TEACHERS TO SEEK PUBLIC SYMPATHY

Various Methods for Getting Increase Advocated at Meeting of Public School Principals

DR. FINEGAN TO COME HERE

Plans for a vigorous campaign to en-list the sympathy of the public in a movement to obtain higher salaries for school teachers were outlined at a meeting yesterday of public schools principals in the William Penn High School.

Distribution of bailots asking the vote of the people, addresses in moving pic-ture theatres, and appeals from the pul-pits of churches were among other things advocated.

Finegan, state superintendent of public instruction, announced at Pittsburgh, where he conferred with the Board of Education, that the State Department proposed to fix a minimum salary for teachers in various classes of cities. The campaign in this city will start a few days. It is expected to re-
