C. MACK HAS GREAT CHANCE TO GET OUT OF CELLAR THIS YEAR

Connie, When Cornered, Admits He Has No Designs on Flag, but Ball Club Looks Good Enough for Seventh Place at Least

> By ROBERT W. MAXWELL Sports Editor Evening Public Ledger

Lake Charles, La., March 16. CONNIE MACK, the long, lean leader of the Athleties, occupies a unique posi-tion in baseball this year. He is the one and only pilot in the fast set who has no designs on the pennant. He is very frank about it, but that does not mean he is discouraged. That word was taken out of his private dictionary five years ago.

However, Manager Mack has visious of vacating the lower berth in the league. and has gathered around him a flock of aspiring young athletes, and the flock is tolling down here day after day, sharing the belief of their manager that the 1920 edition of the Philadelphia Athletics will not be placed in the steerage class. Having trailed the league for five long and weary seasons, they have no desire to be listed among the six best cellars.

Connie has had a tough job on his hands since dismantling his famous machine in 1914. The Federal League war was hitting on all cylinders at that time and Mack wanted to get out from under in case there was a crash. He parted Eddie Collins, Barry, Baker, Eddie Murphy, Plank, Bender, Coombs and Jack Lapp, believing he could go out in the open market and find men to fill their places. It couldn't be done. Then came the Big War, and more stars were turned loose. Strunk, Schang,

Bush and McInnis were sold to Boston, and Connie had to begin all over again. He tried out players by the carload and shipped them back whence they came. labeled "opened by mistake." That did not discourage him, for he stuck to the job and it looks now as if his efforts would be rewarded. After looking over the thirty-one players practicing down here. I cannot see how the Athletics can trail the league in 1929. The ball club has not the appear-

The oldest eather is twenty-three years of age, and the same goes for the infield. Griffin, at first base, is twentythree; Dugan, who is starting on his fourth season as a regular, is twenty-two Galloway, the shortstop, is twenty-two, and Frank Brazill, who looks like the regular third baseman, has attained the ripe old age of twenty.

Brazill comes to the A's highly recommended. He started with Brooklyn

Galloway and Griffin hail from Atlanta. The little shortstop hit .263 last year and was regarded as one of the best defensive players in the league. Griffin hit ,303 and finished second among the first basemen in fielding. Ralph Perkins is the grizzled old veteran of the eatchers. He is twenty-three years old, which tops Johnny Walker, of Des Moines and Glenn Myatt, of Houston, by one year. Bill Styles, the fourth receiver, east his first vote this year. Lawton Witt is the youngest of the outfielders. Although he has been with the club since 1916, he is only twenty-three. The other regulars, however, bring up the age average. Walker and Strunk are over thirty and George Burns is twenty-six. There are other outfielders and not one is over twenty-two years old. They are Frank Welsh and Red Wingo, formerly of Atlanta, Charley High.

from Mobile, and George McKnew, from the coast. For a long time the Athletics have been handleapped by weak pitching. The hurlers could not deliver and Connie started to clean house. As a result, only three of the old men are left. Scott Perry, who jumped the team last year to play in Franklin, Pa., has been reinstated and promises to be good. Walter Kinney, the southpaw, and Roland Naylor also have survived.

La Salle also is showing up well. Lyle Bigbee, who finished with Scattle in 1919, stacks up very well, and much is expected from Edwin Rommel, of Newark; Bob Hasty, of Mobile, and Dave Keefe, of Reading.

THE kid pitchers are Bill Greech. William Pireson. Roy Moore, Charles Eckart and George Gibson.

Lots of Competition

CONNIE MACK, after he assigned Try Griffin to cover first base, discovered he still had George Burns on the payroll, and immediately looked around to find a place for him. Despite the seven other outfielders, the well-known slugger was assigned to right field, where he is fighting it out with Walker and Wingo. Burns did not set the world after with his elever fielding last year, but was all that could be desired in the batting line. He is considered too valuable a man to keep out of the game, and if he shows anything at all in right field, that will There is quite a little competition for the positions on the team, all of which is something new, and Connie is elated.

I only wish there were twenty outlielders trying for the three jobs." he said. "The more competition we have the better ball playing will result. The players on this club have been taking it too easy in the past, and the time has come for a change. I even have them fighting in the infield. Burrus is trying for first. Jimmy Dykes, second; Bob McCann, short, and Fred Thomas, third. If a man starts to fall down in his work. I will substitute another and that keeps the boys on their toes.

Connie Mack has instituted a new policy this year. He says he will not sell or trade another player to a big league club, and will ask waivers on the men he wishes to dispose of. He learned that some of his players grew weary of playing cellar basepall and went into voluntary slamps so they could be traded to another club. This ruined the discipline on the team, and there was no chance to finish better than eighth. Therefore, Mack was forced to take this drastic step, and he will go through with it.

The Athletics' first team now is touring Texas with the St. Louis Cardinals. Sixteen games will be played in the vicinity of Brownsville, while the Yannigans will remain here at Lake Charles until March 31.

ANAY MURPHY, who helped win pennants for Philadelphia when DANNY MERPHY, who reciped win pennants you the Athletics were in a pennant-winning mood, is assisting Counter to say Mack this year. With a new assistant, and virtually a new team, to say nothing of a gang of kids, we still stick to our prediction that the Athletics will not finish in last place. They couldn't do it if they tried.

unable to beat an old legena, and as a result Johnny Rose, a real, rugged, tough, steel-ribbed, iron-jawed chunk of fistic foundry, was on his feet at the finish of the limited half dozen frames at the Olympia last night. While Ten-dler won in one-sided fashion, the fact that Rose was among those present at the final clang of the gong resulted in a big victory for the defeated person. The Logan lambaster was presented with a basket of flowers by admirers from his voting district previous to the opening bell, and there's where the legend stuff comes in. Picked by the smart set, wise crackers and sharks as an easy knockout victor over Rose, who an easy knockout victor over Rose, who bails from Milwaukee, Tendler was unable to stow away the tough guy. Jack Hobens, who won the metropolitan open golf championship in 1908, is said to be signed up by the Huntingdon Valley Country Club as its pro for this season. Hobens has been at Englewood C.
