MAN AND WIFE BURNED

Woman's Clothes Ignite From Fire Used to Singe Chickens Mrs. John Raymond, 2195 Wood street, was seriously burned about the face and body yesterday when sparks from a fire over which she was singeing chickens ignited her clothing. Her husband was particularly burned about the hands, feet and arms when, with two sons, he attempted to tear the burning clothes from his wife's body. Both were taken to the Hahnemann Hospital.

BOY KILLS FRIEND FIRING AT TARGET

Rifle Discharged by Accident While Youth's Chum Is Examining Mark

HEARTBROKEN WITH GRIEF

Mulford Cook, seventeen years old, 6211 Buist avenue, died in the University Hospital yesterday shortly after being accidentally shot in the eye by a companion playing with a small caliber rifle. The accident occurred on a vacant lot near the Cook home. Cook and Frederick Mahler, sixteen years old, 6217 Buist avenue, were shooting at a target. The rifle was the property of Cook. Cook was examining the target while Mahler loaded the rifle. The trigger accidentally fell and the cartridge exploded, the bullet taking effect in Cook's brain, entering through his right eye.

Mahler summoned help. The patrol of the Sixty-fifth street and Woodland avenue station made the long run to the University Hospital in a very few minutes, but the injured boy died just after being admitted. Mahler is being held by the police to await the action of the coroner. The boys were constant companions, having been chums ever since starting school. Mahler is heartbroken over the accident.

Open the Chestnut St. Shops One of Philadelphia's most successful shops, that of Macdonald & Campbell, 1334-36 Chestnut street, is pictured above. Macdonald & Campbell, formerly located at 916 Chestnut street, took possession of this store October 11, 1919, and have built up a very prosperous business in a remarkably short time.

Delora Square A GIFT that holds always a pleasant memory of the giver is the hall clock with its sweet-toned chimes, which mark the passing of the hours.

IF YOU haven't already acquired the gift-basket habit, it would be wise to begin this Christmas, for never have there been such truly lovely gift-baskets of fruit as there are this year at the store of Henry R. Hallowell & Son, Broad street below Chestnut. It is a store where there are nightly feasts in this city, or any other, for that matter (and you know that Hallowell's gift-baskets are being delivered perfectly to other cities), who wouldn't be overjoyed upon the receipt of such a delectable present.

EVER since I saw the gift sets of Pyrex glassware at the store of J. Franklin Miller, 1612 Chestnut street, I have been wishing that I could spend my days in the practice of eating out. I am still hoping that some one will see fit to bestow upon me a Pyrex pie dish, for one of my secret ambitions is to be able some day to bake a good pie. My chief difficulty now is that the crust disappears, and I feel that if I could see it in the act I might be able to remedy the distressing habit.

BEING a bachelor girl is enjoyable enough most of the time, "I'm," confided the girl in the perfectly tailored suit to a friend who was lunching with her at Cheri's. "Now, one time when it isn't at all enjoyable is breakfast time. I hate cooking breakfast and I hate washing breakfast dishes."

THE soft sheen of pearls against the filmy draperies of a dance frock or the sumptuous beauty of a dinner gown of black velvet is the touch that brings a costume very near to perfection. A necklace of Fresslyn pearls with a natural clasp set with diamonds, which I saw at the store of I. Press & Sons, Chestnut and Eighth streets, 1017 Market street and 909 Market street, would make a most acceptable Christmas gift.

NO WONDER men give so much thought to the color and quality of their ties, since the tie is the one bright spot in their otherwise somber garb. I was looking at cut silk ties at the store of Marshall & Bush, Inc., 1018 Chestnut street and 115 South Thirteenth street, and discovered that selecting a necktie to harmonize with a brown or a green or a blue suit isn't the hard task that I had imagined it when you have such a variety of styles from which to choose as that carried by Marshall & Bush.

Several months ago the cannon was broken by youths who lifted the gun and allowed it to drop, breaking the cast-iron axle and allowing the gun to fall to the ground.
