

SELL FOOD DRAFTS TO FEED EUROPE

Hoover Inaugurates Simple and Safe System of Sending Relief

SUPPLIES ALREADY THERE

Anybody wishing to send food to friends or relatives in starving portions of Europe can now do it as easily as they can go to the corner grocery and buy provisions for themselves. It is all being done through Herbert Hoover's "food drafts."

No money is sent to Europe. It is arranged in a much simpler, safer manner. To begin with, the American relief administration, of which Mr. Hoover is the head, has loaded ships with American food and carried it to Europe, and thence on trains to the cities of Warsaw, Hamburg, Vienna, Budapest and Prague.

At each of these cities huge warehouses have been filled with the food. Any person in this country who wishes to have some of this food placed into the hands of any one abroad goes about it in the following manner: He goes to his bank and buys a "food draft." It pays $10 or $50 or may be as many $10 or $50 drafts as he pleases, up to $500. Amounts over and above that figure will not be sold without consultation with the American relief administration first.

Food Amount Told When a person buys his draft it is properly filled in before he pays over his money. The purchaser sees exactly what sort of food and the amount that the person to whom he sends the draft will receive.

For instance, for $10 a purchaser here may be assured that his relation in Poland will receive twenty-four and one-half pounds of flour, ten pounds of beans, seven and one-half pounds of cottonseed oil and twelve pounds of milk.

For $20, the recipient of the draft will be given 140 pounds of flour, fifty pounds of beans, sixteen pounds of lard, twelve pounds of corned beef, and forty-eight cans of milk. Or, for the same money, the following assortment has been provided: 140 pounds of flour, fifty pounds of beans, forty-eight pounds of cottonseed oil, and forty-eight cans of milk.

After buying his draft, the purchaser takes it and mails it to the person for whom it is intended. When the draft is received upon the other side it is presented at the warehouse, and the food handed out. The purchaser can then go to the bank where he bought the draft, and he will be told whether the food has been delivered. If the draft has been lost, the purchaser gets his money back.

Drafts on Sale Upon the back of every draft, printed in seven languages, are the following instructions: "This food draft must be mailed to the person to whom you wish to give the food. The receiver must present the draft within ninety days of the date of issue. If the receiver cannot present it personally, delivery will be made to his properly constituted representative."

Food drafts are already on sale in this city at the Philadelphia National Bank, the Girard National Bank, and soon will be on sale at the Corn Exchange National Bank, the First National Bank, the Franklin National Bank, and others.

Food for persons in Poland is stored in the Warsaw warehouse; for Germany, at Hamburg; for Austria, at Vienna; for Hungary, at Budapest, and for Czechoslovakia, at Prague.
