Nancy Wynne Tells of the Strubing Tea Today-Morning Musicale at Eleven O'Clock-Plans for Charity Ball Next Week

ELIZABETH STRUBING, daughter Jack Mason, Roy Bookemayer, Fritz of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Strubing, Freeman and Jack Portee. of Chestnut Hill, will make her debut Elizabeth, Among them will be Mar-garetta Sharpless, Sarah Harrison, Kathleen Ritter, Mahel Reid, Persy, Graham, Peggy Ferguson, Deborah Logan, Augusta Stewart, Evelyn Smith, Carolyn Valentine and Margaret Dallett. A dinner dance at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, for the receiving be: Mary Wister, Frances Wister, Parks of Dick.

carelyn Valentine and Margaret Dallett. A dinner dance at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, for the receiving party and additional debutantes and men guests, will follow the tea.

This new shade of ferra cotta is certainly the rage. It has rather a cofter tone than that used so much in the spring, and is very becoming to those who have fair enough counters long to stand it. I saw Mrs. Henry Pepper Vaux wearing a wonderful frock in that color the other day. The skirt was made of narrow pleats and the bodice was handsomely embroidered. A narrow girdle of the material was tied loosely about the waist. Her hat was a wide brimmed, dark blue cloth affair, topped with a high tam 'o shanter of terra cotta, embroidered much as was the bedice. It was most becoming to her.

TODAY there was the second morning musicale at the Bellevue-

Ing musicale at the Bellevue-Stratford with Frances Alda as the soloist. I never have seen anything like the crowds this year. Why, they have a double row of boxes in the balcony of the ballroom and downstairs, where the chairs are, they have arranged boxes all around the room be-tween the pillars, eighteen in all. I think, besides numerous seats from the stage back the whole length of the room. I suppose because the war is over we feel that we can, with clear conscience, give time to listening to fine music for an hour or so on a Monday morning and so we all go. The next musicale will be on the fifteenth.

as in the case with the Hatter. And so it was not always tea time.

The other afternoon at the tea the Stotesburys gave for Madame Clemenceau-Jacquemaire they had a very long table at one end of the room covered with one of those wonderful linen and lace cloths, and every one sat down and drank his or her ten and ate his or her sandwich and layer cake, and then got up and went on into the next room or down to the other end of the room, while the other guests sat down in the vacant places. It certainly was far more comfortable than at most teas.

Among the guests who will attend the human volume, the well-known characters will step from the book and, ferming into groups give exhibitions of dancing. Aside from the four original groups of dancers which represent the four beneficiaries, a special feature has been introduced. Known as the silhouette dance, where modern dancing to the popular jazz music will be introduced. The white satin costumes silhouetted in black of this group will be most attractive.

The leaders will be Alva Sargent. Theodora K. Lillie. Brice Blynn and Kenneth Kennedy, while the dancers will include Katherine Z. Ogden, Margaret Dallett, Ellen Glendinning, Mary garet Dallett, Ellen Glendinning, Mary garet Dallett, Ellen Glendinning, Mary

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

By THE way, I forgot to tell you the latest thing in the way of entertaining at the tea is to seat your guests.

A marriage of interest and importance which will take place this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, is that of Mrs. John L. Wentz and Mr. Lewis Audenried, of On the order of Alice and the March that tea party, as it were, only the cups are washed between times, as nothing had happened to any one's watch, as in the case with the Hatter, And so it was not always tea time.

in the vacant places. It certainly was far more comfortable than at most teas.

I remember hearing a woman remark once at a wedding breakfast (it was in the days of chamuagne): "If we were only monkeys with prehensile tails we could hold our plates with one hand, our fork in the other and the wine glass with the third appendage." Now, you know, that would have been a help, wouldn't it? But we are saved that worry, now that prohibition is in the land, are we not?

As the rehearsals progress for the land, are we not?

As the rehearsals progress for the evening of December 11, at the Academy of Music, many nowelties are being introduced, and I think it will be very beautiful and original. The dancing is under the direction of Charley Morgan.

The stage setting will represent a large book, behind the covers of which will be fictitious characters beloved by all, from Alice and the Mad Hatter to the heroes and heroines of tragedy.

As a page turns the leaves of this human volume, the well-known characters will step from the book and, ferming into groups give exhibitions of dancters at the stage setters will step from the book and, ferming into groups give exhibitions of dancters at the stage and the well-known characters will step from the book and, ferming into groups give exhibitions of dancters at a wedding breakfast (it was in the theatre party on Monday.
