

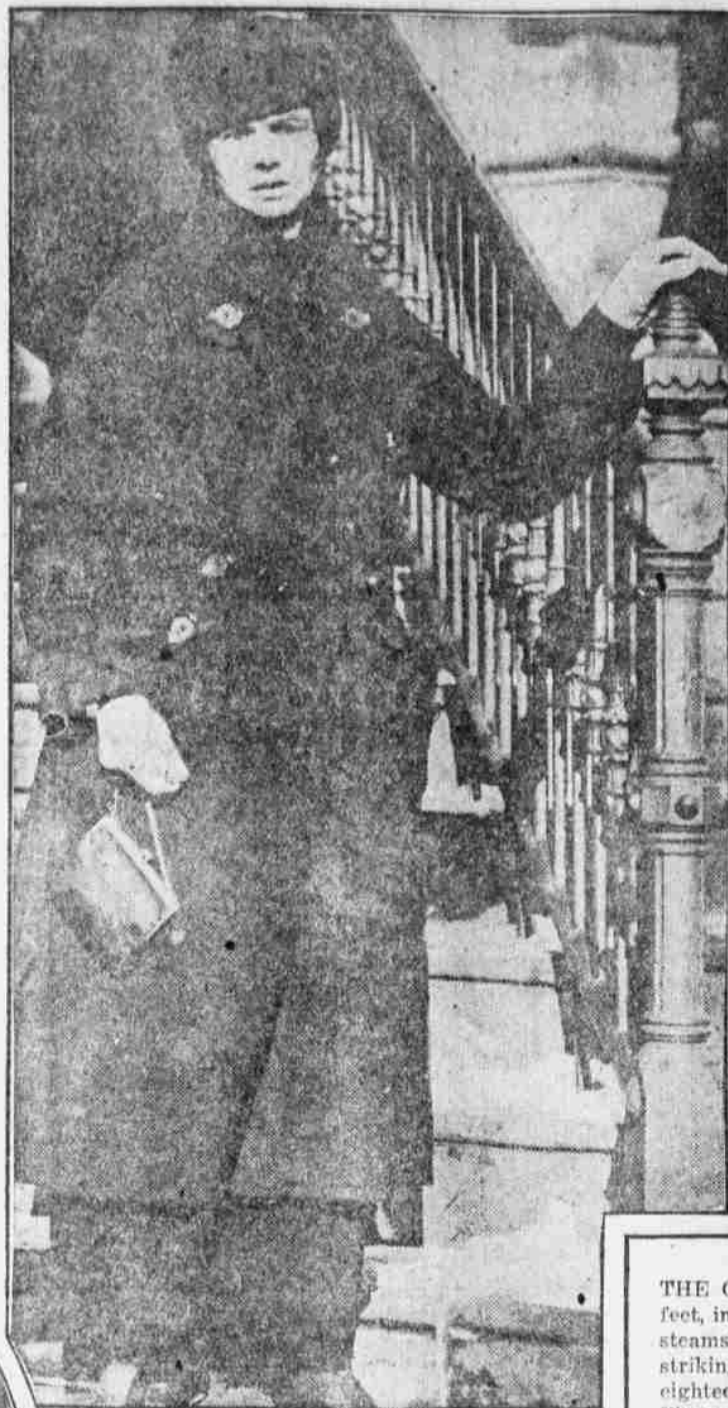

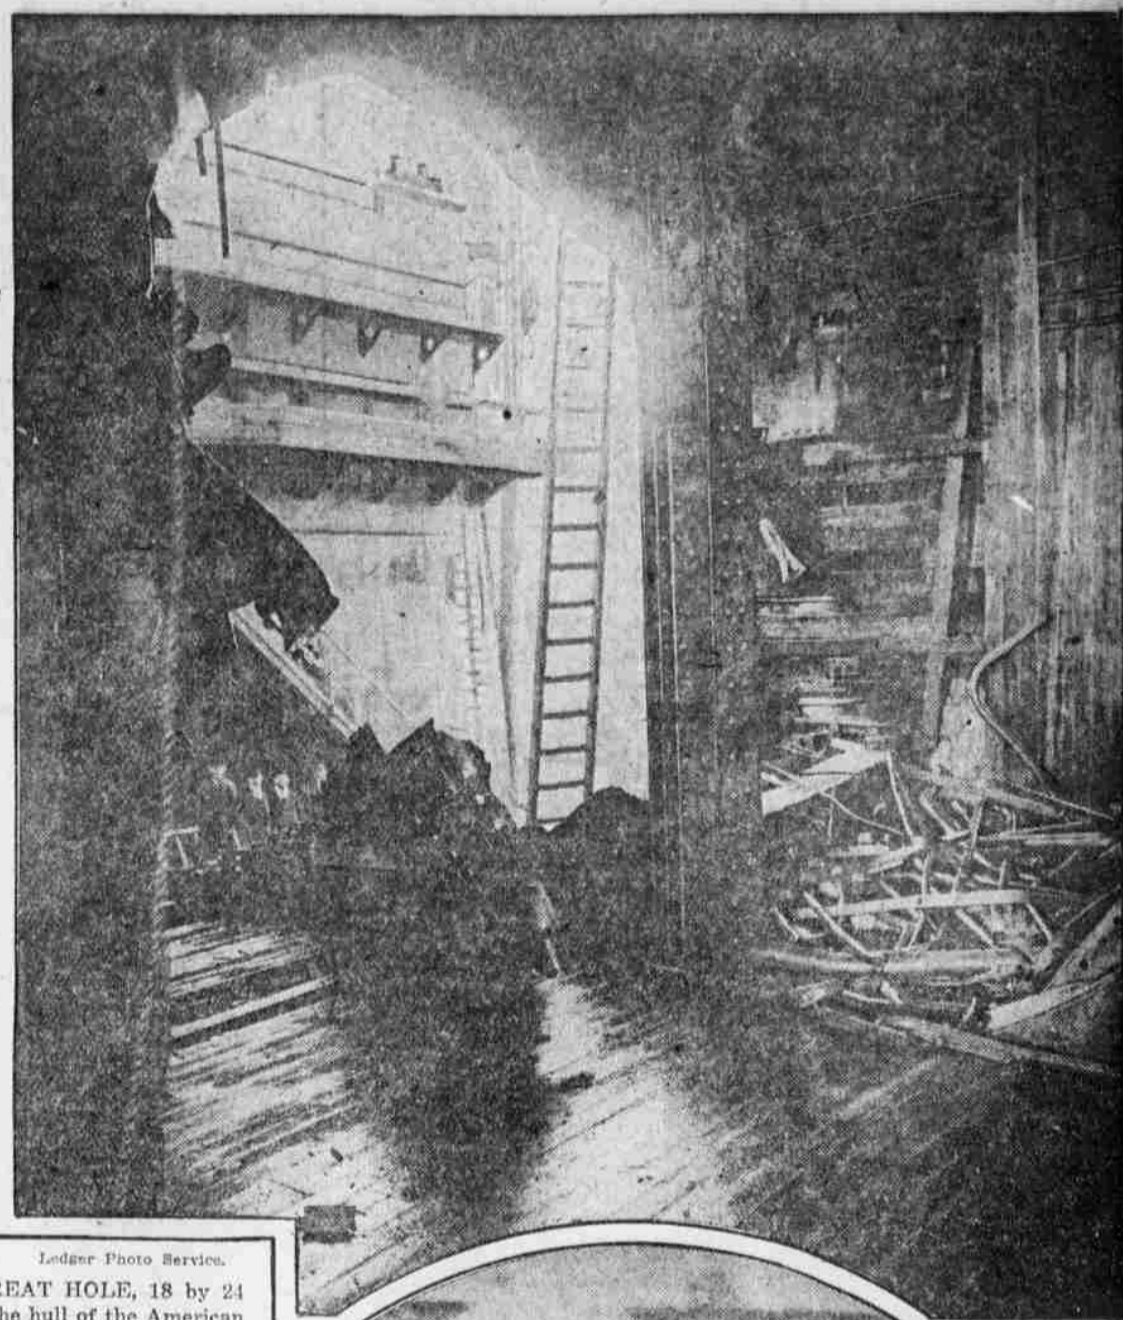

Figures in Doylestown Trial : Mine Hole in Steamship : Eton's Wall Game : Time for Sleds

CLARA BARTEL, sixteen-year-old girl, on trial for her life at Doylestown, Pa., accused of killing her father with a shotgun last August at their home near Edgewood.

MRS. ROSE BARTEL, mother of Clara. It is alleged the young girl shot her father when she feared he was about to attack her mother during an altercation.

THE GREAT HOLE, 18 by 24 feet, in the hull of the American steamship Ouimba, caused by striking a mine when about eighteen miles out of Hamburg. The vessel was able to make its way back to port, where the gap was repaired.

JOSEPH HEALD, of Bucks county (at right), bondsman for Clara Bartel. After the shooting the girl was released in the custody of the probation officer of Doylestown.

NEIL GIRL, ridden by Threlfell, falling after clearing a jump at the Newbury (England) races.

THE LITTLE red sled gets its initial try-out of the season. Youth mobilized swiftly at the first real snowfall of the winter.

FASHION DESIGNERS work space. This smart venter is a new note in spring neckwear. It is fashioned in white net and baby Irish lace and Irish crochet buttons. Bows and girle are of black satin.

HOLDING THE BALL against the wall is the great feature of the well-known Eton College wall game. The contest is witnessed by the spectators from the top of the structure.

THE BEAUTY CORNER

MISS KATHERINE BUCK, 1633 North Eighteenth street, Philadelphia. Photographs for this back-page feature should be submitted through the mail, addressed to the Beauty Corner, EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER.