Nancy Wynne Tells About Women Writers' Dinner Tonight-Talks of Various Affairs Going on and Reing Planned-Women to Help Princeton

THE Women Writers are going to have their dinner tonight at the Arcadia. You know those dinners are always a scream—I mean the entertain ment that follows them—and everybody looks forward to them with the greatest gles. Every once in a while some member of the club has a perfectly lovely, ridiculous idea, and she tells it to another member and they get together on the subject, and the first thing you know there is a circus or a movie or a musical comedy or something all arranged within about three or four days. And the result is a joy.

Tonight there will be wax works of Abraham Lincoln, heard and everything, and all his family. The family is carried right into modern times, including Lincoln Furbush, Lincoln Eyre, Lincoln Acker—and the Lincoln Highway! The wax works are to be brought in and wound up by Buster Brown—not in his present state, in uniform and with a fancee, but in those good old days of the knickerbockers and collar and Tige. I don't know whether Tige will be there or not. But Cupid will be; yes, indeed; and he will have some valentines to distribute, too. Altogether, I think it will be thoroughly delightful, and I'm wild to know who is going to be the Lincoln Highway.

The Young as talk, "John Drinkwater," Sunday the February 15, from 4 to 6 o'clock, in the Fuller Building, with Miss Kath-rine Bregy as the hostess.

GERMANTOWN

Miss Gertrude R. Koehler, of West Pelham, will give a luncheon on Wednesday in honor of her cousin, Mrs. George W. Pershells, who, with her uesday in honor of her cousin, Mrs. Frank Hess, Mrs. Frank Metz, Mrs. Schillinger, Mrs. Frank Metz, Mrs. Charles House, Mrs. Charles House, Mrs. Thomas Tucker, Miss Jenette Keyker, Mrs. S. F. Koehler, Mrs. Emil Hedigan, and Mrs. Harry Davis.

Miss May Bennis, 641 East Chelten avenue, will entertain at a Valentine uncheon of fifteen covers in honor of Mrs. Harry Davis.

Miss Helele Best, whose marriage to Mr. David Bennis will take place in the spring.

to know who is going to be the Lincoln Highway.

I SAW Catharine Cassard yesterday on Chestnut street, looking very well in a suit of a soft almost a gray-blue that was most becoming. Her hat was a large affair of black with an upward tilt in front, and her furs were brown. She always looked so chie; but, then, she always looked so chie; but, then, she always until April.

NEW JERSEY NOTES

Mrs. George D. Robertson and her sister, Miss Matilda Robertson, have gone to Detroit, Mich., for an extended visit, with Mrs. Robertson's brother. Miss Schonveldt recently returned to this country from Holland.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Nelson, of Edgewater Park, will leave Saturday for Mismi, Fia., where they will remain until April.

TOLD you the other day something about the Pageant of Womanhood that is to be given on Monday night at the Academy of Music. Some of the organizations to be represented in it are the Pennsylvania Society of Colonial Dames, the Philadelphia Chapter of the D. A. R. the Philadelphia League of Women Citizens and the Art Alliance. The Art Alliance, by the way, has offered to do the making up of the characters in the pageant. I am so glad, for so often in those large affairs like that there is no make-up used, and everyholdy looks so ghastly behind the lights. Mrs. G. Plantou Middleton, of Germantown, is to be Betsy Ross, representing the D. A. R. Mrs. James D. Winsor, of the Colonial Dames, will be Martha Washington. Then I think Sophie Norris is to be Peace and there will be several other "tableaux."

THERE is to be an "Artists' Eve-

THERE is to be an "Artists' Eve-I ning" on Saturday night at the Academy of the Fine Arts. You know the annual exhibition has just opened. Those who will receive on Saturday are Josephine Danforth Page, Mrs. Leopold Seyffert, Mrs. Lazar Raditz, Mrs. pold Seyffert, Mrs. Lazar Raditz, Mrs. Wayman Adams, Mrs. D. Roy Miller, Eleanor Barker, Miss Delphine Bradt, Miss Elise V. Moncure, Miss Sarah Carles, Jean Knox, Miss Anna Warren Ingersoll and Mrs. Daniel Garber, Some are artists and some are artists'

Ingersoll and Mrs. Daniel Garber. Some are artists and some are artists wives.

I love to go to the Academy and discover two or three people like this looking at the pictures and discussing them. Then I slip up close to them—they don't know there's anything in the world but that one picture when they get started talking about it—and I hear more about distance, and tone, and feeling, and atmosphere than I ever knew there was! And the next time I look at a picture you would suppose from my conversation that I really knew something about it. Which I don't.

Mr. M. Kaplan, of New York.

The annual reunion of the members of the class of 1915 of the William Penn High School for Girls will be held this afternoon in the alumnae room in the Grand Fraternity Building, 1628 Arch street, Wrs. Jennie S. Kotkin, the president, will preside. The affair is in charge of Miss Hilda Schoch and Miss Margaret Clark.

Among the early spring weddings will be that of Miss Henriette Loeb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Loeb, of 1853 North Seventeenth street, and Mr. Leo A. Dessauer, of 2148 North Twelfth street. and feeling, and atmosphere than I ever knew there was! And the next time I look at a picture you would suppose from my conversation that I really knew something about it. Which I don't.

WOMEN have broken in almost everywhere, and now I hear that they have formed a committee to work for the Princeton endowment fund. Mrs. Stacy B. Lloyd is chairman, Mrs. W. Boulton Dixon is treasurer and Miss Marion Savage is secretary. Others who are on the committee include Mrs. Bayard Henry, Mrs. T. Charlton Henry, Mrs. J. Charlton Henry, Mrs. J. Kearsley Mitchell, Mrs. John S. Newbold, Mrs. Isaac W. Robstts, Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer, Mrs. F. King Wainwright, Mrs. L. Caspar Wistar and Mrs. Joseph L. Caspar Wistar and Mrs. Joseph L. Elizabeth MacDonald, to Mr. Walter A. W70MEN have broken in almost Mrs. F. King Wainwright. Mrs. L. Caspar Wistar and Mrs. Joseph L. Woolston. There are some good Princeton names there, too. There was n luncheou at the Princeton Club on Monday to inaugurate the women's committee. NANCY WYNNE.

FURS AND MYSTERY

Eighth Article of a Copyrighted Series

This is not the first honest story about the mole. In numerous passages of the Bible this little animal is mentioned in an interesting and impressive manner.

petrated in the name of the tiny executaor of tunnels and builder of hills, that would not look well in print. For example, a large percentage of the "moleskin" found in today's market comes from an animal many times

From that good day to this, many things have been per-

This fur, when sheared, makes an unusually good imitation of the real thing, and is, therefore, a treacherous substitute in the hands of an unscrupulous dealer.

In nine cases out of ten he will get the price of the genuine, which is fairly costly because of the tininess of the size of the busy little mole-namely, the muskrat.

the skins and the difficulty with which they are caught, while the customer gets the imitation. Were you to enter his shop with a request for genuine moleskin and have the genuine placed before you, at its fair price, and then the substitute, as a substitute, mind you, at its proper figure-then all would be well, and this article need never have been written. But the time has not yet come when all stores, or even a fair percentage of them, will do this, so one still must be keenly on one's guard.

Genuine moleskins are of bluish black and are no longer or broader than one's hand. The majority of them come from Scotland, while Holland adds smaller collections to the annual supply.

Muskrat skins range up to 15 inches in length and are extremely plentiful in all parts of this country and Canada. You can readily see, therefore, that the margin of illegitimate profits is no small item. Besides muskrat, there are poore; substitutes for moleskin, such as rabbit, which in turn can be sold to you as muskrat imitation, if not as the moleskin itself.
