The rest cure that has been prescribed for the Cornell backfield and some of the regular lineups for the last ten days or so is proving highly beneficial.

In the teeth of a biting November wind, Pennsylvania Military College varsity and scrumming squads engaged in a brief scrimmage on the college gridiron.

Fred Dawson sent the Columbia varsity through its hardest workout of the week yesterday afternoon in preparation for the Stevens game on South Field Saturday.

PENN SCRUBMEN GET REWARD THIS WEEK

Twenty-one Members of Allie Miller's Squad Will Make Trip for Dartmouth Game

TWO SPECIAL TRAINS

By EDWIN J. POLLOCK. THE Pennsylvania scrubs, the doormats of the varsity, receive their reward this week-end.

There's a group of young men at Ben Franklin's University who don't garnet jerseys and stockings and other football regalia daily and go out and scotch themselves on the gridiron of Franklin Field for the betterment of the varsity players. No one has a chance to make the first team and they know it.

The only excuse they have for being on the field is to give the big players practice. Most of them are slight of build; that is, slight as compared to the huskies of Folswell's squad, and they get knocked and shoved all over the place. They are the true disciples of the all-for-glory principle.

Scrubs Smite Seldom

There's never any credit given them unless they rise up and smite their fellow-footballothers in a scrimmage, but there's little of that these days at the Penn stadium. All of the smiting has been done by the varsity.

As long as football has existed at Penn it has been the custom to take the scrubs, coached this year by Allie Miller, along on one of the trips made by the big team. This year there is only one trip that comes this week to New York for the Dartmouth game Saturday.

Last year the treasury of the Athletic Association was as empty as a vacant house and about as hard to be taken on the journey to the big town. The entire varsity squad also will make the trip for the battle with the Green.

The Red and Blue football warriors take their last practice of the week on Franklin Field this afternoon, and then tomorrow morning the hop to New York will be made.

Two special trains have been arranged for to carry the Quaker students to the scene of the game. The first will leave tomorrow afternoon, and the second Saturday morning. The musical clubs will give a concert followed by a dance at the Hotel Pennsylvania tomorrow night, so that most of the students will leave tomorrow.

Some of the undergraduates intend to cut classes to go over with the team on the 10 o'clock train in the morning. In the Varsity that pranced through the signal drill yesterday were three players who did not start the State game. Jim Neylon had Herb Deiter's place at guard; Johnny Tizol was at tackle instead of Eddie Maynard and Danny McNichol was in the backfield in Bruener's position.

Deiter and Maynard both played with the second Varsity, but Bruener was held up by late classes and was not able to reach the field until near the end of the drill.

Folswell said he was still undecided about his line-up and probably would not make his final selection until tomorrow afternoon, when the squad works out at the Polo grounds.

SCRAPS ABOUT SCRAPPERS

By LOUIS H. JAFFE

'TIS to laugh—see, how, New Johnny Noye unblushingly has gone ahead and is telling the world and everybody that he is the lightweight champion. According to word from Denver, Noye bases his attachment to the diadem by reason of his questionable three-round foul victory over Lew Tender; also, because Benny Leonard refused to meet him at 135 pounds, ringside. The day following Tender's bout with Noye, papers in Denver printed statements by the club physician, a Doctor Mack, that after an examination it was proved Noye was not fouled, and the unanimous opinion of ringside experts was that the western man was knocked out by a body blow.

Today the following statement filtered into this office: "Kind John Noye suffering from severe bruise in right groin, Black and blue, and swollen, inflamed and extremely sensitive. C. A. Ellis, M. D., Either Doctor Mack or Doctor Ellis doesn't know his business, that's a clinch."

John Noye threatens to buy Lew Tender again. Here's what Noye is quoted as saying: "I am ready to go to Philadelphia and meet Tender in a return match, or any other place where boxing is permitted, and he will draw a big gate." He paid Willie Jackson a better boxer than Tender, and he says Lewis would flatten Lewis within five rounds. All of which doesn't mean anything—Noye.

Three different rings will stage professional boxing on the same night, beginning next Tuesday night, November 11th. The first started showing soon this week, and next week the Auditorium 3-A will enter the Philadelphia field with five bouts. Three bouts each are out on at the theatres.

'Sulek' Howard, heavyweight champion, has been scheduled to fight in Philadelphia. He will start a series of wrestling matches at the Gaiety Theatre, tomorrow night. He will take on Harry Kilduff, an A. E. champion, in a three-round contest, best two out of three falls.

Russell Mandler, a New Orleans middleweight, is in town. He has had sixteen bouts in all, and battling Levinsky was his last at Philadelphia. Jack O'Brien is training at Philadelphia with Joe Moran, who also is a contender for the Olympia, next Wednesday night.

Jack Malone will be out of the ring for several weeks. He has a broken left arm and several fractured right fingers.

Jimmy Wilde is expected in this country on Saturday. He will find a slew of little fellows awaiting him in Philadelphia.

Joe Thibault and Benny Valera may box in Boston, November 11, if the bout is consummated it will be twelve rounds to a referee's verdict.

Latest information is to the effect that the Benny Leonard-Jimmy Duffy fifteen-rounder, Tulsa, Okla., November 15, will be no decision.

Rat W. Holland—Longest fight on record, James Keith and Jonathan, six hours fifteen minutes, near Melbourne, Australia, November 1, 1912. Also Madison and Bill Hayes, five hours, London, England, July 17, 1910. Longest close fight, A. Bowen and J. Burke, 110 rounds, New Orleans, April 6, 1903.

Daily Reader—Jack Dempsey is 5 feet 11 1/2 inches.
