

DUBLIN GOES DARK AT 'INDOORS' RULE

Can't Use Streets, What's the Use of Lighting, Corporation Argues

NIGHT SERVICES STOPPED

Dublin, Feb. 24.—Dublin's streets were in absolute darkness last night and virtually all municipal services have been suspended as a result of a corporation order yesterday, issued in retaliation for the government's decree detaining all persons to remain indoors between midnight and 5 a. m. While electric light is still supplied to the houses, the newspapers fear that power may be stopped, compelling them to cease publication. The newspapers were seriously hampered by the fact that telegraph messengers did not deliver any messages to them.

The corporation decided by a large majority that it should not light streets during hours when citizens are forbidden to use the thoroughfares, ordered the cessation of any municipal services endangering the lives of its employees during the imposition of martial law and resolved to refuse permission to any employee or official to ask permits from the English military government for the discharge of municipal duties.

The corporation has refused to authorize the payment of overtime to any men working by permit between midnight and 5 o'clock in the morning. Even night watchmen have been removed and scavenger work will not be done as usual.

It is pointed out that the darkened city will be at the mercy of burglars and other criminals, and that the new measure will obstruct the work of doctors and nurses. The rejoinder is made that the responsibility is the government's.

The city corporation yesterday "installed" the new lord mayor, Tom Kelly, who, released recently from the Wormwood Scrubs prison, now is at a London nursing home. The outgoing lord mayor, Laurence O'Neill, in an address, dwelt on the serious illness of Mr. Kelly and on "the brutal and inhuman treatment meted out by the British Government, awakening even among the most moderate a growing sensation of revenge." He said he would, pending Mr. Kelly's recovery, conduct him and conduct the duties of lord mayor in accordance with Kelly's wish.

An attempt was made yesterday to blow up the constabulary barracks in the market town of Ballyvaughan, County Down. A gasoline bomb which had been placed failed to explode. The town previously had been isolated by cutting the telephone wires and blocking the roads leading into it with trees. A large force of police was sent there from Belfast.

The body of Harry Timothy Quinlan, a former corporal who was a member of the brigade of Sir Roger Casement, who was hanged in Pontonville prison in 1916, for high treason, has been found riddled with nine bullets in a field near Cork.

Waterford, Ireland, Feb. 24.—Alderman Doctor White wore a robe of green, white and gold, the Irish republican colors, when he was installed as lord mayor yesterday. The new mayor ordered the ancient mace consigned to another room, describing it as a bauble of English domination. The Sinn Fein flag flew from the town hall and hundreds of persons wore Sinn Fein colors.

London, Feb. 24.—Sir Hamar Greenwood, under secretary for home affairs, replying to a question in Commons yesterday, said the government was aware that invitations were being issued through the American press inviting subscriptions for bond certificates of the republic of Ireland, but that Great Britain had made no representations to the United States upon the matter. The latter part of Sir Hamar's answer was greeted with cries of "Why?"

RIFLE QUEEN'S COFFIN

Gold and Silver Crowns Also Taken From German Mausoleum
Berlin, Feb. 24.—Burglars rifled the mausoleum of Charlottenburg Castle Sunday. They forced the lid and removed the jewels from Queen Louise's coffin, but failed to open the other coffins. They removed the gold and silver and gilded crowns lying on the coffins of Emperor William I, Empress Augusta, Prince Albrecht and others.

Bulgarian Assembly Dissolved
Sofia, Bulgaria, Feb. 24.—The government has decreed dissolution of the National Assembly, because of difficulties caused by the Socialists.

Cable Briefs

The question of maintaining a large standing army will be taken up by the military committee of the French Chamber of Deputies tomorrow. The Article X of the League of Nations covenant will have a large bearing on the plans of the French Government. Without definite assurance of American help, France feels she must keep an army of at least 1,000,000 ready for action.

The Paris Socialist Federation has adopted an out-and-out Bolshevik program, which it will present to the national Socialist congress at Strasbourg next week.

Dr. P. Chalmers Mitchell, the British scientist, who is flying from Cairo to Capetown, reports that he and his companions are making satisfactory progress. Several accidents have delayed them, and the extreme heat has prevented flying at great speed during the day. He also reports the lions disturb their slumbers in the jungle at night.

Values along North Broad Street are mounting. It seems to be the big Automobile meeting place. We have one of the very best corners on North Broad Street—has about 30,000 square feet, has railroad siding, storage, and office. You will find this an ideal proposition and the price is inviting as the location.

BRITAIN TO ABOLISH CONSCRIPTION SOON

Churchill Says Nation Is Example to Whole World, "Even Pious America"

"SNEER," CRIES HECKLER

London, Feb. 24.—Conscription will be abolished in Great Britain March 21, and within six months from that date the last conscript will be entitled to be released, it was announced by Winston Churchill, secretary for war, in moving the army estimates in the Commons yesterday.

He stated Great Britain had succeeded in raising and organizing an entirely new volunteer army which at the time conscription would lapse number about 220,000, excluding troops in India. The nation would be able with her reorganized army to place in the field in case of emergency twenty divisions, with cavalry and auxiliary services, and supplied with the most modern equipment a British army ever had.

Incidentally, the war secretary disclosed that a new tank had been produced, with a speed of twenty miles an hour, and a long life mechanically. In a trial run of 1000 miles, he said, virtually no wear had developed.

Mr. Churchill declared Great Britain had fought at the Peace Conference for abolition of conscription, but there was no response to his representations. The only other great power which Great Britain succeeded in persuading to abolish conscription was Germany, and that only under compulsion. All other states had maintained compulsory service as the basis of their military system. These states, he added, included even the United States, the originator of the League of Nations, and Russia, "the home of advanced political thought."

Mr. Churchill emphasized his confidence in what the country would say when the general election came to a government which, in abolishing conscription, had set an example to the whole world, "even to pious America." Captain William Woodhead Benn intervened. "A disgraceful sneer," he said. Mr. Churchill retorted to Captain

Benn, who is slight of stature, but who, however, has won the D. S. O. and numerous other honors for valor in the late war: "My honorable friend must really not develop more indignation than he can contain."

Mr. Churchill said that Great Britain's army would be slightly bigger than before the war. New responsibilities overseas had been placed on the country in consequence of the war and besides, the whole eastern world, in which Britain was interested more than any other power, was in a state of extreme disquiet.

"Considering our burdens throughout the Middle East, Constantinople, Egypt, Persia and Mesopotamia," Mr. Churchill said, "no relief can be expected until a real peace is made with Turkey. We have lost ground steadily during the whole of last year, and I trust that having dispersed our armies, we shall not now take steps which would drive the Turkish people to despair or undertake any new obligations which any other resources are not equal to their discharge."

The army vote for £75,000,000 (nominally $375,000,000), on account of which the debate was raised, was agreed to by 215 against 52.

The military service bill, under which the British army operated during the greater part of the war, expires by limitation April 30 next, the date by which Mr. Churchill announces all conscripts shall be entitled to release.

FRENCH LOSE 1400 TROOPS

Turks and Arabs Said to Have Won Victory in Palestine

London, Feb. 24.—It is reported from Damascus that 1400 French troops either have been killed or made prisoner by a force of Turks and Arabs near Hauran, Palestine, says a Central News dispatch from Cairo dated last Wednesday.

The correspondent added that it also is reported that the French are evacuating Haabek (thirty miles north of Damascus) and the El Bika Valley lying between Lebanon and Anti-Lebanus. There is no confirmation of the reports.

GETHSEMANE TREE FALLS

Tradition Holds Fall of Turkish Empire Is Due Now

Jerusalem, Feb. 24.—In a recent snowstorm the famous tree named "El Rutini," in the Garden of Gethsemane, was blown down.

According to tradition, that tree would fall when the Turkish Empire fell. Twice it was bound round with iron braces to prevent its falling. The occurrence has impressed the population.

The Garden of Gethsemane contained seven ancient olive trees. According to Christian tradition they date from the time of Christ, but according to the Moslems from the sixth century or the time of Mahomet. Their age-split trunks have been bound with bands of iron and shored up with stones. High prices have been obtained for olive oil obtained from these trees and for rosaries made from the olive staves.

Our Disabled Soldiers

Neglected—Exploited—Forgotten

The Public should be heard from in no uncertain terms

WITHOUT the courage of conviction to speak aloud upon injustice, mal-administration or incompetence a newspaper is false to its trust.

For 119 years, News Value and Journalistic Merit have been characteristic of articles appearing in The New York Evening Post.

Since its establishment, in 1801, successive generations of Americans have formed the habit of depending upon its columns for facts.

The New York Evening Post is an independent, not a partisan, newspaper. It will consistently follow the course of presenting facts and its utmost endeavor will be to see that these facts are fundamentally sound, uncolored by partisanship or personal feeling.

Such an occasion has now arisen—a most important "Draft upon the country's honor" has been dishonored.

Every American with red blood in his veins should read Harold Littledale's articles on the treatment accorded our disabled ex-service men.

It is your fight they fought. They paid in blood and agony. Conditions shown are intolerable. It is your duty to learn the facts, which public demand must change.

With due regard to its responsibility—to its standing as a conservative and non-partisan publication—and only after very careful investigation, The New York Evening Post is printing a series of articles on the utter failure of the officials charged with the duty of so doing to pay this "draft of honor," in so far as the rehabilitation of disabled soldiers, sailors and marines is concerned.

in any quantity, to individuals or organizations. ($2.50 a thousand.)

All claim to "copyright" is expressly waived. Newspapers are urged to reprint. Upon request we will even supply "mats" without charge to those newspapers which will aid the boys by so doing.

Articles of great interest are usually "syndicated" (allowed to be reprinted) at a price.

But this is a subject for neither commercialism nor delay. The information should reach every American citizen possible from Maine to California.

Send two postage stamps for a copy—once read, you will need no further urging. Better yet, send for 1,000 or 5,000 copies of Littledale's report—pass them on to others.

Give copies of the report to your Congressmen, your Senators, and your Mayor—to your clergymen, your local editors, to members of the American Legion and other patriotic societies.

And to this end The New York Evening Post will reprint the first six or seven articles immediately, and will supply them at half their cost.

Condemnation—destructive criticism, so richly merited, must be followed by a plan, some plan—your own plan perhaps that will bring order out of chaos.

Public opinion must be aroused. Read the facts.

Investigate the situation in your own town, and let public indignation not subside until incompetence and gross neglect have been succeeded by the sort of treatment these boys have earned—that was promised them—that is being paid for.
