

RADICALS BLAMED IN UNION'S TROUBLE

Expulsion of Art Weavers' Local Here From Labor Federation Laid to Few

MANY MEN RETURN TO WORK

Radical leaders of strikers in eighteen mills in the northeast section of the city are held responsible for the temporary expulsion of the Art Square Weavers' Union, local No. 910, from the American Federation of Labor.

A "strike committee" of the union, it is said, broke an agreement with the manufacturers that was to run until May, 1920, and made demands that were not met by the employers.

Intimidation, threats of violence to Frank McKosky, international vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, and other means are said to have been used by the radical group.

A number of workmen who petitioned the A. F. of L. to have the charter reinstated and certified their intention to return to work under the proposition offered by the employers, held a meeting at the Knitters' Hall, Fourth and Huntingdon streets.

has voiced his approval of our stand for a fair deal for the employer as well as the workmen. In this case the workers are in the wrong and we are trying to offer them back on the proper track. There are more back at work this morning than there were any day this week.

MRS. N. P. STAUFFER DIES

Wife of Lansdowne Physician and Sister-in-Law of Robert Wellist

Mrs. Nathan P. Stauffer, wife of Dr. Nathan P. Stauffer, 22 Violet lane, Lansdowne, died yesterday afternoon at her home of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mrs. Stauffer was unconscious for several hours before her death. She was a sister-in-law to Robert Wellist, coach of the University of Pennsylvania football team.

Dr. Stauffer also was a coach in athletics, having coached baseball and other athletic teams in this state and the South.

Mrs. Stauffer, who was the daughter of Mrs. Abraham Pennock, was formerly a member of the Philadelphia Y. W. C. A. and a member of the Lansdowne and All-Philadelphia teams she starred for several years.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Stauffer home.

Appointed to Phipps Institute
State Commissioner of Health Martin today appointed three Philadelphia physicians to the Henry Phipps Institute.

Dr. J. Marshall Sterling, 812 South Third street, was named assistant in the state tuberculosis dispensary at 1200 Locust street, and Dr. John D. Dugan, 1400 Spruce street, head of the tuberculosis dispensary.

Woman Dazed by Gas
Mrs. Emma Wilson, twenty-nine years old, of 129 Rittenberg street, turned the gas on in her bedroom yesterday morning shortly after her husband had left to spend the day at Wilkes-Barre, the police say. A half hour later she was discovered by a neighbor partially unconscious. She was taken to the Jewish Hospital.

Strikes Jimmy Rider: Gets 2 Months
Striking another passenger in a trolley who reconstrated with him when he refused to pay his fare in Camden yesterday, Jimmy Rider, 1816 Kosuth street, was arrested and given a two-month term in the Recorder's Workhouse. He was sentenced to two months in jail.

DR. KINSMAN JOINS CATHOLIC CHURCH

Former Episcopal Bishop Confirms Report—Isn't Studying for Priesthood, He Says

HE IS WRITING BOOK NOW

Dr. Frederick J. Kinsman, former bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Delaware, became a member of the Roman Catholic Church last Sunday in Portland, Maine, but is not studying to enter the Catholic priesthood. This information was contained in two messages sent by Doctor Kinsman to friends in Wilmington, Del., which were made public today.

In one of these messages Doctor Kinsman said he would have a book published, probably in the spring, but did not expect it would be the subject.

Dr. Kinsman said he had just received a letter from Doctor Kinsman.

"The letter came from Portland, Me.," said Mr. Curtis. "It was dated November 25 and read in part: 'Last Sunday (November 23) I was received into the Roman Catholic Church. I have made no plans for study for the priesthood.'

To another friend, Dr. Kinsman said: "I have not made any plans for future work and know nothing of the rumors to which the telegram refers. I have no expectation of entering

NO SUNDAY GASOLINE

Baltimore Enforces Blue Laws and Police Chief Warns Motorists
Baltimore, Nov. 28.—Automobilists are warned through an order issued by Police Marshal Carter for enforcement of the Sunday selling and work laws to supply themselves with enough gasoline to carry them over Sunday, since he regards his sale on that day as an act neither of charity nor necessity, which the laws exempt.

Automobile tourists who might run short of fuel within the city limits will be unable to replenish their supply. The grand jury recently ordered the Police Department to enforce the blue laws. No interference with the operation of street cars or the sale of newspapers, bread and milk is expected.

At HOTEL PENNSYLVANIA NEW YORK
WHEN YOU check out at Hotel Pennsylvania, whether you have been there for a day or a month, we want you to be sorry to leave.
If you do not feel that this big hotel (and it's the largest in the world) is as interested in making friends as in making money, we shall feel that we have not lived up to our opportunity nor our policies.
Because the first principle of Hotel Pennsylvania management is to operate on that basis: to appeal to discriminating people who want the best there is; to save time and annoyance for them by providing unusual conveniences; to add to their pleasure when in New York by surrounding them with thoughtful comforts. The "extra" convenience-features that have been built into the hotel's structure and equipment are only part of it; the hotel's business policy is to build lasting preference by working for it and deserving it.
Among other Things—
As an instance of the Pennsylvania's complete equipment, look at the two Turkish Bath establishments (one for women exclusively, one for men), each of which has its own swimming pool.
The beautiful "Butterfly Room," glass enclosed (a sun-room on the roof), is both novel and delightful. There's a good library, too, for the use of guests; and many other "special" features.
Every bedroom has private bath, circulating ice-water, "Servidor" (an ingenious device which eliminates contact with servants at your bedroom door), full-length mirror, reading-lamp on head of bed, and many other unusual conveniences. A morning paper is delivered free to every guest-room.
Statler-operated—in connection with HOTELS STATLER, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, and St. Louis
