Nancy Wynne Speaks of the First City Troop Dinner Last Night, First in Several Years—Miss Ash-hurst's Tea—Other Items of Interest

WHAT a gathering that must have been last night at the Troop dinner! The first "annual dinner" of the troop since the armistice and return of the men in any numbers.

Of course last November 17 there was no dinner, for it was only six days after the armistice and most of the men were in France or in camps in this country.

For years and years the annual dinner of the First City Troop has been held on November 17. And the troops gather together about 5:30 in the afternoon and walk down Twenty-third to Walnut and down Walnut to Broad and back to the army by Chestnut street and out to the army in full dress uniform.

Did you hear that Gladys Earle had a daughter? Gladys Earle had a daughter, a son and a daughter. Isn't that nice? The mother and father are living in Wynnewood.
