

THE WAY JUST MARKETS BOARD

Declares if Commission is Quarrelsome or Ineffective It Should Be Changed

IS UNDECIDED ON NEED

There is a possibility that the present city market commission will become nothing but a memory after Mayor-elect Moore sets in harness at City Hall.

Conflict of opinion has interfered with the progress of the commission for some time and matters have been brought to a crisis over differences regarding the operation of 10 per cent profit stores.

Asked to comment on the market commission situation today, Mr. Moore said, after some hesitancy:

"I like to see as if it were a question whether or not the commission should be continued. If the commission is quarrelsome and ineffective, it may be necessary to make a change under the next administration.

"Generally speaking, of course, whatever is done along that line should be done for the public good and not for private gain. I am not sufficiently posted as to whether or not the market commission is a good or a bad thing. We will take that matter up when we get into office. As a rule it is not good practice in a city or a government to engage in business, but there may be times—as, for instance, during the war—when it would be justifiable.

RUSH FOR AUTO SHOW SPACE

Annual Exhibition Will Be Held From January 10 to 17

Drawings for spaces at the nineteenth annual automobile show, to be held in the Commercial Museum Building, Thirty-fourth street, below Spruce, January 10 to 17, under the auspices of the Philadelphia Automobile Trade Association, were made this week at the association's headquarters.

The drawings for the passenger car show are bigger than ever before and even a revision of the floor plan failed to remedy the crowded conditions.

Through the new display arrangement, however, a splendid frontage for each space is given and spectators will benefit by the change.

There will be forty-seven different exhibits, displaying sixty-seven different makes of cars, as against forty-seven and fifty-seven last year. A total bonus of $3500 above the floor space charge was offered for preferred spaces along the main aisle.

Spaces can still be obtained for non-member necessary exhibitors at one end of the hall. Application should be made to the Trade Association, Broad and Callowhill streets.

PHILADELPHIA GIRL ARTIST HAPPY, WON ACADEMY PRIZE

Miss Susan A. Jones, Daughter of Music Composer, Realizes Cherished Aspirations After Struggle Which Began When She Was Small Child

Miss Susan A. Jones was awarded second prize in the Lee drawing competition at the Academy of the Fine Arts today, and in consequence is one of the happiest girls in the city.

Fond aspirations of her whole life have been borne out in reality, and past successes and recognition, both of which she has received, seem to her only secondary beside this newest honor.

The first prize was won by John Henry Cressman, of the Massachusetts Normal Art School. The first was $300 and the second, $150.

Miss Jones is the daughter of Vivian Paul Jones, 3845 North Park avenue, a music composer. Her parents believe that some of her artistic ability is an inheritance. At any rate, all her life she has been interested in work along artistic lines.

She had her schooling at the Chester Springs Academy, and attended the School of Design for several years. Later she went to the Academy of the Fine Arts. This is her second year at the academy. She is a Philadelphia product, never having followed art either abroad or elsewhere in this country.

Her mother, when asked if Susan had any "hobbies" other than art, laughingly threw up her hands. "Anything more?" she cried. "How could she? Susan has been wrapped up in art since drawing since she was a girl and she has struggled all her life to achieve definite success along such lines. She has won scholarships and 'honorable mentions' for her work before, but this is her first real prize and she is naturally overjoyed."

The competition, which is designed to encourage fine draughtsmanship, was established three years ago by Charles M. Lea, of this city. Not more than two drawings may be submitted by any student who is regularly enrolled in any American art school which has at least two instructors. The drawings must be of the human figure, singly or in composition, and done in pencil, pen or hard crayon, and the decision, which is made by the jury of the annual water-color exhibition, must be based on the precision, accuracy, proportion, detail, simplicity and picture quality of the drawings submitted.

FIRE DAMAGES HIGH SCHOOL

Collingswood, N. J., Building Blazed After Minstrel Show

A spectacular fire threatened to destroy the E. C. Knight High School, Collingswood, N. J., shortly after a performance of several hundred men, women and children last night.

Woodwork in the hall auditorium, the stage and the piano were badly damaged and a quantity of scenery was destroyed. Seats in the meeting room were charred.

The fire occurred just after the audience that witnessed a minstrel show by members of the Tatem-Shields Post of the American Legion had left the structure. This happened about eleven o'clock.

The damage was not great in money value, but for a time the school building, which is valued at $300,000, was threatened with destruction.

After an investigation, Collingswood authorities said the fire probably was caused by a lighted cigarette thrown into some scenery.

GIDEON MADE HEAD OF EDUCATION BODY

League of Compulsory Attendance Officials Makes Appeal for School Coal

HIGHER PAY ALSO IS URGED

Henry J. Gideon, director of compulsory education in Philadelphia, has been unanimously elected president of the National League of Compulsory Education Officials. The report of the committee on nominations was read at the Bellevue-Stratford today, and with but a single exception was adopted unanimously.

Charles A. MacCall, of Newark, N. J., for three years president of the league, was made an honorary president for life. Elizabeth M. Conery, Chicago, first vice president; Charles Acorn, Peterson, N. J., second vice president; Frederick Hies, Louisville, Ky., third vice president; Arthur F. Lederle, Detroit, Mich., secretary; James R. Cannon, Providence, R. I., treasurer, and Mattie Ryan, St. Louis, publicity secretary.

George D. Stoeckel, of Reading; Austin Miller, of Harrisburg, and Miss Ruth Jones, of Wilmington, were elected members of the executive committee.

Closing of schools through lack of fuel caused by the coal strike would encourage truancy and force children on the streets, league of officials declared. It urged prompt government intervention in the coal situation.

The league is holding its ninth annual session in the Bellevue-Stratford. The concluding session is being held today. Numerous resolutions were voted upon.

The attendance officers are dissatisfied with the title "truancy officer" conferred on them in some cities. In a resolution the members said they preferred to be known as schoolchild welfare workers.

The members approved of a "family court" plan whereby parents of juvenile delinquents would be brought into court along with their children.

Approval was expressed of the Americanization plans used in schools throughout the country. The use of English only in the public schools was recommended.

A resolution declared the average salaries of $200 a year paid attendance officers in the District of Columbia. It was agreed that the league would cooperate with attendance officials at the capital for better salaries, petitioning Congress if necessary.

The convention ended this morning and an expedition to Valley Forge followed.

EDUCATE MANICURISTS

Day of 'Vamp' is Done and Well-Cultured, Refined Substitute Trained

Standardized jobs about the poor English and lack of ideas of Mamie, the manicure girl, will soon have to be discarded by the jobsmiths. For hereafter girls learning the art of manicuring at the Trades School for Girls will have to take a course which includes instruction in English, history, civics and other subjects, in addition to domestic arts.

Miss Helen Beegle, new principal of the school, will establish a course in English. She is convinced that the cultured manicurist is more successful than the old-fashioned type, who had to depend solely upon her "ramping" powers to win customers. Before coming here Miss Beegle was principal of the Manhattan Trades School for Women, New York.
