

D'ANNUNZIO DEFIES WORLD OVER FIUME

Submission Means Servitude. He Declares in Defending His Actions

WILLING FOR MARTYRDOM

Rome, Nov. 11.—(By A. P.)—“Belgium, after suffering the horrors of ingratitude, Italy also is the victim of the ingratitude of men.” This spoke Gabriele D'Annunzio to the Belgian poet, Leo Koehnitzky, who compared D'Annunzio with his calm resolution to “the passion for sacrifice to ideals which animated saints, prophets and martyrs from St. Francis Assisi to Joseph Mazzini, the Italian patriot and revolutionist.” “The situation at Fiume changed profoundly after the refusal by the United States of the recent project of Foreign Minister Tittoni,” said D'Annunzio to Koehnitzky, according to the Belgian poet. “President Wilson rejected the solution suggested by Italy, which was insufficient and entirely disapproved by me. Besides this President Wilson replied with new restrictions. Only the illness which struck him down can explain, if not justify, his unprecedented bulldog opposition.” “The following, therefore, is the dilemma: Either Italy is disposed to submit accepting President Wilson's conditions, which would be equivalent to servitude or the suicide of a great power, or the Italian Government must renounce the mandate entrusted to it, declaring to the peace conference, ‘We cannot obtain the abandonment by the troops of Fiume, therefore, try yourselves to put things in order there.’” “With regard to me, the solution is most simple. I shall remain here, along with my comrades, with Fiume alone against the entire universe. We accept responsibility for our acts.” “If attacked we know how to defend ourselves strenuously. Fiume is ready to undergo martyrdom for all oppressed on earth. We shall fight alone against injury and injustice.”

We struck the vogue—for this is a shaggy, colorful season—with ulsters (not too long for town wear; very long for country wear), great coats, fur-collared coats; leather-lined and fur-lined overcoats—and the fur-lined has forsaken the black broadcloth shell for livelier, warmer goods.

We lead in montagnac overcoats—the luxurious Crombie fabric. $85.

And Yet, Thousands See No Appeal in the Big Coats, But Hold to the Chesterfield

Full silk-lined Vicuna-finished Melton Overcoats—black or Oxford gray—Chesterfield; velvet collar; fly front. Sizes up to 52.—$45.

You'll Probably Choose an Overcoat with Fur Collar

—otter, mink and Hudson seal are used. Worth while to be comfortable and stylish, too. $50 to $150.

Fur-Lined Overcoats $145 to $250

The shell or outer side of heather—mixed grays and greens—stuffs “livelier” and a bit warmer than the standard broadcloth.

We lead in big coats of Irish fabrics—using 11 percent of the import yardage of James Regan goods. There are twenty lines of overcoats of O'Brien woolens. $75 and $85.
Baltic Frieze makes great ulsters—and we've wind- and water-proof lined them. $35.
Patrick of Duluth is a wizard in woolens. We're using his fabrics in a line of wind- and water-proof ulsters. Priced on the yard weight of the fabric—28-oz., $30; 34-oz., $55; 42-oz., $70.

The Younger Men Favor Double-Breasted Suits

—state the proportion at 65 per cent for single-breasted. Each is equally “correct.” Here's a winter suit: Olympic worsted, weighs 18 ounces to the yard; double-breasted; a line of browns—and brown stands first in the man's color list.

Single-Breasted Suits, $30 to $75
