MOTHER SAVES BABY AT FIRE

Carries Infant Through Smoke When Her Home Burns

Mrs. Robert McDowell carried her ix months old baby to safety through oke and heat at 8 o'clock this morn-after flames had attacked the Mc-well home at 1272 South Newkirk

Mrs. McDowell had returned to her bad on the second floor front after preparing breakfast for her husband. Her baby was nestled in her arm.

At 8 o'clock she was startled from her sleep by choking smoke and the crackling of flames. Wrapping her child in a blanket she groped her way through the smoke and fought her way to the street.

After giving the plarm and turning baby over to neighbors, it is said, McDowell collapsed. The fire did about $1000 damage.

DREAMLAND ADVENTURES

THE MEDICINE MAN

"We don't need to be straid." whis-pered Billy into Peggy's ear. "I've read that the medicine men of long, long ago just fooled folks into thinking they had magic when they really didn't have any at all. We will show them some magic that will surprise them." (Peggy and Billy, taken by a charm back to the long ago, rescue Chief Eagle Feather's braves from Red Dog's savages, and then when Red Dog's warriors are captured try to prevent their being burned at the stake. "Ugh!" grunted the Indians. They had never seen a watch, and they thought Billy had picked it right out of the air instead of dropping it from his sleeve, where he had hidden it. Billy told them that this spirit of wheels and springs measured the day and night, marking off the hours as they passed.
