Nancy Wynne Tells of Many Dinners to Be Given Before Midwinter Ball This Evening—Describes

Some Pretty Clothes

Mrs. Louis Lillich, of 5044 Locust street, entertained at her home on Wednesday night. The guests included Mrs. John Muckler, Mrs. R. Ferrar, Mrs. William P. Brenz, Sr., Mrs. Frank Smith and Mrs. Clarence Dill.

And the first one since 1917. You know these balls were always held in Horticultural Hall—(haven't you had some wonderful dances in that place?)—and safer that was sold and torn down and after that was sold and torn down and hard times and all that, they were dreadfully missed, too, because they've been going on ever since about 1897.

But this year, tonight, we're to have soother, and many are the dinners beforehand. The Albert Kennedys are going to entertain in honor of Anne Towning to content in in honor the Wellington.

There was a card party and dance last evening at the Hotel Rittenbouse, send and the Percy Keatings are giving a dinner for their niece. Margaretta Sharpless. Mr. and Mrs. John Hampton Barnes are going to entertain for Maisie Rush and George Bartol, whose Maisie Rush and George Bartol, whose Mrs. J. H. D. Eagan, Mrs. Ellis Gimbel. Mrs. Joseph Farley, Mrs. Sedgwick Kistler. Mrs. A. F. Doyle and Missie Rush and so will Mr. and Mrs. Stevens Heckscher and Mr. and Mrs. Stevens Heckscher and Mr. and Mrs. G. Briaton Roberts.

Mrs. Norton Downs will give a dinner monor of Elizabeth Dixon, and some in honor will an Gower, Mrs. Charles Brand, Mrs. Preston B. Haines, Mrs. Cohran, wife of Commander Thomas Cochran, U. S. N., will give a bridge party at her heme. 2548 South Lambert street, on Wednesday after-noon in honor of Mrs. Trout, wife of Captain Trout, U. S. N. Among those bell kistere was a card party and dance last evening at the Hotel Rittenbouse. Among those who were interested were Mrs. James Power, Mrs. Sedgwick Kistler. Mrs. J. H. D. Eagan, Mrs. Ellis Gimbert Scholar Scholar

The patronesses for the dail are Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer, Mrs. Thomas De Witt Cuyler, Mrs. Edward Lowber Welsh, Mrs. Robert L. Montgomery and Mrs. John H. Packard.

TOSEPHINE REEVES is to be the Just of honor at n dinner tonight before Mrs. Troth's dancing class at Manheim. The dinner is being given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Rutler Reeves, Jr., at their home on Abbotsford avenue. Germantown. Abbotsford avenue, Germantown, Jasephine is such an attractive girl. I saw her not long ago in a light brown suit and a little close-fitting hat to match, and she was stunning. She has a very pretty sister, too, and although Prim is much darker than Jo, they look "enough alike to be sisters" at least.

SAW Anne Lewis Grant the other day in a very becoming black sealskin coat. Dark things look so well on home of skin coat. Dark things look so well on her, because her hair is such a glorious gold and her skin is so fair. Her hat was a turned up one, of dark blue duvetyn with an edge of gray angora, which was most attractive. She is Mrs. Francis Clark Grant, you know. Her sister Mrs. Effingham B. Morria still the state of the stat Francis Clark Grant, you amore, si sister, Mrs. Effingham B. Morris, si quite as good looking as Anne. Then there is another sister, Mary, who is apparted, but also striking. She was unmarried, but also striking. She voverseas during the war, I believe.

HE WAS drawing remarkable particles, with his pencil grasped firmly between grimy, unskilled fingers. "See," he said, showing me the remarkable there—a puggesuit. "That's a prizefighter—a pugge-list!" And after all, it's much easier to pronounce it that way!
