

CAMDEN LEGION HAS COUNTY UNIT

Organization Represents Eleven Posts With Memberships Totalling 4000

OTHER ACTIVITIES OF BODY

Camden county, New Jersey, has developed a county organization of the American Legion. It consists of eleven posts representing, and its functions are similar to those of the Philadelphia county committee.

Mr. Richter, the adjutant in Camden county. He is also the commander of Frederick W. Grigg Post, No. 68, of that town.

In the Camden county posts of the Legion, explained Mr. Richter, the welfare officer has charge of employment, insurance and legal aid. He is authorized by the post to appoint capable assistants to perform the duties of these offices.

Mr. Richter pointed out that the posts of the Legion in Camden county have found it valuable to have a county organization to which matters may be referred for action when the posts have been unable to obtain results.

The total membership of the Legion in Camden county aggregates about 4000. A drive to increase this number is now being conducted and it is anticipated that the total will be materially changed.

Henry H. Houston Post No. 3, of Germantown, has devised a plan of canvassing the present membership for dues before undertaking the matter of enrolling new members.

Philadelphia Maneto is the name selected by Post No. 270 at its meeting Friday evening. "Let brotherly love prevail" is the sentiment this name conveys.

Post 319 of Tioga Active "Americanization" has become more than a mere word to Post 319, of Tioga. Dr. William E. Rakon, the post commander, is the chairman of a committee of five on Americanization in that vicinity.

F. Flexible Tightwad says: "YOU would have friend wife sew up a hole in your change pocket mighty quick."

"How about stopping those air leaks between your window frames, door frames and walls? They waste coal, money—I stop 'em permanently."

BEATEN PHYSICIAN FREED AT HEARING

Magistrate Suggests That Both Sides Drop Case, but Victim of Assault Refuses

BURKE HELD FOR COURT

Dr. Samuel M. Morris, Jr., the physician assaulted in front of a South Third street motion-picture theatre about ten days ago, was discharged yesterday by Magistrate Imber.

After being brutally assaulted, the physician was arrested by Abraham Schwartz, a patrolman. John Burke, a witness who protested at the beating administered to the prisoner, was arrested. Magistrate Imber held Burke in $300 bail for court.

The hearing yesterday developed into an attempt to whitewash the patrolman, who is now under $1000 bail to await the action of the grand jury, for the assault.

Magistrate Imber suggested that both sides drop the prosecution. But Doctor Morris refused. He went on with the hearing and Doctor Morris was released.

Burke was held after Magistrate Imber said that he had been in trouble on numerous other occasions. Yesterday was Doctor Morris's first day out of the hospital since the attack. And he still showed signs of the beat-

WILL PUSH JANITOR'S CASE

Teachers of Hallowell School Present Charges Before Board Today

Miss Sara Weidler, principal, and other teachers of the Hallowell School will appear before the property committee of the Board of Education this afternoon to present their case against Thomas Walsh, janitor.

The committee heard the case once and refused to remove Walsh from the school. Miss Weidler consequently resigned. Her resignation has not been accepted by the board, and her place has remained unfilled for more than a month.

The matter was brought up again by the Women Teachers' Association, 800 strong, which has taken up Miss Weidler's cause.

Teachers claim Walsh has been impudent; that he smokes in the yard, where he is supposed to keep pupils from smoking; that he curses the principal in the presence of pupils, sneers and tells her to "mind her own business" when she remonstrates.

The teachers infer that petty politics keep Walsh on the job, but the property committee denies this.

WILL SEEK NEW LICENSES

While the wholesale dealers say they will not supply liquor to druggists, regardless of the price offered, this was decided yesterday at a meeting of the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association in Grand Fraternity Hall, and their sentiments reflect those of the wholesalers.

THE COP ON THE CORNER

"The 'olitical game in town here 'r minds me o' th' meales," says Maggie as she reads th' latest gossip fr'm th' rialto.

"'Beacuz' o' th' rash doin's o' th' rival factions, I s'pose," vintur's I, seekin' t' steal her thund'r, so t' speak.

"'Nothin' like her at all," snaps she. "What I was goin' t' remark whin ye butt'd in, was no soon'r is soothin' harmony brookt t' be sett'd whin ugly spots break out on unsuspect'd portions o' th' body politick."

"'Vry ably put, Maggie," says I, agreein', like a well-thrain'd married man. "Tis rumo'r'd Hammy is on th' war path agin, paint'd up fr' action 'n' wieldin' th' big tommyhawk. He's ather scapin' for shure, this time."

"'Th' Insans in th' Vire sep-se had bet'r keep their war bonnets close t' their hair," says Maggie. "I understand th' May'r is thrainin' his bow 'n' arer on th' highly dicent'd wig-wam o' Uncle Dave Martin 'n' Lane. Thim big chiefs have powwow'd wit th' Vire Apaches 'n' r'fue'd t' recognize Hammy as th' real medicin man."

"'They'll have t' swallow th' bitt'r dose he's cook'd up fr' thim jus' th' same," says Maggie. "Th' fight'll keep on, I hears, till th' last Vire brave bites th' dust. 'Twill be a thrillin' battle."

"'Twould be more excitin' if they'd let some season'd fight'r's jump into th' set-to. The new chart'll keep a lot o' experiance'd mixers high 'n' dry th' side lines while th' best scrap o' th' season is in progress."

"'Who's th' mighty warriors y'r referin' to," asks Maggie. "'Th' cops 'n' firemen," says I. "'Go way wit ye," says Maggie. "'R'nimb'r ye are out o' politick. While it may hurt a whole lot, Sike, ye are t' put y'r hands b'hind y'r soft seat."
