TWO OUTFIELDS IS A'S PLAN FOR 1920

Connie Mack to Have Right-Handed Hitting Trio and Another Southpaw Sluggers

STALLINGS'S SYSTEM

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL s Editor Evening Public Ledger

Lake Charles, La., March 9. 1914 George Stallings won the National League championship mainly because he had two outfields. He had three righthanded hitting fly-chasers and three garden experts who hit from

When right-banders opposed the when a southpaw was announced George sent his right-handed swatting fleet to the garden. Many a tight game was won by Boston because of the close, scientific manner in which the Georgian scientific manner in which the Georgian manipulated his batsmen. For many years Mr. Mack has been shy of ma-terial, but this year he can shuffle the outfield as Stallings did in 1914. Mack has good fielders on his string and he told me the other day that he intended told me the other day that he intended to keep at least six.

Connie has three sturdy right-handed sticksmiths in Tilly Walker, George Burns and Frank Welsh. Burns was addicted to the first-base habit almost throughout his career, but late last season Mack tried him in right and will try to keep him there because of his batting ability.

Cage fans in Philadelphia will have their choice of two extraordinary at-tractions this evening and in widely separated sections. Those that care to see the big stuff will travel to German-WALKER is booked for left field. He is one of the hardest hitters in the game and a wonderful thrower. Welsh Fast and Can Hit

THE chubby Welsh is mighty fast and is also a good hitter. He introduced bimself to the fans in a game at Shibe Park in the ebbing days of the season.

Frank's debut was a royal one. In his first time at the bat he lammed the old apple into the bleachers for a home

Murphy always had a good baseball end. When he was a private in the Athletics' ranks, he was a member of the board of strategy. Dan is a close student of the science of batting. His knowledge of that art is profound and will be of advantage to any young player trying to find himself.

GOOD old Dan is not a kid any more.

His hair is gray and he is marking time with the middle age milepost limit, but he is still a valuable man to have on a ball club. His personality and brains keep him in the game.

Murph started off in great shape. He took the aggressive end of the battle, and he was still forcing the fighting when the final tingle of the gong sounded. Valger didn't work any too hard in the opening round, which ended even. then, in the second round, Valger got his lightning left working like a streak, and soon had Jim bleeding from the nose. In the middle of the period a right cross all but toppled over Murph, but the West Philadelphia Irishman kept his feet, fought back hard and had Valger doing a backstep at the sound of the bell.

Murphy again showed better form in the third session. This period, too, ended in a fifty-fifty split. Jimmy kept on top of Valger throughout the round These famous pencils are made in the original factories established in 1790 by & C.
