Each season many models of hats, suits, evening frocks and coats are launched, and no one knows just which one in each class will make itself pre-launched, and no one knows just which one in each class will make itself preceminent.

It may be that you are in need of a wrap—something that you can wear in the afternoon or for less formal affairs in the evening. The first thing to remember is that the smartest wraps are simple. In fact, the type of wrap that has wen out is actually plain. Yet it has the right look, that indefinable something that makes the woman who wears it look at once elegantly and suitably dressed. There need be no metallic trimming about it, no lace or estrich or hand embroidery, no expensive fur—and these things have all been heralded before now as this season characterizing some of the smart wraps.

I am showing you in the picture the mort of wrap I have in mind. It explains itself. There are the essential details—up-and-down siceves, shoulder yoke, straight line of material that gives the slight bulge through the middle and the whole terminating midway between ankles and knees.

If you are ambitious enough to imagine that you can devise this yourself or with the aid of the dressmaker by the day, it may interest you to know that if you are slender you may make the wrap of material fifty-four inches wide, using the one width. This straight piece may be gathered either to a shoulder yoke or to the wide straight piece that forms the collar.

Argues With Judy

Dear Cynthia-Please print to Judy Your side of a good debate is fine; but, because no one knows who I am, Now I'm going to argue with you just to increase my knowledge on this subject, To begin with: Do you know what love really is? No, of course not, neither do I, but I follow the old phrase, "Love is a ticklish feeling around the heart that cannot be scratched."

What enuses a man to ask for a kiss

What causes a man to ask for a kiss on a short acquaintance? I've had lots of experiences with all kinds of girls and there are some that I would not ask and others that I cannot help asking, and still some with whom I go so far as to take them in my arms and just kiss them. I know the latter sometimes don't want to be kissed. Their minds balk, but their lips yield. As I said, I've had lots of experience and can read their characters, But I never take advantage of that. liar I never take advantage of that, for most all girls want to do right.

So, my guide is the girl's actions at the dance or show or wherever it may be. In my light, it's the way the girl acts that makes the man of short accomplishance ask for a kiss.

The best thing to do is to insert an advertisement in the help-wanted columns, stating just what you want. Save all your Christmas trees, after the trimming is taken off, and use them as decorations for your party. Instead of balls and tinsel have them abloom with pink-and-white popcorn and stick it on the end of each branch. With a dozen of these trees you would hardly need any other decorations, but if you do, you could make a canopy effect of pink-and-white crepe paper in strips and have lattices of it on the walls.
