Nancy Wynne Talks of the Ball Tonight—She Speaks of Miss Sturgis's Engagement—The Women Writers Give Hilarious Dinner

moight's ball will be the Second Assmbly? That means the season's about wer, for, with the exception of the bal assue on Tuesday night of next week, there'll be nothing more doing this sea-on in the way of balls.

And tonight will not be as exciting as the first, because we all know now which one of the debutantes was instited to the first, and loads and loads of people are out of town and so, of the posts towards. of people are out of town and so, of course, the party tonight will be smalled, but therefore more fun. The seement and Assembly is always more fun than the first, to my thinking. There are never as many there, and so there is more from for dancing, and, you know, that tallroom floor at the Bellevue-Strathord is a wonder.

Mrs. Henry Brinton Cox, whose Mrs. Henry Brinton Cox, whose husband is one of the committee, will set as a natroness to replace the late Mrs. Cassatt. and Mrs. Beauveau Ferie, Jr., will receive in the place of Mrs. Odiver II.
