The verdict and possible sentence of the court-marital must be reviewed by Lieutenant General Robert E. Bullard, commander of the Department of the East, with headquarters here.

General Bullard was asked this aftenoon if failure to send a notice of acquittal to Bergdoll indicated beyond doubt that the slacker had been convicted.

Desertion from the army in time of war is a violation of the fifty-eighth article of war carrying death as a possible penalty.

The court-martial is at liberty to inflict any term of imprisonment the members desire, subject to approval by the reviewing authorities.
