Saturday in the way of new plays and these will be guarded closely until time for the game.

Captain MacDonald is ready to take bis old position at left guard and his presence adds greatly to the strength of the line. He got into the game against Muhlenberg Saturday in the last period. It was his first appearance in a month, but he does not seem to have been affected by the layoff. MacDonald's appearance will put Johnson on the sideline. The make-up of the backfield will be determined by the work of the men this week. Herrington at quarterback and Wysocki at fallback at present appear to be the only men sure to stay. There was much improvement shown today, however, after a half hour's instruction by the conches.

Hot Off the Gridiron

A LL of the Cornell football players with Penn State were given a muchneeded rest yesterday and only the scrubs took part in the opening plactice at Alumni Field. The coaches aimed to give the regulars a thorough rest before beginning a desperate drive for the Penn game on Thanksgiving Day.
This contest is the main event on the Cornell schedule, and if by any chance the Ithacans could triumph on Franklin Field the reverses sustained this year would be more than overbalanced,
in the opinion of the undergraduete body, though it is safe to say they will not be forgotten.

Franklin Field was calm and serone yesterday, with Coach Folwell's griding a much-needed rest. The Red and Blue players were ordered to forget football until Wednesday. Practice will be renewed then for the annual Thanksgiving game with Cornell.

Cornell.

All of Folwell's men came out of the game with Pitt in good shape. This is attributed to the fact that the gridiron was soft from previous rains, eliminating chance of injury.

Folwell intends to take his squad away from Franklin Field for several days before Thanksgiving, he said. The Pepn mentor did not say where he would go, but the retreat probably will be Pine Valley, N. J.

It is a pity Catholic institutions in Philadelphia are unable to get together and decide on an annual schedule, the same as in the Interscholastic and Interscholastic and Later and the Leagues, so that a definite title holder may be decided. As it remains now, one team claims the title, which usually is disputed by other decement.
