JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Tells of the Jeffords' Ball for Tonight. She Anticipates a Brilliant Sight at the Charity Ball on Thursday—Other Bits of Chat

OF COURSE, the opera will attract many tonight, and then there will be the ball which the Walter Jeffords will give at the Bellevue-Stratford for Mary Norris. Mary is the daughter of the Richard Norrises, and a cousin of Mrs. Walter Jeffords, who was Sarah Fiske, you know. Her mother was Miss Dobson, a sister of Mrs. Sam Riddle. After her death and her father's second marriage, Sarah lived most of her time with the Riddles. She married Walter Jeffords about six years ago.

When Lisa Norris came out the Jeffords and Riddles gave a ball for her. Do you remember what a wonderful affair that was? There were some features of that ball which cannot be carried out at this one. However, there's no doubt that tonight's party will be beautiful as can be.

I have quite a case on Mary Norris. She's so dainty and cunning without being "too cunning." You know there's a happy medium in all things, and Mary is just a dear. I told you yesterday what a good-looking dress she had on at the Supper Club on Saturday night.

But that is not to be marveled at, is it? It would be more of a marvel if any one with Dobson blood did not know how to dress. You know Mary's mother was Miss Sarah Dobson, a sister of Mrs. Thomas Jeffries. Mrs. John Norris, Mrs. Dobson Altemus and Mrs. Arthur Spencer. Mary is the only daughter; she is named for her grandmother, Mrs. James Dobson. Mary and Lisa Norris are "German cousins," as John and Richard Norris are brothers and their wives are sisters.

It's a funny thing, but all through the Dobson family, from the grandparents down, two sisters have married two brothers. John and James Dobson married two sisters. Their daughters, Sarah and Maria married the two Norrises. And their oldest daughter, Mrs. Jeffries' two daughters, Mary and Amanda, married Albert and Harold Rosengarten.

It is funny how those things go in families sometimes.

Mrs. Norris will receive with Mrs. Jeffords this evening, and there will be a number of dinners before the ball. The Tom Dolans will entertain for Sarah, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sill Clark will give a dinner for Betty Welsh.

TOMORROW night there will be the George B. Evans dance for Elizabeth Boyd at the Bellevue, and on Thursday night there will be the Charity Ball. By the way, there are to be a number of box parties at the ball, and that adds greatly to the looks, don't you think?

Among those who will entertain in said boxes are Mrs. Edward Stotesbury, Mrs. William G. Warden, Mrs. Thomas Leaming, Mrs. William J. Clothier, Mrs. Harrison Morris, Mrs. Bertram Lippincott, Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer, Mrs. Thomas De Witt Cuyler, Mrs. Robert Glendinning, Mrs. George Lorimer, Mrs. J. Franklin McFadden, Mrs. Harry B. Rosengarten, Mrs. Lewis A. Riley, Mrs. George W. Childs Drexel, Mrs. Edward C. Dale, Mrs. Horace Howard Furness, Jr., Mrs. Norton Downs, Mrs. Charles E. Howell, Mrs. Samuel Vauclain, Mrs. Ellis A. Gimbel, Mrs. Arthur H. Lea, Mrs. Cyrus Bergner, Mrs. Clarence Dolan, Mrs. Pope Yeatman, Mrs. James Large, Mrs. John F. Lewis, Mrs. Charles T. Vaughan, Mrs. Ira Vaughan, Mrs. John F. Combs, Mrs. Eldridge Johnson, Mrs. Robert F. Whitmer, Mrs. George Fales Baker and quite a number of others.

DR. AND MRS. GIUSEPPE BASTIANELLI, who have been here for about two months, expect to sail for home tomorrow. They have been staying with the Henry Laussat Geyelins the greater part of their time here, as Mrs. Bastianelli is a sister of Mrs. Geyelin, you know. They have been honor guests at a great many entertainments and have had a wonderful visit, according to Mrs. Bastianelli.

Week before last they went down to Baltimore for a short stay, and came back here on Monday, and have been at the Geyelins since that time.

WASN'T it fun to see the snow again on Saturday night, even though it was only a weeny glimpse even in the country? But Mary, you know, had never seen it before. In the first place, there was no snow last winter, and the winter before that Mary was too wee to remember about. For even now she is not yet three. Well, she was delighted on Saturday, when she looked out of the window at the white road, and she called excitedly to Brother, who is about a year and a half old: "Oh, Fankie, come quick, and see the milk all spilled in the road."

NANCY WYNNE.
