The Bureau of Municipal Research, an organization supported by private funds for the study of public questions, today restated its underlying purposes, emphasizing that it is nonpartisan and that it conducts its work with facts and not factional politics.

1200 GALLONS OF LIQUOR, VALUED AT $30,000, FOUND HIDDEN IN TWO MOTORTRUCKS

Twelve hundred gallons of liquor captured by police in a York road garage will be subjected to a chemical test today to discover whether New York bootleggers planned to flood this city with whisky or a wood alcohol concoction.

ATTENDANT'S GREETING CORDIAL

"All right, fellows, the stuff's here," Captain Kenny said with the lone attendant's sole greeting.

ATTITUDE IS SAME

"While the bureau will strive, for the sake of Philadelphia, for the successful carrying out of the proposed charter and the attitude of the Mayor and Council at the start will be precisely as was its initial attitude toward the three preceding administrations under which the bureau has operated."
