est years around the ages of twenty-six and twenty-seven. If the same dope applies to Carpentier the Frenchman is now at the crest of his prime. He is bound to be a far better man than he was around nineteen and twenty. Dempsey at twenty was unknown. At twenty-one he was only an ordinary boxer. Fitzsimmons, Johnson and Willard were all over thirty before they The Frenchman was born on Jan-mary 12, 1894, so he is a trifle more than twenty-six years old.

His last fight before the war was a victory over Kid Jackson at Bordeaux on July 25, 1914. A week later the red deluge arrived, and Carpentier was forced to give up boxing for more than five years, at the boxing prime of his

Grave Lost to Penn
The University of Pennsylvania basketball toam, which meets the University of Chicago for the American collegiate championship, starting next Monday, will be without the services of Bill Grave, star center, it was announced tast night. Grave has been stricken with measies and a quarantine has been clamped on him for two weeks.

Coach Lon Jourdet has not decided whom to place at center instead of Grave. Joe Yates has substituted for the Springfield (Mass.) boy in a number of games, but always after Penn had a comfortable lead. Yates has never been under fire in a close same. For this reason it is believed Coach Jourdet may switch Danny McNichol from guard to the tap-off position and use Milt Zucker, a substitute guard, in McNichol's regular position.

Minus the services of Bill Grave, Penn's varsity basketball team last evening is Weightman Hall defeated an all-star alumniquintet, 29 to 23.

But tomorrow—or somewhat later—You'll leave through the dusk or dew By a trail where the dream is endless—By a trail where the dream is endless—By a trail that is it new.

Distance Lends Enchantment
The bard was entirely and eminently accorrect. "Distance lends enchantment." As further proof we have the rease of "Babe" Ruth. Why should the home run king of baseball become so keen about the game of golf? Ruth, like all other ball players, likes to see them travel. Taking a full wallop he can lay against a baseball and possibly drive it 150 yards or maybe 500 feet. That distance would be close to his limit. But taking a full wallop at a golf wallop he roistering "Babe" can drive it from 250 to 300 yards, or almost twice as far.

There have been kid phenoms in golf, thennis and other sports, but records of vrofessional boxers scoring knockouts at fourteen are extremely few and thin. Carpentier for the first time will now be tested after he has passed well into his prime. He was not sufficiently developed at nineteen or twenty to be at his best. At twenty-six he is well-matured and with the skill, speed and hitting power which he undoubtedly has, he will reach the United States as one of the greatest ring attractions the game has ever put forward. The reserves will be needed to keep away the multitudes when he slides into the resin for his first appearance here.
