

Winter Doings Caught by Camera : Her Rabbit Pet : Art Student Dances : Last of Vindictive

JOHN WISTER, noted resident of Colonial Germantown, contemplating the winter of today from his stone pedestal in Vernon Park, Germantown and Cheltenham avenues, in a meteorological comparison with the old-fashioned storms of his time.

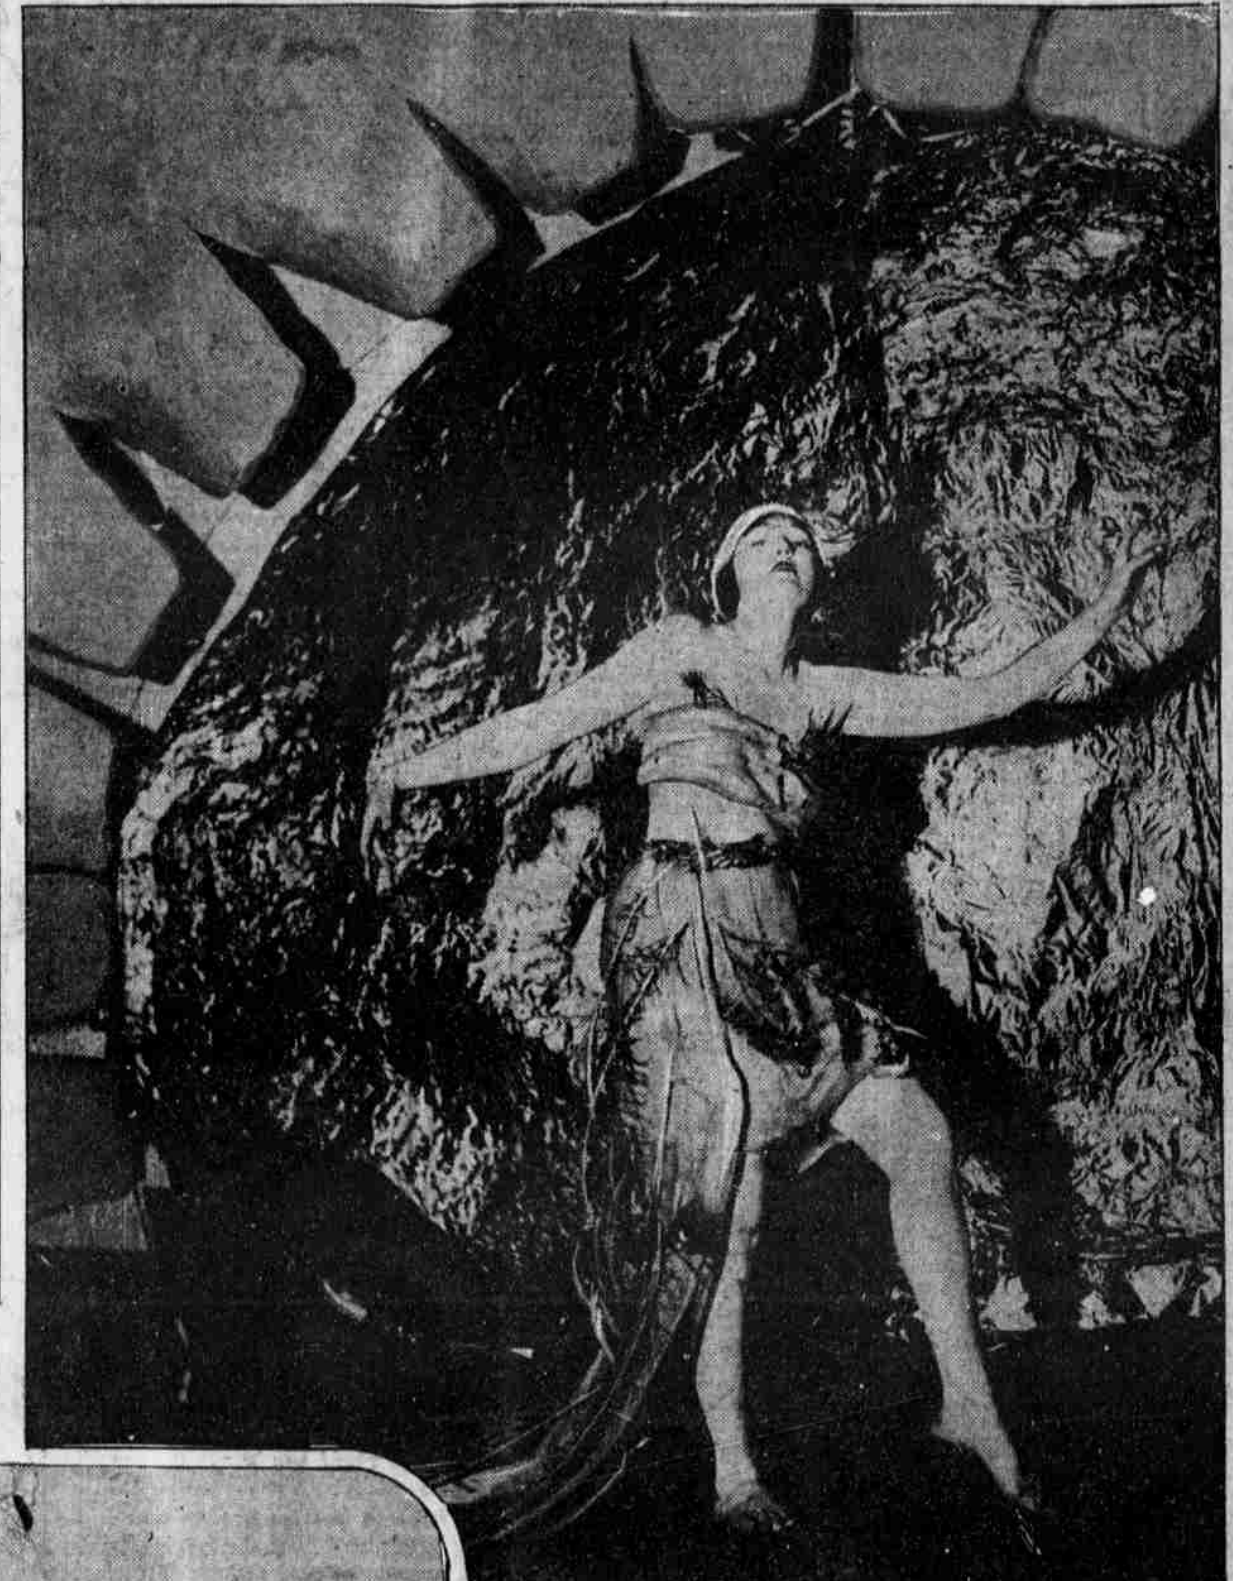

Ledger Photo Service. SNOW ABLUTIONS are usually very active performances, but here the young masseurs and the fair victim have obligingly halted the rites for a moment to permit the camera to register this winter ceremony.

Ledger Photo Service. SWINGING OVER the ice on Gustine Lake, Fairmount Park. To the delight of skaters the thermometer's mercury continues to linger at its freezing quarters, giving the ice enthusiasts continued chances to enjoy the winter pastime.

(c) Underwood & Underwood. MRS. J. N. SLOTKIN, of Chicago, taking her Himalayan bunny for an airing, the latest Paris vogue in pets.

MISS SUE MAY WESCOTT, the peacock dancer, in the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts students' bug ball.

THE BEAUTY CORNER

MISS GERTRUDE FIELDS, 312 McKean street, Philadelphia. Photographs for this back-page feature should be submitted through the mail, addressed to the Beauty Corner, EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER.

Central News. THE MANSION of Bernerayde, Berwickshire, England, ancestral estate of Earl Haig's family. The property is to be made a national gift to the commander-in-chief of Britain's Expeditionary Forces in France and Flanders during the war.

Central News. THE VINDICTIVE, filled with concrete and sunk to block Ostend harbor in one of the war's brilliant exploits, was completely wrecked by a big channel storm and battered to pieces. It had been hoped to salvage the vessel and keep it as a permanent relic.