MRS. WILSON GIVES WAYS TO COOK PORK

Sausage Is Delicious in a Dish With Macaroni or With Fried Apples Served With Pancakes

When Prepared in This Way the Meat May Be Used for Luncheon or Supper

By MRS. M. A. WILSON

PORK is essentially a winter food; it is rich in protein and fat and it is really at its best in cold weather.

Chief among the pork products are the fresh sausages, which are composed of finely-chopped fresh pork and a blend of seasonings; they are sometimes marketed in bulk as sausage meat or sold in casings in the sausage form, usually known as link sausage.

Sausage is primarily a breakfast dish—sausage and hot cakes are famous all over the world as a Yankee breakfast dish. However, fresh sausage may be made into many appetizing dishes and served for luncheon or dinner, and it will appeal to the family far more than the ordinary chops and roasts.

The European idea of using sausage as a favoring for vegetables has much to commend it to us. For the rich, spicy flavor particularly appeals for use during the winter months.

Sausage and Macaroni

Wipe the sausage with a damp cloth and pierce several times with a fork to prevent the casing from bursting. Brown quickly in a hot pan and place one-half pound of cooked macaroni in the pan, adding:

One-half cup of finely chopped onions. One cup of thick tomato pulp. One teaspoon of salt. One teaspoon of paprika. One cup of boiling water.

Lay the browned sausage on top and place in the oven to bake for twenty minutes. Turn the macaroni on a hot dish and lay the sausages on top. Garnish with finely minced parsley.

Sausage and Fried Apples

Allow two sausages for each person. Split the sausages in half and brown. Now wipe and core six apples and then cut in thin slices from each end; then cut in half and dip in flour and fry in the sausage fat until a rich golden brown. Place a piece of sausage on each half of apples and serve with either pancakes, buckwheat or griddle cakes.

Sausage Fritters

Cook one-half pound of sausage and then mince fine and place in mixing bowl and add:

Three tablespoons of sausage fat. One teaspoon of salt. One-quarter teaspoon of pepper. One tablespoon of grated onion. Three cups of flour. Two level tablespoons of baking powder.

Two level tablespoons of sirup. Beat to mix and then bake in griddle. Serve in the usual manner with honey or sirup.

Sausage Pudding

Place in a mixing bowl: Three-quarters pound of sausage meat. Two onions grated.

Some Beauty Questions

To the Editor of Woman's Page: Dear Madam—Some time ago I read in the paper of a very good shampoo for the hair which required a quart of bran water. Will you kindly tell me how I can procure this bran water? If it is to be made at home, how is it made?

Ask Mrs. Wilson

If you have any cooking problems, bring them to Mrs. Wilson. She will be glad to answer you through these columns. No personal replies, however, can be given. Address questions to Mrs. M. A. Wilson, EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER, Philadelphia.

Three tablespoons of finely minced parsley. One and one-half teaspoons of salt. One teaspoon of paprika. One-half teaspoon of poultry seasoning.

One tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce. Two cups of breadcrumbs. One cup of flour. Two level tablespoons of baking powder. One and one-quarter cups of milk or water.

Beat to mix thoroughly and then turn into well greased and floured loaf-shaped pan. Bake in slow oven forty-five minutes. Serve with creole, tomato or cream sauce.

Sausage Fritters

Fry a light brown one-half pound of sausage. Mince fine and then turn into a bowl and add:

Three tablespoons of sausage fat. Two cups of boiling water. Four tablespoons of parsley, minced fine. One teaspoon of salt. One-quarter teaspoon of white pepper. One and one-half cups of milk or water. Two and one-half cups of flour. Three level tablespoons of baking powder.

Beat to mix thoroughly and then bake in hot well-greased griddle or cook like fritters by frying in deep fat.

Corn Dodgers and Sausage

Place in a saucepan: Two cups of boiling water. One teaspoon of salt. One-half teaspoon of white pepper. Two onions, minced fine. One-quarter teaspoon of thyme.

Now add three-quarters cup of cornmeal, stirring constantly. Cook fifteen minutes and then turn into a bowl and let cool. Wipe one pound of sausage and pierce with a fork to prevent the casing from bursting. Brown, chop fine and add to the corn mixture. Roll into sausages, roll in flour and brown in hot fat, and then add three tablespoons of flour to the fat. When nicely browned add:

One and one-quarter cups of water. One teaspoon of salt. One-half teaspoon of white pepper. One tablespoon of grated onion.

Bring to boiling point; then lift the corn dodgers to warm plate. Pour over the gravy and garnish with finely minced parsley.

Sausage en Amboucaise

Wipe one pound of sausage and pierce several times with a fork. Now brown quickly and then cool and cover with mashed potatoes. Roll in flour and then brown in the sausage fat. Place in hot oven for fifteen minutes, and add five tablespoons of flour to the fat in the pan. Brown well and then add:

Two grated onions. One-quarter cup of catsup. One and one-half cups of water. One and one-half teaspoons of salt. One-half teaspoon of white pepper.

Bring to a boil and cook gently for five minutes. Lay the prepared sausages on slices of toast. Pour over the gravy and sprinkle with finely minced parsley.

NAVY BLUE SERGE WITH GOLD BRAID

No matter how popular any other color becomes, navy blue will always be in good style. This simply made frock is of serge, and the gold braid is formed into all sorts of interesting curlicues to trim it, because that is the only trimming it has. The hat is of brown satin.

A Daily Fashion Talk By Florence Rose

At the southern resorts and the seashore resorts where fashionable folk foregather at this time of year, you may see just what will happen later in the season in town. And at the resorts navy blue has come back with banners flying. If you are planning a new frock to have on hand for early spring wear your best selection would be navy blue.

Please Tell Me What to Do

By CYNTHIA

She's for Smacking 'Em

Dear Cynthia—Just a few lines in answer to "A Star Dancer's" advice. You are the first one I have ever heard speak on the subject of smacking. I am a girl of seventeen summers and know and understand what you mean.

Smacking is about the only self-defense a girl has nowadays, according to my estimation. Never have I attempted to lift my hands to any one of the male sex, for it is not very lady-like, until New Year's Eve, and I think, Star Dancer, your advice is O. K. I am respectable and also considered very innocent. There is another thing I wish to say, and that is why do girls consider themselves beautiful? If the female sex thinks so, why doesn't the male sex think the same? Star Dancer, I would just love to meet you personally, and you would soon find out that there are still nice girls in big cities.

INNOCENT LONELY SEVENTEEN. Perhaps this will cheer him up.

Ask Him Why

Dear Cynthia—Please tell me what to do in this problem: A boy friend of mine of two years' standing moved out West six months ago. He went without saying goodbye. After arriving he kept a correspondence with all his friends, except myself. Well, circumstances changed and he returned to Philadelphia. The same afternoon, two hours after arrival, he came over to my house. Of course, I was surprised, but I didn't mention anything about his not writing and not saying goodbye. It is now three months since his return. I see him often, since he comes down to my house, and I have even gone to a party with him. To all outward appearances we are the best of friends, but I have that horrible feeling of "wrong" having been done me. I cannot get angry at him, or be disagreeable in any way, since it would spoil my good times, and our crowd would not like it.

Could you please tell me if an apology isn't necessary, and why he should have thus, an ungentlemanly way, I am sure.

I have made up my mind to be angry always at him, but since he comes over I have to let the heart to get disagreeable. How should I behave?

A GIRL

A man is not obliged to correspond with a girl and perhaps he hesitated to do it, thinking you might not wish it. In any case it was not an ungentlemanly thing unless he had asked you to write or had promised to.

Certainly he did you no wrong. If you think about it a lot, why not say quietly some day when you are talking with him, "Why didn't you write to me when you were in the West?" Don't show any anger, just say you are curious, because you knew he'd written to others.

Don't think of making it a complaint. You have no right to nor reason to be angry. But if you must get it out of your system, ask him, only be sure to do it in a light, laughing way. He was not polite, not to say goodby before he left. You might refer to that, but remember, don't be angry about it.

To the Girl Who Finds Life a Puzzle and Would Like the Answer

Now, see here, my dear, how about practicing what you preach? You say you can't love your husband because you don't trust him.

Then in the next sentence you say he is perfectly devoted to you, but you deceive him and go out with others on the sly.

Why is life a puzzle to you? You are not true yourself; why exact truth from others?

You'll find, my dear, if you treat your husband as you should treat him, he'll treat you properly always, too. For the rest you had better train yourself to love him again. You promised "for better, for worse, till death do us part."

Have you a sense of honor?

TIGHT-FITTING FOR TRIGNESS

And banded with fur for warmth. The material is velvour, too, which adds to the comfort and good looks of this stylish suit. It would be practical for a shopping tour or suitable for a card party or the matinee. The hat of satin with drooping feathers rather suggests that it's the card party this time. The beaded buckles are modest, but they have just as much noticeable kind

It is necessary to rotate an egg before the candle if one is to obtain an accurate knowledge of its condition. By tilting at various angles, the location and size of the air space can be seen, and very often the position of the yolk. But the quality of the egg is very largely determined by the ease with which the yolk moves and the direction of its motion.

The operator, therefore— First. Grasp the pointed end of the egg with the tips of the fingers.

Second. Holding the blunt end uppermost, places the egg closely against the oreline, or spout, of the candle.

Third. Give the egg a quick turn to the right or left, watching the movement of the yolk.

If the egg is perfectly fresh it may be difficult to find the yolk at first glance, but as the egg is turned a glimpse of it will be obtained.—United States Department of Agriculture.

Adventures With a Purse

YEARS ago, thirty or more, it was an old stable. Today, quaint, white-washed, tucked away in quite the most out-of-the-way corner, it is a tea shop, where may be had luncheon, tea or dinner. The yawning gray brick fireplace smiles a welcome as one enters and the coal stove sends out a warm, benign glow. I could tell you of the artistic arrangement of its interior, and I could speak of the good things to eat which may be had there (the chicken and waffle dinners, for instance, are a specialty), but it is the atmosphere of the place which will impress you most.

In one corner sat a girl, slim, boyish, with bobbed hair and fuzzy tam. At another table was a man every inch of whom proclaimed him an artist. And it was whispered that the very man who thirty years ago kept his horses there now frequently comes for a cup of fragrant coffee and a steak dinner. Even the English-looking maid, with a glint of copper in her hair, seems a part of the picture. You will be surprised to know that there is such a charming scene so near. For it is quite in the center of town.

Such a fascinating trick box to hold your jewelry or small trinkets! It is Japanese, of natural wood color, with inserts of rich mahogany color and measures probably four inches by five. You shake it up and down and hear very plainly the rattle of the keys—some places—but where? Ah, that is part of the trick! And after you have discovered the key, where to find the key-hole is another trick. The box is really lots of fun, and after you have learned its secret you will feel very superior as you explain it to a mystified friend. The box costs 50c.

One shop has wooden mats for the toilet. They remind one of latticed arbors and may be had in several colors—purple, green and yellow. Each has a spray of pink rosebuds painted on it, and comes prettily boxed for 90c. One would make a nice gift for the engaged girl.

THE GIRL WHO IS ABOVE THE OTHERS AT THE OFFICE

Makes Herself Inferior to Them in Character by Not Being Kind Enough to Accept Them as Business Friends

"THE other girls in the office are so pedantic," will find after a while the girl who is "above" her office companions. She will not understand it and don't see why they should be so snippy." She doesn't know that she is at last "giving her" to them, and she sends. There is nothing higher than girls in an office if they are received cordially; nothing more unkind if they have a reason to be unkind even congenial, if she would climb down from her platform, accept the girl at the next desk as a friend and equal for eight hours a day, and forget her working hours. If she would allow herself to be just an ordinary, sensible working girl, neither above nor below anybody, she would find herself happy and contented, instead of uncomfortable and dissatisfied.

pedantic" will find after a while the girl who is "above" her office companions. She will not understand it and don't see why they should be so snippy." She doesn't know that she is at last "giving her" to them, and she sends. There is nothing higher than girls in an office if they are received cordially; nothing more unkind if they have a reason to be unkind even congenial, if she would climb down from her platform, accept the girl at the next desk as a friend and equal for eight hours a day, and forget her working hours. If she would allow herself to be just an ordinary, sensible working girl, neither above nor below anybody, she would find herself happy and contented, instead of uncomfortable and dissatisfied.
