Evening Bublic Tedger PUBLIC LEDGER COMPANY CTRUE S. K. CURTIS, Passisson Garlie H. Ludineton, Vice Presidenti John Strin Scoretary and Treasurer: Phillip S. Coll and B. Williams, John J. Spurgeon, Director

HO2

JOHN C. MARTIN General Business Manager olished daily at Pustio Leroza Building. Independence Square, Philadelphia Pric Citr. Priso Union Ruilding Yosk. 200 Metropolitan Tower ort. 01 Ford Suilding 2005 Fullerton Ruilding 20. 1502 Fullerton Ruilding

NEWS BUREAUS: WARHINGTON BURRAU, N. E. Cor. Pennsylvania Ave. and 14th Yaw Yong Burgau, The Sun Bulld London Burgau, London Tim

BUBBCRIPTION TERMS BUBCRIPTION TERMS Branches Prosto Landam is served to sub-s in Philadelphia and surrounding towns towards (weive dis) cents per weak, payable to the carrier. By mail to points outside of Philadelphia. In the United States, Canada, or United States pos-sessions, postage free, filly (50) conts per month. Six (80) dollars per year, peyable in advance. To all foreign countries one (81) dollar per Norics Subscribers wishing address changed must give old as well as new address.

BELL, 3000 WALNUT KEYSTONE, MAIN 3000

C. Address all communications to Evening Public Ledger, Independence Square, Philadelphia,

Member of the Associated Press THE ASSOCIATED PRESS is exclu-sively entitled to the use for republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper, and also the local news published therein AR rights of republication of special dis-patches herein are also reserved.

Philadelphia, Friday, December 19, 1919

THE DEBT TO CAMPANINI

YOME Philadelphians will remember O Cleofonte Campanini as the manager of the opera company which used to divide its time between this city and Chicago. The memory is pleasurable; but it is imperfectly reflective of the highest algnificance of the man.

Mr. Campanini, in addition to being a conductor of conspicuous abilities, was a tireless foe of cobwebs and dust in music. As such he naturally appealed to Oscar Hammerstein in the momentous days of the opera revolt. Modern musical Europe had donned a lustrous new artistic mantle. America knew of it chiefly by hearsay.

With the resourceful Oscar's unique talents to back him, Mr. Campanini revealed the glow and dramatic sincerity of "Louise," the splendor of "Samson et Dalila," the wistful subtlety of "Pelleas," the irony and passion of "Thais," the surge and thunder of "Salome." It was his genius which quickened these scores with life, incorporated them into our musical standards, revivined grand opera, glorified its potent development into music drama.

Philadelphia and New York alike owe to the energy and artistic vigor and initiative of the late conductor un fncalculable debt. His influence is stamped for good in the record of operatic progress. It is hardly imaginable that the picturesque Hammerstein could have justified his proud boasts of accomplishments without the aid of the discernment, the zeal and constructive force of Cleofonte Campanini, producer of more new works than any one in our operation history.

The two men, although their association lasted but three years, formed a remarkable pair indispensable to an extraordinary and wholesome revolution in American taste.

It is significant that Mr. Campanini, Dr. Horatio Parker and Signor Illica, the latter the co-librettist with the late Giacosa of "La Boheme," "Tosca" and "Madama Butterfly," died within a few days of each other. The trio are typical of a notable era in music, one of the spochs of artistic refreshment that come all too rarely.

their parents to disregard the nation's and provide for their judges, while it would permit the Legislature to create claim to their affection and loyalty would think nothing of uttering a pompous lie if diplomas depended on it. And until petty courts or to abelish them at its discretion. America undergoes a great change for It would grant to the Legislature the worse it will continue to have the power to legislate freely within certain love and loyalty of nine hundred and well-defined limits and it would forbid it to legislate on certain matters the conninety-nine out of every thousand school trol of which the people wished to keep children whose instinctive sense of patridirectly in their ownshands. otiam could not be helped or hindered by And it would assure to the cities of the phrases made to trap such other children state the kind of home rule enjoyed in as are unfortunate enough to have er-Michigan and Ohio, where, under clearly ratic parents. expressed regulations, each city may

GIVE US A CONSTITUTION. NOT A BODY OF BYLAWS

The Revision Commission Has an Oppor tunity to Do a Great Public Service

If It Will Embrace It THE constitutional conversazione at to spend their time in a body that is I Harrisburg is busying itself with hamstrung and hobbled by a multitude such matters as seem important to the twenty-five ladies and gentlemen participating in it.

capability of a people to rule them-A committee has deliberated upon the elves by their elected representatives. visdom of inserting in the fundamental And it would at once raise Pennsylvania law a provision that all bills must be to the front rank of progressive states, punctuated before they are passed. The free to legislate in accordance with the case has been argued with the calmness spirit of the times. which should prevail in polite society. The arguments for and against the propo-The whole tendency of constitutional sition have been seriously weighed and revision for a generation has been in the the conclusion has been reached to let opposite direction. It reached its depth well enough alone. James Gay Gordon of degradation in Oklahoma, where the carried the day when he said that if worst hodge-podge of silliness ever conpunctuation were made constitutionally cocted is now serving as a horrible exobligatory it might be possible "to hang man on a parenthesis."

is was grieved to discover that there really was a limit to the consideration of trivialities beyond which his fellow

Other evidence that the limit exists in upplied by the refusal of the ladies and gentlemen to set themselves up as experts in English composition. The suggestion that the literary style of the constitution be improved was rejected unanimously. We do not assume that this was because the revisers do not appreciate literary excellence. It must have been due to their belief that such popularity as the constitution is to have with the reading public must rest upon the substance of its thought rather than upon the beauty of the form of words in

It is reassuring to discover that the guests at the Governor's kaffee-klatsch are not planning to add to the number of petty provisions in the constitution.

This is true in spite of their lack of authority to do anything that is final.

Even the Governor himself admits that their function is to engage in amiable conversation and to report to the Gen-ral Assembly a summary of what was fulfilling the first part of their func-

Nothing that they can or will do will have binding force on any one. The on the discretion of the men-voters or bosses-who give orders to the legis-

But the members of the commission ions admirably.

lators.

which that thought is dressed.

evisers would not pass.

ample to the rest of the nation. But the ladies and gentlemen at the When Gifford Pinchot, the greatest con-Harrisburg conversazione do not thus stitutional expert among foresters, sugfar seem disposed to do anything but rested that something be done to make admire the Oklahoma example. it impossible for the General Assembly to kill a bill by sending it to what is inelegantly called a "pickling committee,"

MR. PALMER'S JOLLY FIX

IF A. MITCHELL PALMER is not the unhappiest attorney general in history he ought to be. Once it appeared that Burleson was to be the official martyr of the Democratic administration, the bearer of all blame, the stoic taker of punishment. Lansing is yearning toward that role, but his progress is relatively slow. McAdoo has drifted close to the stake on several occasions. But he gets away.

draft its own charter and may amend it whenever amendment is desired by a

Such a constitution, increasing the majority of the voters.

Mr. Palmer is not so astute. He is going-indeed, he has gone-straight to the altara of sacrifice. He is in a position now where blame for all the woes against which people cry out and all the consequences of the recent brilliant series of cabinet mistakes will almost surely fall terribly upon his defenseless head. It is pretty generally admitted that the coal strike injunction was a shy and timid idea in the cabinet until the attorney general took it out walking and made it his very own. And it is even more definitely and more generally admitted that as a means for a strike settlement, as a means to eliminate unrest.

to pacify unions, to make friends for Mr. Palmer or his party it was a failure, aid about the table. The guests are utter and complete. Now the attorney general is to be ummoned before a Senate committee of inquiry, which is supposed to be interested in the details of the coal contro-General Assembly will receive the reversy. Senate committees of inquiry port and place it on file. Whether it have become something of a bore. Too ioes anything else will depend entirely often they do not inquire for facts or for truth. They inquire for political issues. The senators are now upon a warm trail. They will have little trouble in grilling unhappy confessions from Mr. could do something, if they chose, that Palmer if they press him hard enough. Already some of the sterner critics of would command the attention of every thinking man and woman, not only in the administration are calling shrilly Pennsylvania, but in every other state. for Mr. Palmer's resignation. They point The constitution at present is a body out, shrewdly enough, that failures and of bylaws, binding the Legislature and listakes of method and policy as great as those that may be traced to the attorney general's office would compel the retirement of any high official in any other parliamentary government. This is sad business for a man who was thinking only a little while ago of the

WHY OUR SKIES ARE CLEAR

W. B. Ahern Says Electricity Turns the Trick-Attorney Kauffman Has Offices in Two Hemispheres-Bromley Wharton, Cook

By GEORGE NOX McCAIN

WE NOW know why Finance of other free from the smoke nuisance of other oftion. William B. Ahorn tells the story. The former magistrate was not so many years ago a shining light in municipal politics. He was addressed as "Judge" and had a big political club named after him. That was in the old days.

nowers of the Legislature, would inevita-For more than fifteen years he has been interested in the development of the city's electrical facilities. He is a district manbly raise the standard of that body. It would attract to it men who now refuse ager now and knows all about conduits. amperage, kilowatts and all the complex of constitutional provisions conceived in technicalities of the trade. But as to the distrust and born in contempt of the clear skiea! It's electricity that is responsible. Not in the air, but on the wires and in the workshops, mills and factories. It is replacing steam. It takes black smoking chimneys to generate white steam, and steam, according to Mr. Ahern, is going out of date.

He tells me that no industrial establishment of any account is built now without equipment for electrical installation. Hundreds of concerns are using it now where lozens used it before.

And the number is increasing. Practically all light manufacturing plants use electricity; especially is it true of "loft" where / light muchinery is industries inployed.

And we are only upon the threshold of the electrical age, according to the judge.

DR. FREDERIC RASMUSSEN, secretary of agriculture, is the finest example of the opportunities this country offers to the born-abroad citizen that I recall.

Twenty years ago Doctor Rasmussen arrived in this country with nothing much but the groundwork of a dairying experience gained on his father's big farm in Hals, Denmark.

He had to master a fluency in the English language and gain a knowledge of American ways. He had a clever shill, however, that got him a job as bridge carpenter for a western railroad. That was a

After a year he went back to his first ove-the farm. For two years he worked at dairying, meantime going to winter school in Iowa. It must have been a rough experience, but it was the making of the future secretary.

It isn't necessary to go into the details of his educational career, for after graduat-ing from Iowa State College he became an instructor at Purdue University, then an assistant professor at Iowa State,' and reached a full professorship when he went to New Hampshire State College.

It was while he was professor of dairy iusbandry at Pennsylvania State College that he got into war work. The armistice came just when he had his passports ready and was about to sail for France. The Red Cross had appointed him to establish dairies at the base hospitals for the Amer ican expeditionary forces.

After that came his appointment as secretary of agriculture by Governor Sproul.

A N AMERICAN attorney at law with of-fices in Yokohama, Kobe and Tokio, Japan, and New York, and who divides his time between the four cities, has what may properly be described as an "extended practice.

James Lee Kauffman sailed from these shores the other day for his office in Tokio. He is the head of a law firm there, one member of which is a distinguished Japanese awyer, the other two being Englishmen. Mr. Kauffman is the only American awver practicing in Japan. He is, for this reason, the representative of all the leading American corporate interests in Japan, and so closely are these rican and Japanese interests united that

THE CHAFFING DISH

When the Road Winds OH THE joy of the winding road, With the sunrise in your face, When the path's a-glitter with jewel'd snow, And fairy, frosted lace!

OH THE joy of the winding road. U In the noontime's ardent heat, When the gold of Indian summer days Weaves fancies, summer-sweet!

OH THE joy of the winding road U In the sunset's after-glow, Where the cloudlets now like anaw-white lambs Acress the crimson go

O^H THE joy of the winding road. With the starlight in your face,

When the old Moon-man plays peek-a-boo With the baby stars a-race.

THE DOUBLE CROWN

MAN must rouse, with no deferring, Swiftly ride, with constant spurring,

Loudly knock the door of Fate

Would his hones gain full fruition;

For the guerdons of ambition,

Lordly wealth and proud position,

Only with the foremost mate.

World applause havond all measure

Fevered cup that will not sate,

He must win it ere he's weary, Ere old age hies bleak and dreary;

If not, life's end well may fear he Even within a palace gate.

Cafe for Sale and he think it will great behind a Movey Screen. As I feel that he is a Real Red Blooded American and Seams to be so interested Maybe he is harmless explosive and if he is game. I am 100 per Cents American so let us talk Business let him Soil that Picture for a Reasonable Price and he can receive 30 per Cents for his energy

I need the money for Christmas and to help Buy New uniforms for my Team. GEORGE M. VICTORY Manager The Pennsylvania Giants

Harold Lloyd Should Be the Sinister Son Dear Socrates: I hasten to submit a movie proposition to the Dish. Having seen "Male and Female," I feel sure that Sir James and

But dreams he of what is higher. That grows lovelier with desire, Lady Datey are planning a transference to the screen of "The Young Visiters" and as "Twill not wither if he wait? For, defying hosts infernal, movie-fan supreme you should help them out on the cast. Of course you will want Doro-thy Gish as Ethel Montione. Bernard might be awarded to Lou Tellegen or Eugene Crown of both worlds, grand, eternal, Love, alone, sublime, supernal -Only Love comes ne'er too late.

FRIENDLESS MOTORS

TRAFFIC will move more easily and more quickly in the central section of the city if the rigid parking restrictions urged by the P. R. T. are applied to motors. But what of all the people who find motorcars a necessary convenience second only to the trolleys? A man who drives to his work or his business cannot put his automobile in his pocket. He cannot take it indoors with him.

There is a suggestion of clumsiness and inefficiency in the rule that would put all motorcars under a "keep-moving" rule between Girard avenue, South street and the two rivers.

The Bureau of Highways, the police and the P. R. T. should recognize the legitimate rights of motorcars and find a way in which parking space may be provided at convenient places under police protection, if it is necessary, and even if other traffic has to be diverted. There is space on the Parkway. Some of the cross streets could be used downtown. Trolleys have rights, but that doesn't mean that automobiles have none.

MORE ATROCITY

LONG labor and loving care were de-voted to the expansive understructure of General Word's campaign for the Republican nomination for the presidency. The structure of hope built from that foundation presented ornate and expensive facades. It looked charming in some lights. Pious hands were still busy at it yesterday, the bright towers were going farther toward the sky when the shattering reverberations of the announcement of General Pershing's candidacy made the earth tremble.

The sense of horror and outrage that must have swept architects, landscape gardeners, decorators and devotees in the service of General Wood may be imagined by some. We prefer not to dwell upon it. We prefer to turn our gaze away from the ruin of another great work of art.

One thing, however, is all too plain, In France Black Jack appears to have been converted wholly to the doctrines of frightfulness.

LIP PATRIOTISM

SENSIBLE people will applaud Doctor Garber for his refusal to see anything admirable in the plan of the public school athorities in New York to exact "pledges of loyalty" from all graduates.

dges of that sort mean nothing. The suggestion is in bad taste. Patriotany that begins and ends with words is poor thing and we have enough of it without encouraging it in the anle he few children who are taught by the courts, preventing freedom of action and fastening upon the processes of government the hobbles placed there by distrust in the honesty and efficiency of the men elected to office.

At least two-thirds of Article III, dealing with the powers and duties of the General Assembly, is made up of matter that has no proper place in a constitution. The rules of procedure in handling bills are laid down. It is provided that every bill must be referred to a committee and must be printed; that every bill must be read at least three times on different days in each house before the final vote; that no bill may be amended by reference to its title only. but that such part of the law as in amended must be re-enacted and published at length, and that the presiding officer of each house shall, in the presence of the house, sign all bills and resolutions passed. These are admirable provisions, but they properly belong in the statutes and not in the constitution. There is nothing like them in the federal constitution, yet these processes are substantially the same as those by which laws are passed in Washington. The federal constitution confers _ertain powers on Congress and then trusts it to exercise those powers honestly and in the public interest.

The men who framed that document had faith in democracy. It distributed the governmental functions among the legislative, executive and judicial departments and it empowered the legislative body to make such detailed regulations for the exercise of these functions as it saw fit. The constitution of this state contains not only a body of bylaws for the General Assembly, but it also contains a brief code of procedure for the courts. even to the extent of providing specifically for the chief clerks. The petty magistrates in this city are constitutional officers and, although their functions can be better performed in other courts, it is impossible for the Legislature to abolish them without an amendment to the constitution. Now, if the commissioners would set about the task of drafting a state constitution with the federal constitution as a model, discarding the form of the present document and turning their backs upon its multiplicity of contradictory and confusing provisions, they could do something which would justify their activities. Such a constitution would provide for the fewest possible state officers, while giving power to the Legislature to create such new officers and departments as circumstances should from time to time make advisable.

It would establish the principal courts | accent on the "was."

presidency.

WHAT POLICEMEN THINK ABOUT IT IS fair to suppose that a little needed wisdom would have trickled into City Hall if councilmen, the director of public safety, the Mavor himself and all others who have felt that a policeman ought to be a happy and efficient citizen at a wage of three-fifty a day, had to stand on the windy corners yesterday and, with the temperature at zero, direct traffic. look after the safety of children and absent-minded shoppers and wonder, meanwhile, how he was to frame up a happy Christmas for the folks at home.

Thr be it from any Rights and Privileges wise man, any cau-tious man, to deny a woman's right to serve on a jury. But one hesitates to think of what might have hap-pened if women shoppers had been picked up in the streets of Doylestown, as the men were, and made to serve in a murder case. Which causes us to suggest that the law be amended to give women the right to serve with the privilege of refusal.

There are rumors abroad that Lane and Lansing are to leave the cabine! But what the country needs to make it. Christmas a happy one is the positive information that Burleson has handed in his resignation and that it has been accepted.

Unless Poet Laureate Bridges takes over Heigoland, Britishers will probably think D'Annungio's example in Fiume has gone for naught.

In the matter of the return of the railroads there appear to be very many trains of thought, but none of them running on schedule.

"He who steals my pulse steals trush, but he who robs me of my good spirits makes me poor indeed."-Bryn Mawr reading of Shakespeare's famous lines. Recent police activities to the contrary notwithstanding, it is not seriously contended that a fence is necessary to keep one in the political fold. -----

Just as soon as the President and Senator Lodge quit making faces we may expect something worth while.

Attorney General Palmer will perhaps win higher marks as an optimist than as an economist. Wassall is now pronounced with the

Mr. Kaufiman, on his return in a few months, will establish an office in New New York with his Japanese partner in charge The Yokohama and Kobe offices are in care of his partners, and each month Mr. Kauffman spends part of his time in these diffes.

Jomes Lee Kauffman is a Philadelphian. He went to Japan some years ago as assistant professor in the law department of the University of Tokio. He is only thirty-four years of age.

No ONE who knows Bromley Wharton, secretary of the State Board of Charities. former secretary to Governor Pennyndrker. member of the City Troop, etc., would ever think of him as a cook. Moreover, he was cook for a Governor and high state officials once upon a time.

It was this way : During the session of 1905 a choice collaction of legislative souls, among whom were Senators James P. McNichol, John M. Scott, William H. Keyser, Speaker Harry Walton, Israel W. Durham and others, took over the Boas mansion on North Front street, Harrisburg, as an abode, They invited Governor Pennynacker and his private secretary. Bromley Wharton, to dinner one night. At the last minute they discovered that the cook had been sampling the wine instead of her sauces and gravies The canvas-back ducks were a crisp and the other edibles were fit only for the garbage can. Fortunately the oysters, the oup and the salad were intact. Then the Governor came.

Bromley, who accompanied the Gov rnor, was hurriedly let into the agonizing secret. The next instant the Governor's carriage was whirling down to the Harrisburg Club, where every available roast fowl was commandeered. Then on to Jin Russ's Senate restaurant, where the icebox gave up more, in addition to a couple dogen of croquettes.

Then the equipage dashed back to th Bons mansion, and Bromley dashed from it into the kitchen with his provender; cook's apron around his waist; croquettes on the fire; roast chicken chucked into the oven; swift and fancy carving; and lo! in fifteen minutes the day was saved, though the soup was then on the table. Mr. Wharion came in with the roast and seated himself modestly at the board while the blessings of his hosts, whom he had saved, mingled silently with the sparkles of his champagne.

You see he had learned to cook as Trooper Wharton in 1898.

As an addition to the high cost of living. the luxury tax is comparatively insignificant compared to the strike tax; for we can avoid the first by avoiding luxuries, but the other, of indeterminate amount, is added to every thing we buy.

The Reds who plan to parade in New York on Christmas morning with manacles on their wrists will arouse sympathy in the breasts of the populace less frequently than the wish that the handoulfs were genuine.

OH THE joy of the winding road

That will lead at last to them-The Mother-Maid, and Her Babe new-born, The Road to Bethlehem !

SISTER MARY DONATUS.

Those booming General Pershing for President seem to be superstitious. They begin by knocking Wood.

Brief Tractate on Education Considering the well-known Versity twins, Ad and Uni, it is our opinion that Uni offers a good education, but Ad insists on one's getting it.

Sounds Like the Senate After altercations are completed, will reopen for business. -Sign seen in West Philadelphia.

Who's Who In Japan

We are going to try to buy a copy of that "Who's Who in Japan." as we don't want to have to go out to the U. of P. Library every time we need a quaint paragraph. In the meantime, here are some more excerpts :

KAWAI, KOZABURO: post of new style. KAWAI, KOZABLEGI DOR'D DATA DA ANDA editor of the Joshi Bundan, a literary magazine for women readers. Horn May 1876. Studied in the Waseda University. He had a special taste for poetry when he was young and came to Tokyo in 1904. WAKAMATSU, TOKUHEI: proprietor of the Futami-Kwan Hotel Born 1844 Married Fusa, daughter of his father-in law. He has endeavored for the prosperity of Futami and the people of the town built a Hotel at the next of the Futami-Kwan Hotel to express their thankfulness to him in 1866. So he is managing two hotels.

SHIGENO, KIYOTAKE: Baron, aviator. Born Oct. 1882. Studied of aeroplane in France. 1911-12; invented and manu-factured a new styled aviator; besides, he France. is known as a skiliful musician. Address; French Aim; in European battlefield, Europa.

FUKUNAGA, BUNNOSEKE: Proprietor of Keiselsha, a Christian bookstore. Born 24 Dec. 1861. When he was 16 years old his family began to decline, so that he himself had to work hard and went to Kobe to recover his lost fortune. He came Robe to recover his lost fortune. He came up to Tokye to fulfill his ambition and started a bookstore. He is now putting his soul and heart into the publication business.

A year ago, in a hopeful and publicspirited way, we busied ourself to devise a number of epitaphs for the kaiser. Mr. Hohenzollern has not yet done what was expected of him, but still our mind reverts to him now and then and we are keen to give him a fitting send off when the time comes. One epitaph we rather relished was : Here lies one whose name was writ in slaughter.

And that suggests another paraphrase :

He is a portion of the hatefulness which once he made more hateful.

Doings in the World of Art

Dear Socrates: I notice that one of your wide a Wake Client Mr. T. N. T. Spied my ad advartising my Oil Painting at Waison

O'Brien. "Mr. Salteena nad dark at mustache which was very black and twisty. He was middle-sized." Beyond a perad-venture, Charile Chaplin, only he'll have to forego his derby for a silk hat. I am un-decided as to Queen Victoria's sinistor son, also the noble lord who introduces Salteena into high life. Won't you suggest? M. V. N. S.

A U. of P. man has written to its suggest-ing that the staff of the Punch Bowl be given the task of running the Dish for one day. If that means a day off for us, why not?

Chaffing Dish All-Stars

We have been looking over our files for the last year, and it occurs to us that it is about print the annual line-up of the time to Chaffing Dish all-contriba eleven. This is the way it looks to us: Left end-RICHARD DESMOND. Left tackle-ALEC STEVENSON. Left guard-ROY HELTON. Center-ROBERT L. BELLEM. Right guard-BEATRICE WASHBURN. Right tackle - BESSIE GRAHAM'S

FRIEND. Right end-PHOEBE HOFFMAN. Quarterback-HARRY LEVENKRONE. Laft halfback-WILL LOU Right halfback-SUB ROSA. Fullback-WILLIAM MCFEE (Capt.) Our substitutes would be chosen from the following squad. Several of these are can didates for the first eleven, but have not been present at practice quite often enough : Corinne Rockwell Swain, J. M. Beatty, Steve Meader, Francis Carlin, MacKnight Black, Phoebe Foster, Samuel Minturn Peck, Harrison Hires, John Crowe Ransom, Warwick James Price, Helen U. Atkinson, Floyd Meredith, Dorothy P. W ggins, M. V. N. S., C. H. A. F., Horace Hook, Winifred Welles

Comments on the Team

and Tony.

With a team like this a great variety of ground-gaining plays can be pulled off with assured success. Note particularly the powerful left side of the line, where our stubborn realists and satirists play. On the attack, this trio is ne plus ultra. Our idea of a good mass play, when near the goal line (that is to say, near the bottom of the column) is to give the ball to William McFee and have him hit the line between left guard and left tackle. The right side we save for more romantic forays, lyrical end runs and the emotional forward pass. When there is any serious sentimental work to be done we can count on Phoebe Hoffman for admirable interference, and Sub Rosa has been known to carry the ballad for consistent gains into the hearts of the enemy. If anything should happen to Captain McFee, MacKnight Black M. V. N. S. is another recent addition to the squad who will bear watching, and her ingenious method of running back puns and dodging in a broken field shows her to be a player of great promise. Mr. Bellem in. on the whole, our steadlest all-around performer. We can hardly imagine the Dish former. We can hardly here. in the status quo ante Bellem. SOCRATES.

After all, the denatured mince, pie will bly be as digestible as its livelier pre-

Minturn Peck, in the Boston Transcript.

One thing in Hoover's favor as a presidential possibility is that he has talked no politics.

What Do You Know?

QUIZ

- 1. What year, above all others, was awaited in the dread belief that it would mark the end of the world? 2. What is the largest city in Peru?
- 3. Whom did Andrew Jackson urtually name as his successor in stne presi- dency in much the same way as Rooseveit named William H Tatt?
- 4. What novel by Rudyard Mipling has two different endings? 5. Who was Daniel O'Connell?
- 6. Who was king of the fairles in medieval
- mythology? 7. What is a hereditement?
- 8. What is the opposite of ortholoxy? 9. Name four modern Scandinavian languages,
- 10. What Presidents of the United States were inaugurated in Phitadelphia?

Answers to Yesterday's Quiz

- 1. Benito Juarez was a Mexican liberal politician of pure Indian blood. He was a prominent opponent of the Emperor Maximilian and rightly claimed that he had been regularly elected president of Mexico. After the fall of the Austrian intruder, Junrez reentered Mexico City and was re-elected president in 1867 and in 1871. He died the following year.
- 2. In a duodecimo book, each leaf is one-twelfth the size of the printing sheet, 3. Knox was the middle name of James K.
- Polk. 4. Dr. Samuel Johnson, as reported by Boswell, said "Wine makes a man better pleased with himself. I do not say that it makes him more pleasing to others."
- 5. The Age of Pericles very nearly corresponds with the life of Paricles, the celebrated Greek statesman and orator. a prominent factor in the greatness of Athens in the days when her statecraft and art reached the pinnacle of their merit Pericles died 429 B. C.
- 6. The breadfruit grows on a rather slender tree, thirty to forty feet high. It is of the order of Moraceae and a native of the Pacific islands and the Indian archipelago.
- 7. Nevada has the smallest population of any American state.
- The word levee is derived from the French word "lever," to rise.
- 0. The complete title of Charles Dickens's "A Christmas Carol" is "A Christ-mas Carol in Prose, Being a Ghost Story of Christmas." The second city in Cuba, according to the census of 1916, is Camaguer. 10 m.A.