

JAMISON FORESEES MOORE LEADERSHIP

Allegheny Coroner Says Mayor-elect Will Be Political Power in State

WILL 'HAVE TO FOLLOW HIM'

Following Governor Sproul's lead, Coroner Samuel C. Jamison of Allegheny county, here today, gave further recognition of Mayor-elect Moore's leadership of the Republican party in this city and predicted the new Mayor will be potent in state politics.

"Mr. Moore will be a potent factor in Pennsylvania state politics, much more so than Mayors usually have been in Philadelphia," Mr. Jamison said.

"He will make this a real, live town and we, in the west will have to follow him."

The Allegheny county coroner is a candidate for state treasurer, an office desired by Charles A. Snyder, of Schuylkill county, now state auditor general.

Mr. Snyder is said to be in disfavor with the Mayor-elect because of his recent action in joining in the appointment as mercantile appraiser of Magistrate Thomas W. Watson, Vary leader of the Twenty-second ward.

The Mayor-elect had asked the auditor general to defer making any appointments to the mercantile appraisers' office until after a conference with Mr. Moore. Instead of complying, Mr. Snyder, acting with City Treasurer Fred Shoyer, announced Magistrate Watson's appointment to the $7000 berth.

Coroner Jamison's possible candidacy for the state treasurer is linked with the rumors of a fight by Joseph Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, against Senator William E. Crow, of Fayette county, chairman of the state Republican committee.

Auditor General Snyder is regarded as the state committee's slated candidate for state treasurer at the spring primaries. A determined onslaught against the Snyder candidacy, it is said, may lead to a split in the party in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Jamison announced he plans to call on Mr. Grundy today. He saw Senator Penrose yesterday. He stated the senator, who has been ill, is improving slowly and that Mr. Penrose will leave for Florida next week.

An interesting situation will develop should Harry A. McDevitt, the Governor's secretary, enter the lists for the office of auditor general. Politicians throughout the state, it is said, may balk at two candidates from the eastern part of the state for offices of treasurer and of auditor general. Mr. Snyder is an "easterner."

Governor Sproul has declined to make a definite statement regarding his attitude in the Grundy-Crow dispute. But men close to his administration assert his support will be thrown to the state chairman.

Politic Outlook for 1920 Is Muggy

is the department of great opportunities.

The experiment of the city cleaning up its own streets, collecting its garbage, burning its ashes and operating its own incinerating plants after next New Year's Day is only a few of the things to demand his attention.

Will he start in this January to lay plans for sweeping the streets with his own broom next January?

City's Waste Problem

Another problem will be the matter of the city's waste. This may not be a matter of politics, but it is of profit or loss. Tons of old paper weekly, thousands of tons of kitchen garbage monthly, and all the heterogeneous litter and rubbish, coal waste and kindling that other cities salvage, present an opportunity.

Will John W. Winston become the "golden dust man" of Philadelphia?

Contractors in New York pay large sums for the privilege of "trimming the scene," that is, the city rubbish boats. Will Mr. Winston see to it that equitable sums are paid here for the right to "comb the dumps," to coin a new phrase?

As for George F. Struble, director of Wharves, Docks and Ferries, he'll have the time of his life perhaps with "pull backs" and "sinister influences."

In his job of forcing Philadelphia to first place as a port of entry he will certainly have an admiring and an applauding city at his back. His long experience in maritime matters is the basis of the people's hope.

Welfare Most Important

Public welfare, with its added departments, means more in this year of 1920 than it ever did before. It is still an inadequately exploited domain of great resources. Ernest L. Tustin, the new director, started in two weeks ago to set the pins on which to hang some new and greater projects.

Many of these projects, it is expected, will be experimental perhaps, but there will be no politics in them. More than any other, in certain respects, will his department come into intimate touch with the life of the city.

Solving the transit puzzle involves not only operative and constructive, but financial problems, and the importance of the subject is revealed by the Mayor-elect's decision to take ample time in the selection of its directing head.

One of the new city solicitors, David J. Smythe, is believed, to systematize, in some adequate fashion, the expeditious handling of damage claims against the city. No delay, no dilly-dallying with doubtfully just or criminally suggestive demands.

This can only be accomplished by organizing a department under an assistant city solicitor familiar with the various ways of damage claimants, and an efficient staff of investigators. The city can be saved hundreds of thousands of dollars annually in this alone. It is possible, I think, to pay the expenses of the solicitor's office from this source of saving.

The opening event in the political race of 1920 is the election of a successor to J. Hampton Moore in Congress from the Third district. It will be a special election. The Vary organization will claim the regular nomination, of course. They hold the control of the city committee. Sheriff Ransley is the favorite and has the district committee-men pledged. From a purely organizational standpoint he is the strongest man they could name.

No one has been seriously considered by the new city administration leaders yet. The Mayor-elect has been too busy installing the machinery of the new city administration to give the matter the attention it deserves. Indications point to the selection of a candidate who will represent business rather than politics, or a combination of both.

There are several big men in the district, but they plead the demands of business in preference to a seat in Congress. It will be a perfunctory campaign no matter who is named. The various civic and commercial bodies will, it is understood, oppose Sheriff Ransley. Anyhow, David Martin will have a fight on his hands. With David H. Lane, who has a jilted hold on his ward, the struggle will not be so strenuous.

Martin and Vary Terms Explained

Both Senator Martin and Senator Vary come up for re-election this year. So does Senator Daix and a successor must be named to Senator McNichol. It is understood that Senator McNichol is not deeply interested in politics. His election in 1918 as successor to his father, the late James P. McNichol, was a matter of sentiment and respect for the senior.

Senator Daix will have his district behind him. His work on behalf of the new city charter, aside from his interest in the appropriations committee, assures him of this.

The status of Senators Vary and Martin is interesting. Both are fighting the new administration with beak and talon. Whether there will be retaliation is an open question. If there is it can be pretty well assured that reduced majorities will figure in both cases, if nothing worse. In the future both gentlemen may decide to accept the decrees of political fate with smiling grace.

When it comes to the big event, spelled with black face type, the struggle for members of the lower house at Harrisburg will be the fight of the year. Herculean efforts will be put forth by the Vary organization to hold its own, while equally strenuous efforts will be made by the new administration to capture a big delegation.

Local sentiment and neighborhood pride always figure largely in nominations and elections for representatives. For this reason alone interesting results may be anticipated. With the advantage of possession of place and power it seems a foregone conclusion that an increased anti-Vary delegation will go to Harrisburg.

The situation in the state is in a condition of flux. If Joseph R. Grundy addresses his opposition to Senator Crow as chairman of the state Republican committee it is entirely probable that the senator will retire from the fray.

This is a presidential year. Party harmony is the first great desideratum. A fight over the state chairmanship would be embarrassing, if not a disintegrating force. Senator Crow and his friends are very desirous of avoiding a contest. There is a pronounced impression that in such event he would withdraw.

If he is a candidate to succeed Senator Knox in Washington he will want very force and faction behind him. A struggle for the chairmanship might be indicated under the circumstances.

W. Harry Baker, secretary of the Republican state committee, is talked of as an available successor to Senator Crow. He is young and ambitious and has a state-wide acquaintance. He is a warm friend and supporter of Senator Vary. The influence of the state committee with Baker directing its affairs would unquestionably be thrown to Senator Crow, against all comers, should he be a candidate for the United States Senate.

Well Informed on Affairs

Above all no one particularly desires to provoke Mr. Grundy to the limit. He is perhaps the best informed man in the state, not a leader or officeholder, on the inside of politics and legislation at Harrisburg. He has gained it by experience not always of a kind that strengthen his faith in humanity of a certain kind. The gentleman from Bristol knows the game—and he knows men.

Auditor General Snyder wants to be state treasurer. So do other men. Snyder's success depends on several conditions. One is the support of the state administration. Another is the backing of Lester Houck, of Schuylkill county, Snyder's own county, and the third the support of Joseph B. Grundy. After he gets in, and then gets out of the state treasury, it is understood that he will steer his course for the gubernatorial chair.

Another member of the family "on the hill" at Harrisburg, State Treasurer Kephart, wants to be congressman-at-large. His brother, J. W., is a late acquisition to the Supreme bench. The state organization will largely decide this question. There are some upstate leaders who really regard this rotation in office as demoralizing to party harmony. Anyhow, there will be a lot of other good and prominent men on the list before it is closed.

To Chicago Uninstructed

As to national politics, the state delegation will go to Chicago uninstructed as far as now known.

Governor Sproul would be the most formidable dark horse in the race for President were it not for one thing: Pennsylvania is too solidly and safely Republican. If it were a doubtful state he would be sitting on the front seat beside the driver in the presidential hand wagon before the parade started. A Mitchell Palmer is a formidable Democratic candidate because Pennsylvania is so largely Republican and will remain so.

Kills Man to Protect Woman

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 2.—(By A. P.)—James R. McGinnis, of Rochester, N. Y., was shot and killed yesterday by W. J. Murphy, of this city, who then turned the pistol on himself and inflicted a probably fatal wound. The shooting occurred in a rooming house. According to the police, McGinnis was shot while seeking to protect a woman whom Murphy attempted to strike.

Frenchmen Will Fly 9000 Miles

Paris, Jan. 2.—Two civilian aviators, Douilh and Des Noelles, will start tomorrow on a flight to Saigon, capital of French Indo-China. The route will include Naples, Athens, Basra and Bangkok, the distance being about 9000 miles.

SEINE IMPERILS PARIS RAILS

Conference to Discuss Means of Protection Against Flood

Paris, Jan. 2.—(By A. P.)—Directors of railroads and of plants endangered by the rising waters of the Seine river have been summoned by the ministry of transportation to discuss measures to protect menaced property.

The flood now is higher than that of 1919, and the crest is not due until Sunday.

It is expected that the Oise river today will reach the 1910 stage, and the prefect of Compiègne has taken steps to remove inhabitants whose homes are in danger. Reports received here indicate the Rhine has been falling since Wednesday.

EXPLAIN CHURCH NEEDS

Convention Hears What is Demanded of Christian Students

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 2.—Just what the Christian churches of the United States and Canada are demanding of students in the two countries was explained today by several speakers at the convention of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions here.

This afternoon the convention delegates met in sections and heard various phases of mission work discussed. The sections were divided under the heads of agricultural, educational, medicinal and evangelistic.

Non-Christian religions, their work and failures will be the subject for the general meeting of the convention to-night. The Rev. C. A. R. Janvier, of India, and the Rev. Samuel M. NEW MARKET STREET STORE

Hirsch & Co. Establishment Devoted to Women's Wear

The new five-story home of L. W. Hirsch & Co. was opened today at 925-27 Market street and is a testimonial of successful co-operation between employer and employees.

When Mr. Hirsch began the retail business in September, 1915, it was an entirely new field to him, but since then he has enlarged his headquarters twice. He established a bonus system and this year bonuses ranging up to $3000 were paid the employees.

The first store had a floor space of 7000 square feet and the store opened today has 80,000 square feet with the two upper floors arranged for daylight display. It was erected at a cost of $200,000 and has twenty-five departments devoted entirely to women's wear.

The present store at 925 Market street will be closed temporarily until it can be redecorated and opened as a men's store.

Mr. Hirsch was born in Philadelphia and started his business career at the age of ten. He was a manufacturer of women's clothes until four years ago when he went into the retail business.

HAIL MUSTAPHA KEMAL

Constantinople, Jan. 2.—(By A. P.)—Mustapha Kemal, chief of the Turkish Nationalists in Asia Minor, has arrived at Angora and has been given enthusiastic receptions there and at other cities he has visited. It is believed he may approach near Constantinople.

Mustapha was elected a member of the Turkish Chamber of Deputies, but it is said he will not take his seat. He accepted nomination for a seat to prove he had the confidence of the people, according to reports, and will now resign.
