

FAUNTHORPE HITS RADICAL HYSTERIA

British Attache Asserts Lack of Discrimination Menaces Free Speech

INIMICAL TO LABOR, HE SAYS

There is danger that the agitation against bolshevism in this country will go too far and curtail the right of free speech, according to Colonel J. C. Faunthorpe, an attaché of the British embassy at Washington. The colonel was on his way to the capital today following the Lincoln Day banquet in the Bellevue-Stratford.

"It seems to me," he said, "and remember I am not speaking officially, that the newspapers and the people in this country show too much tendency to lump as Bolshevists every one who has a socialistic theory of any sort whatever. That is dangerous.

"As for Samuel Gompers, I consider him a real power for good in the country. The stronger his position the better. The Federation of Labor can do more to put down bolshevism than any other one thing in the country.

Speaking of the steel strike, Colonel Faunthorpe said there had been mistakes upon both sides, but he considered

Judge Gary had assumed a position more in accord with the middle ages.

"There will be no insolvency upon the part of Great Britain or France," he said. "Both countries may have to delay interest payments on loans a short time, but would work out their own salvation. The exchange situation, he said, is, of course, serious.

"I have been particularly struck with the great intelligence of your working classes," he concluded. "They are well informed and take an intelligent interest in events—far more so than is the case in Europe. Men of that type, if properly handled, will never adopt Bolshevist theories."

ILL MAN SAVED IN FIRE

Friends Groped Way Through Smoke and Carry Out Invalid

Timely action by Vincent Dennis and Benjamin Stotts saved Peter Jones from probable death today during a fire at 1418 North Second street. Groping their way through smoke and flame, the men gained entrance to the room of Jones, who was ill, and carried him to safety.

The fire is believed to have been started by the flame of a gas stove igniting a curtain. A passerby saw smoke coming from the window and informed Dennis, who occupies the first floor. Stotts is a roomer in the house.

After saving Jones the men extinguished the flames, and when the firemen arrived there was little for them to do. The loss was small.

Francis T. Hobson Marries Walter Camp's Daughter at New Haven

Miss Janet Camp, only daughter of Walter Camp, the football expert, was married yesterday at New Haven, Conn., to Francis Thayer Hobson, of this city.

The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, with members of both the Camp and Hobson families in attendance. The Rev. Henry Wise Hobson, of Cambridge, Mass., brother of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony.

WANAMAKER RAPS TIE-UP OF STREETS

Asserts City Should Employ Night Shifts to Clear Main Avenues of Snow

A suggestion that the director of public works could well follow the example of New York and clear important streets in the center of the city of snow and ice, by night shifts of men, was made today by John Wanamaker.

Philadelphia, he writes, "still struggles helplessly in her snowstorm shackles, which endanger the use of automobiles, and leave her streets an icy wilderness at various points."

Notwithstanding the efforts of trolley crews, according to Mr. Wanamaker, the reports of the dangerous condition of conditions make it impossible for the cars to take care of the city's transportation problem.

"In New York city," according to Mr. Wanamaker, "15,000 men of the street-cleaning department, by all-night concentration of effort, even employing store clerks to work at night, cleared an important business center of snow and ice, thus opening up arteries of travel.

"In the absence of warm rain, could not the new director of public works, by using day and night forces of men, clear Broad street, north and south; Locust, Walnut, Chestnut, Market and Arch streets, Girard and Columbia avenues, east and west, as a beginning of relief to the shut-ins, thus opening the main arteries of traffic and allowing the doctors and nurses to relieve house patients and get to and from the hospitals?"

"The serious condition of our thoroughfares, interrupting the progress of many phases of city and country life, deserves the consideration of the Mayor and his staff of assistants, as the out-of-town people are discouraged by the reports of the dangerous condition of the snow-piled streets."
