CRUCIAL CATHOLIC MATCH ON TONIGHT

Possession of League Lead Depends on Result of Catholic High-St. Joe Game

GALLEN SETS PACE

By PAUL PREP

OPPONENTS of the first team of the fourth series in the Catholic schools Basketball League tonight will vie for the top rung of the ladder. Representatives of Roman Catholic High and St. Joseph's Prep are to clash in the game at the Sixth Regiment Armory, forty-first street and Mantua avenue.

It is a crucial game, all right, or something like that, because if Catholic High is defeated he will be swept from the race-making position, making way for St. Joe. The Purple and Gold quintet is leading by a full game, but in the event of a St. Joseph victory, the latter will take up the pinnacle position by a one-game margin.

Probable Battle Array Coaches of the respective teams have their best basketballers prepared for the "ceremonial" combat, and the probable line-up follows:

Catholic High: forward, Martin; center, Oakes; guard, Galen; point, Brennan; referee—Phil Lewis. Time—20 minutes.

St. Joseph's Prep: forward, Martin; center, Oakes; guard, Galen; point, Brennan; referee—Phil Lewis. Time—20 minutes.

Joe Galen, Catholic's foul-goal shooting star and guard, is still in the lead for individual point-scoring honors. He is setting the pace with a 13-point lead over Joe White, of La Salle, who has made 30 points.

There is a close race on for field-goal honors with Oakes, of St. Joe, leading by a margin of 12-2 pointer. He has a total of 9 goals from field made in three games. Dougherty and Brennan, of Catholic High and La Salle, respectively, each has ended 5 shots from scrimmage.

Individual points scored to date follow:

For Grammar-School Title The South Philadelphia Grammar School League will begin a series of games on February 19 to decide the grammar school basketball championship.

Amateur Sports The Athletic Recreation Center girls basketball team are without a game for this Thursday evening, game to be played at the Master streets. Manager also announced plans to play at home on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Waldron A. A. is desirous of booking games with second and third-class teams, especially the E. B. C. Knights and A. Frieman, etc.

Tasker B. C., a traveling team, wants to play games with any third-class basketball club, Morris Cohen, 619 Tasker st.

There is a letter in the sports department of the Evening Public Ledger for the manager of the Box basketball team.

Players between the age of 17 and 20, desiring to join an athletic club, for the sports department should address M. K. Greenman, 415 Mifflin street.

Jack Toland's southpaw sock, meaning portside punch, will be in evidence again tonight. Following his decisive victory over Johnny Tymon on Saturday night, when Toland proved that his left-handed wallop was being directed with terrific force, Jack will take on Willie Hannon in the star bout at the Auditorium Club.

Law Tender will have the honor of being Philadelphia's first boxer to be a guest at a Sporting Writers' dinner. Tender will be one of the speakers at the monthly dinner at the Bingham Thursday night.

MEETING AT PENN TO HEAR HEISMAN

New Coach to Be Introduced at Open Session Tomorrow Night

KEOGH ONE OF ASSISTANTS

John W. Heisman, head coach at Penn for 1920, will be officially introduced to the students at the University of Pennsylvania tomorrow night.

It is our object to get together all of the football men tomorrow night and have them meet the coach," said Major Pickering today.

Head Coach Heisman, who is the famous Georgia Tech tutor, will be signed to a three-year contract.

Most experts advocate a crouch over the ball, with a short choking grip, and the right leg falling away.

PRO STANDS STRAIGHT IN 'NEW' PUTTING SHOT

Jack Campbell's Golf Style on the Green Differs From Most Experts in That He Doesn't Crouch Over Ball for Line

By SANDY McNIBBLICK every player should adapt himself to the style that suits him best.

Personally, Campbell likes the "new style" best.

"You will notice," explained the pro, "that I take the grip at the top of the putter, instead of reaching far down.

This, I find, gives me a better line. I do not crouch over the ball, but incline the head. My stroke is a pendulum stroke, making the wrists do the work."

The three illustrations show how simple is the method.

First it shows the swing back, the club head close to the ground all the way, the wrists only bringing back the club.

Then is shown the moment before the impact, the clubhead virtually on the ground, and the wrists bringing the clubhead into the ball.

Figure three shows the follow through, every position the same as the swing back except the wrists, which have turned around a trifle.

"It is a simple method," finished Campbell, "but takes practice to reach perfection. Stand up straight to the ball, use the pendulum stroke, keeping the arms close to the body and use the wrists to make the shot.

Keep the clubhead close to the ground, on the swing back and follow through, without body movement. It's worth trying."

BRIDGETON FIVE HERE

This will be a very busy evening in cage circles.

The average citizen has an idea that unless it's summer when he can chase out to the links, get to function on a tennis court or swim, exercise is too much trouble.

Lawson Robertson, who knows as much as, if not more than, any other man in the country on physical condition, was discussing the subject of a business man and his chances for physical efficiency at Franklin Field the other day.

"There's no exercise like walking," said the Penn trainer. "I realize that some business men have a hard time of the question, but yet there's no reason why every man shouldn't be able to get in some simple form of exercise like walking."

"I would recommend walking to and from the office, that is if a man's home is at least two miles from his office.

A walk of two miles in the morning and again in the evening is enough for any business man to keep going right, providing the walking is done correctly.

"There is no good obtained from a slouching walk. To get any benefit at all one must step at a speed of four miles to the hour.

Some specialists have recommended diets for the business man, but the w. k. Average Citizen wants to eat what is most tasteful to him.

"If a man takes any kind of care of himself he should be able to eat most anything," he said.

"I don't mean that any one should load up on pastry and fried stuff all the time, but a business man is not called upon to exert himself physically, and his digestive organs should have plenty of time to act."

"The best diet is good, plain, wholesome food that's not too greasy or heavy. A man should not overload his stomach. Even wholesome food is bad if the quantity is too much."

Robertson pointed out that none can afford to neglect exercise entirely, and especially one who in summer finds recreation on the tennis courts, links or in any other form of sport.

4-MILE DAILY WALK ENOUGH FOR HEALTH

Lawson Robertson, Penn Coach, Recommends Jaunt To and From Office for Business Man

IT'S easy to keep in fairly good physical condition, but it's easier to fall into the rut of a sluggish liver, indigestion, colds, flabby and unhealthy fat.
