Women From $62.50 to $95

Beautifully tailored suits that a woman can put on to go to teas, the matinee or, in fact, any afternoon function with the satisfaction that she is well dressed. There are severely tailored models with notched collars to be worn with one's own furs. And from $65 up to $95 many of the suits are fur-trimmed or have small fur neckpieces.

You can count dozens of styles—several at each price—$62.50, $65, $75 and $95. Some are so new they are hardly out of their wrappings. The materials are all-wool—fine velours, silvertones, gabardines, tricotines, small novelty checks, Poirct twills, broad-cloths and English suitings.

One thing it is well to remember. Most of these suits would certainly have been higher in price earlier in the season. (First Floor, Central)

Practical Everyday Coats for Women-$30 to $57.50

Anything that is at once practical in style and moderate in price is of intense interest these days to a very large number of women. And here are three styles of coats which fill both those requirements.

A frieze coat with panels and big buttons at $30.

A silvertone cloth pleated and belted at $45.

A finer silvertone with panel back, side fullness and string belt, at $57.50. This one is lined all through with peau de cygne, and interlined.

Each of the three styles may be had in navy, black, green and brown.

And women who know fine gloves, know that the Reyniers have no equal-their skins are always of beautiful texture, and the gloves made with all the fineness and care which the French makers put into their gloves.

A Suit of Inlaid Walnut (Heppelwhite Period) 10 Pieces—Price $1!35

The inlay or paneling of this furniture, consisting of a superb burl walnut of rich golden hue, predominates over the darker American walnut, which is little more than a framing. The famous Prince's feathers, set within open circles, form the leading note in decoration and the latticework on the wide glass door of the china closet is unusually beautiful.

The curved-front buffet is 72 inches long.
