Two Important Catholic Contests Are Scheduled Thanksgiving Day Morning

X - COUNTRY CHAMPIONSHIP

By PAUL PREP

Two important football games stand out prominently on tomorrow's schedule, which is the final big card before the fall of the grid curtain on the local scholastic season. Both are Catholic matches and each will be played in the morning, starting about 10 o'clock.

West Philadelphia Catholic High School's eleven, following its stremuous 0.0 tie with Media High School last week, will line up against La Salle Prep on Strawbridge & Clothier Field. Catholic High's gridders will clash with St. Joseph's Prep on Cahili Field. This fracas is preparatory to St. Joe's con-test on Saturday here with Brooklyn Prep.

Prep.
Results of these morning games will have much to do in deciding the city's football Catholic champion for 1919.
There is no definite league schedule in Philadelphia and it will be a case of one team claiming the title.

South Philly at Lansdowne

South Philadelphia High's cieven, who finished in a tie for second place with Northeast High in the 1919 Inter-scholastic League race, has a big game on. The downtown Red and Black has on. Coach Dean Johnson's men may upset the dope, just as did Atlantic City High last week.

Another big battle is scheduled as the army alloped the local Base Harsday.

Another big battle is scheduled on the Main Line at Berwyn between West Chester High and Easttown-Treyfryn. The Inter cleven has had a successful season, while West Chester also has been playing a fine article of football. This is the annual classic at Berwyn. This is the annual classic at Berwyn.

MAKE GOLF BALLS INSTEAD OF MUNITIONS

Firms Can't Keep Up With Demand-Shower Isle With Millions of Pills

Those who have been bewaiting the setback that British golf has received from the war will no doubt feel a little better after hearing about the remark able boom which the game is enjoying on the other side of the Atlantic ocean these days and the way the manufac-turers are turning out golf balls, not by the thousand or tens of thousands, but by the million. It seems, in fact, that the British output of rubber cores at the present time rivals that for munitions during the last years of the great world conflict.

British manufacturers have informed their clients that by the early part of 1920 they will be able to make all the golf balls that may be required.

It is estimated that 7,000,000 golf balls are now being used in Great Britain.

In the last twelve months one firm has doubled its output for the twelve months up to August, 1914, yet while the latter supply was sufficient at that time the firm has not been able to meet more than one-third of the present de-mand for its makes. And this is said to be typical of other firms which have long produced popular brands of rubber cores.
