ence, are without employment. This situation was developed in the reports submitted by the employment officers on a roll call. K. M. Coolbaugh, representing the Pennsylvania State Employment Ser-vice, 1519 Arch street, offered to the legion the co-operation of that organi-zation, even to the extent of having the office open two nights each work to take care of requests of legion em-ployment officers. He pointed out that the demand for labor of almost every character far exceeds the supply, and character far exceeds the supply, and emphasized that there can be no rea-sonable excuse for men being out of work now.

"Tens of thousands of men were dis-charged at Canin Dix in advance of the refurn of the Pennsylvania division." said Mr. Coolbaugh, "and their homes were on the Pacific coast or in the Far West. They came to Philadelphia. lured by the stories of fabulens wages; they walked the street, broke, and finally took jobs only temporarily until they could obtain enough money to move farther on. The result was that a great many employers lost their keen-ness for the service man."

expressed the helief that one of them would remember the meeting. Mr. Lisle was returning to his home at the Waynewood Apartments when an automobile passed him. Then the car started to behave queerly. It came toward Mr. Lisle and circled him two or three times. Then it stopped. Mr. Lisle stepped forward thinking a friend was playing a joke on him. When Mr. Lisle reached the car a glistening re-volver was thrust under his nose and a voice demanded "hands up." "I hesitated for a moment." said Mr. Lisle, "but when I put my hands up I put one foot, out at the same time. It landed over the stomach of the high-wayman and he dropped his gun. The men then made off. I retreated to the house of a friend." HIS STORE will be closed on the day set apart by the President, the Governor and the Mayor as a Day of Thanksgiving. Throughout the City, State and Nation there will be a general observance of the day-in reverent recognition of the blessings bestowed upon us; in feasting and happy family gatherings; in healthful outdoor sports, and in wholesome entertainments.

The Thanksgiving Dinner is a wonderful American institution. Over all who partake of this day's feast there hovers a benign influence, a beneficent spirit-which, entering into all hearts, is called the CHRISTMAS SPIRIT; and the radiant face of Santa Claus has a fascinating attraction for everybody, even those who have been too busy to notice him until now.

And so, the four weeks from Thanksgiving Day until Christmas are weeks of smiles, and kindly thoughts, and generous impulses, and happy hurry and preparations for the MERRY CHRISTMAS DAY, when it's everybody's chief desire to make friends and loved ones happy!

The Store is ready for this great rush of GIFT BUY-ING-in fact, it has been ready for weeks, and holiday shopping has already begun in good earnest; but from now EVERYBODY WILL BE THINKING OF GIFTS, and this will be THE CHRISTMAS STORE until the children hang up their stockings. We have very large stocks in all departments, but many things will be sold out before Christmas, and it is more difficult to get extra supplies than in former years.

The Library Bureau card record desk is a combination desk and card file. The operator works seated. Within arm's reach are 16,000 to 24,000 cards.

Consider what this means: Minutes profitably spent in working instead of wasted in walking-no lost motion - no interrupting of other departments - the day's work more pleasurable because less tiring - a time-proved friend of Efficiency.

Business executives appreciate the value of the L. B. Card record desk. It helps to solve the problem :- " How shall I keep my records up-to-the-minute in spite of increased detail?"

You can use the L. B. Card record desk for any kind of card record :-- name lists, orders, quotations, stock records, ledgers, etc.

Come in and let us show you how it works.

The Story of Tin

In a previous advertisement concerning NU-DURA-TIN, we told, very briefly, of the manufacture of tin plates or terne plates first in Germany, later in Wales, and, finally, in America. We told how tin in some of its forms was used by the Germans for the making of pharmaceutical apparatus, such as stills, evaporating basins and infusion pads.

There are many other uses to which tin is put. It is used as a foil for the "silvering" of transparent plate glass in order to produce a mirror, and a tin foil for wrapping such articles of food or commerce as must be protected from deteriorating through contact with light, air or moisture-tobacco, cheese, chocolate and the like.

It is also employed for the coating of kitchen utensils, but only as a coating, since tin is an expensive metal. But how it came to be employed by man as the best form of roofing for his shelter is a very interesting story, one worth looking forward to in this series of articles concerning-NU-DURA-TIN Standardized Roof-
