The tea will be given in the Acorn Club, which is a splendid place for accommodating a crowd of guests, don't you think? The large ball room with its old rose hangings and walls makes a most charming background for an affair of the kind. Then the back rooms are so admirably suited for the serving of "eats."

s my idea of giving a tea, no fuss or bother at home, all you have to do is go to the club and dress there, be-cause of course there are always flowers cause of course there are always flowers to arrange.

It really is marvelous the flowers that are sent to the debutantes on their ceming out day. It usually stops there however and is not, as in the days of our mothers, when girls went to every dance laden with bouquets sent by the men who asked for the cotillon, and for supper and for this dance or that. And when said girl of long ago danced she had to deposit all of said bouquets upon the lap of her chaperone. As at times one older woman might be chaperoning three or four girls, picbe chaperoning three or four girls, pic-ture where was chaperone when said girls were dancing?

SAW Mrs. Billie Hirst on Chestnut I saw Mrs. Billie Hirst on Chestnut street on Wednesday and she certainly did have a good looking hat. It was a small affair of fawn colored cloth or perhaps it may have been duvetyne, I was not very close to her, and it was trimmed well to the back with the most exquisite shade of dull French blue ostrich feathers I have seen for many a day.

It just suited her rather dark skin and black hair and she looked stunning. She was wearing a smart tailored suit and furs.
