State and City Might Finance Project, He Says, but Favors Private Capital

NOT SO SURE OF HOG ISLAND

Philadelphia's efforts to provide dry-docks for the vessels coming to this port will receive all possible support from Governor Sprunt, he said today.

DOCKS FOR RYRROCK

"I have wanted to see a drydock built at Chester," said Governor Sprunt, "but the great cost of such an undertaking has been a barrier."

DOCKS FOR RYRROCK

"The state and city might unite in providing funds," he said, "but I would much rather see the project carried out by private enterprise. The great shipbuilding companies in and around Philadelphia might favor building the docks."

DOCKS FOR RYRROCK

"Hog Island has been suggested as a location for the docks, but I am not sure that it would be the best place."

DOCKS FOR RYRROCK

"It is unfortunate that controversy has been injected into Philadelphia's discussion of the drydock plans. Controversy may cause enmities and feuds which would be injurious to the city."

DOCKS FOR RYRROCK

"Mr. Stotesbury probably has many projects submitted to him, and if he refuses to invest in any one of these he might be accused of blocking the undertaking, a charge which would be unfair, if supported only by the fact that he has not seen fit to make a certain investment or to advise his friends to do so."

Seattle Gets Philadelphia Capital "However, it seems to be true, as has been stated, that distant places, even as far away as Seattle, are able to get the backing of Philadelphia capital, while enterprises here wait for support."

DOCKS FOR RYRROCK

"But I do not wish to be drawn into any sort of controversy. We will far much better without that sort of thing."

DOCKS FOR RYRROCK

The Philadelphia Board of Trade, in a statement made public today, declared that a new drydock in the port of Philadelphia would be a paying investment.

This directly controverted the statement of officials of the Cramp Shipbuilding Company, which concern maintenance of a drydock.

ART BUGS AZZ

AT BRILLIANT BALL

Everything From Grasshopper Hop to Bees' Knees Shiver, Is Exemplified

DOCKS FOR RYRROCK

The art bugs and the "shimmy" bugs and the plain or garden variety of bugs all crawled out for the big ball at the Philadelphia Academy of the Arts in the ball room of the hotel.

DOCKS FOR RYRROCK

The ballroom of the Academy was painted and decorated as a sort of impressionistic garden with imaginary chickens and waving blades of grass the size of trees all along the walls.

GIVE FIRE ALARM Bluecoats' Unusual Methods Rouse Woodland Avenue Veterinarian to Sense of Danger

ROUGHER ATTEMPTS FAIL "Your house is on fire, sir, and we thought perhaps you would like to know about it."

Two polite patrolmen, each with cap in hand, thus informed Dr. D. B. Fitzpatrick, a veterinarian, 3245 Woodland avenue, this morning of impending danger.

Before they could give the information it was necessary for the patrolmen to break several windows and force open the front door.

Doctor Fitzpatrick was indignant. The police said. He looked at the wreckage and declared all unnecessary. He contended that there was no real undue excitement, as the fire was on the exterior of the house.

Before breaking the door the patrolmen first threw stones at the windows, shouting and cut all sorts of capers to weaken the physician. According to Patrolman Mullin, all these antics were of no avail. There was no sound within. Nothing could be heard but the crackling flames, which were encircling a front window.

Therefore thinking it would be unwise to write the doctor a letter about the fire or inform him through an ordinance officer, the patrolmen, and his partner decided to force the door. It gave way after repeated assaults on it made by the patrolmen, both of whom are of heavy displacement.

The fire caused a great loss. It was believed to have been started by a cigarette thrown on the window sill by a passerby.

Condition of Highways

Reported Fair to Good Condition of highways this morning as reported by United States Weather Bureau, co-operating with the State Highway Department.

Lincoln Highway (Trenton to Chambersburg): Fair to good; yesterday's snow now partly melted and the rest on the roadway will be cleared away today.

Philadelphia and Reading Pike: Fair to good; somewhat more snow toward Reading.

Lancaster and Harrisburg Pike: Mostly good surface, considerable snow remaining, though not enough to hinder traffic anywhere.

The weather will be warmer with probably rain, which will cause improved roads to become more muddy. Winds will increase tonight and continue brisk on Thursday.

BOARD ON ETHICS PLAN OF EDUCATOR

Dr. Chambers, of Penn., Says Association Should Watch Conduct of Instructors

A commission on professional ethics will be named to operate under the Pennsylvania State Educational Association, if the association accepts the suggestion of George Galley Chambers, of the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Chambers, who was president of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association at Central High School today in one of the sessions of the state association's convention.

Dr. Chambers explained Doctor Chambers would arrange for any investigations deemed necessary and study the various problems of professional ethics arising from time to time.

Dr. Chambers also advised that all appointments or promotions should be made on merit only.

In all parts of Central High School and in Pennsylvania High School departmental meetings were held during the morning, with hundreds of teachers attending.

Dr. Chambers said that he had named the "forty-five" as a favor to a newspaperman who wanted to chronicle social doings in the vicinity.

ELITE '45' ATTACK

HITS BALL PLAN Doylestown Residents in Quandary Whether to Attend Costume Event Tonight

WATCH SERVICE COMPETES "To be or not to be."

That is the question confronting Doylestown residents in regard to the grand ball scheduled for the armory tonight.

For the social upheaval caused by the selection of an upper "forty-five" of the town's exclusive society has "gummed" the plans. Some of those selected feel that they should not associate with the rest of the townfolks, while others not selected are peeved and also are expected to try the absent treatment.

The "forty-five" were selected by an author for publicity purposes. In reality there are forty-seven in the group, but some are labeled them the "forty-five" possibly because dropping two made the group more exclusive.

Doylestown More Exclusive "New York has its 400," one native said today, "and we have our 'forty-five.'" The festering of Doylestown society about nine times more exclusive than the big city's."

And on top of all the other criticism heaped upon the unfortunate picked for the elite, a newswriter, the Rev. C. W. Haines, pastor of the First Baptist Church, threatens to preach another sermon on "Doylestown's Forty-Five."

The festering of Doylestown society about nine times more exclusive than the big city's."

Hodges Backs From Liminal Leigh Mitchell Hodges, the man who selected the "forty-five," also was prominent in arranging the details of the ball, but he has withdrawn from this activity.

He said today that he had named the "forty-five" as a favor to a newspaperman who wanted to chronicle social doings in the vicinity.

"I had no idea I was assuming the role of social arbiter, and I had no thought of the number of names I gave out, excluding any other persons," he said.

Dr. George T. Haymen, one of the select said in reply, "but I would rather gun or fish. The law, however, prohibits forms of entertainment, so I turn to golf."

His threat to launch another attack in Sunday's sermon, with verbal opprobrium, jabs and swings as the weapons and the "forty-five" playing the part of the victim, is sure to bring out another record attendance.
