One of the men who received a collegiate scholarship is Abraham Zelomek, student at the Wharton School, University of Penusylvania. He served in street. States eleven years and was a newsboy in Rochester, N. Y., prior to his entrance in the Wharton School.

Lost Many Relatives "I realized," said Mr. Zelomek yestarday. "that as I was deprived of an education in Poland, I ought to take advantage of the opportunity given me through American institutions of learning. I lost virtually my whole family in the war; one of my uncles had four children and only two are left. I lost one of my grandparents. I have recently received a letter from one of my mother's relatives to the effect that this relative is sick and starving in Russia. My grandfather, during the terrible period of war, was sent from city to city, and finally wound up in Russia. The $107 which I am receiving from the Y. M. C. A. will make it possible
