Bridgeton, N. J., Dec. 20.—After being out all night the jury in the case of John Mohr, of Millville, was brought into court at noon yesterday and discharged by Judge Fithian, being unable to agree. It is reported that eight were for acquittal and four for conviction.

Mohr is charged with receiving automobiles stolen in Philadelphia and selling them, knowing them to have been stolen. Roscoe C. Ward, prosecutor of the pleas, says he will try the case again as soon as there is an opportunity.

MOHR JURY DISAGREES MARKET HOPEFUL

ket were violent and apparently erratic, although, as it turned out, quite in the keeping with the speculative position. The hope that the rise in the first half of the week might prove to be a definite turn in trend, based on measures taken abroad to stabilize rates, was not realized. The subsequent decline, while it did not cancel all of the gain achieved, was scarcely less pronounced, particularly in sterling and francs. The fact seems to be that the long drawn-out reaction had been too fully utilized by the speculative element and had gone much too far.

AT YULE SEASON

WHEAT Recepts, 47.317 bushels. The market was unchanged. Following were the quotations: Car lots in export elevator, government standard inspection, standard priess—No. 1 red winter, $2.36; No. 1 northern spring, $2.30; No. 1 hard winter. $2.30; No. 1 red winter, $2.31; No. 2 wheat, 3c under No. 3c wheat, 10c GRAIN AND FLOUR

There was good buying in the first hour of today's short session of the stock market, and prices were generally higher within moderate limits. Trading enjoyed intervals of animation, but transactions on the whole were not large.

Perhaps the most interesting feature in Wall street was the violent rise in the foreign exchanges, particularly in sterling, which at the outset gained nearly 7 cents the pound sterling at the 11 francs to the dollar level, that is to say, at 10.82. Life were up 11 points at 13.17 lire to the dollar and marks recovered 4 points to 2.10 cents the mark. Neutral rates were virtually unchanged.

BUSINESS NOTES

While admitting that there are plenty of overcoats in the clothing market, manufacturers have various ways of looking at the surplus. One stated that it was a natural condition at this time of the year. Others professed to see no ill-effect to the trade because of the accumulation. Buyers will appear, it was said, who will be glad to purchase quantities which will be carried over to next year.

While the shortage of dress goods exists, according to a mill representative, there will be many garment manufacturers who will prefer to have their tive, there will be many garment manufacturers who will prefer to have their profits come from the resale of goods rather than from merchandise that they manufacture out of such goods. He explained that, once the scarcity is at an end, these manufacturers will have to return to their accustomed trade, with the result that more competition will develop in garment making than has develop in garment making than has been the case for some time.

Copper Situation

stated that there always is a price at which copper can be sold. After the metal was effered down about five cents a pound, approximately to the level of average production costs, the mining companies were able to sell knough of the metal to relieve themselves of any necessity of appealing to the banks for assistance. In view of the uncertainty of the general outlook managements of mining companies felt that it would be mining companies felt that it would be unwise to continue operations on bor-rowed money.
