

TABLETS KILL CHILD
 Also Made Ill After Eating Drug
 A three-year-old child, 308 Twenty-second street, is dead as a result of eating tablets which are believed to have contained strychnine, white phosphorus, and other poisons. Claude, three years old, is recovering from the effects of the same tablets. His sister, a two-year-old boy, with their sister, two years old, were playing in their home Saturday afternoon when they found some tablets in an envelope. Believing them candy, Nelson ate some of them, but spit them out. A short time later, Nelson staggered into his home and was seized with convulsions. His mother and a neighbor, after which both boys were taken to the University Hospital. Claude died a short time later, but she is recovering.

Seen in the Chestnut Street Snoop

HENRY R. HALLOWELL & SON

Some of us learn through sad experience and some of us through observation that it never pays to buy articles of inferior quality—that it is cheaper in the end to pay a little more for an article which will last twice as long and give better service than the one whose initial expense may have been less, but whose wearing qualities are nil. To the discriminating class of buyers who appreciate articles of good quality the Chestnut Street Snoop addresses their advertising, thereby making certain beforehand of satisfied customers.

Delora Begam

GIFT-BASKETS of Fruit, whose gorgeous colors are as perfectly blended, as in some gay-colored tapestry, attract the eye in the window of Henry R. Hallowell & Son's store, Broad Street below Chestnut. The baskets are hand-painted, some with bold dashes of effect, and filled with Hallowell's most luscious fruits—among them Peaches, Plums, Nectarines from South Africa and clusters of Hot-house Grapes from Belgium—they form the most delightful gift imaginable. Honey Dew Melons, which taste as delectable as they sound, form a most refreshing spring dessert. These are particularly fine. Hallowells guarantee perfect delivery of their Gift-Baskets and all of their fruits to points within 1000 miles of Philadelphia.

FRESH strawberry ice cream, made with the richest of cream, tastes mighty good after the theater, as a number of people have discovered since Yahn & McDonnell began making it at their tearoom, 1508 Chestnut Street. Many of us, drop in for a plate in the afternoon and find it most refreshing. Have you ever tried their sandwiches? They are as dainty and fresh as can be. And then, there's the delicious chicken soup which they serve at luncheon every day.

AN EXQUISITE shade of old mulberry forms the background of the lovely Saruk rug in the window of Fritz & La Rue's store at 1615 Chestnut street. Blue and gold are blended in perfect harmony in the border. This rug would be suitable for the house in the suburbs which has its living room extending across the front. There are a number of smaller rugs, too, dignified of design and gorgeous of coloring, suitable for the apartment or suburban home. The subdued colorings of these beautiful Oriental rugs lend themselves well to either formal or informal surroundings—the Saruk which I have described, for instance, would look equally well with the furniture of the Renaissance or with that of our own Colonial periods.

TRULY the spirit of spring breathes through the cheery verses on the Easter Cards at the store of Frank J. Curry, 812 Chestnut Street. Delicately colored they are and most artistically designed. There is an infinite variety of them to choose from. You really should make your selection of cards now, while there is such an interesting assortment. I noticed at Curry's, too, some very attractive framed pictures that would make lovely gifts, for Easter. There are some of those apple blossom pictures by Wallace Nutting which are delightfully spring-like. A box of gaiters is another Easter remembrance which is much in favor, and you will find at Curry's stationery of very good quality at most reasonable prices.

FITTING footwear needs accompany that trim new tailored suit which is part of your spring toilette. You will really be surprised when you see the oxfords and pumps at the store of Del Mar & Co., 1211 Chestnut Street. Their moderate prices are made possible by the low rental of their second-floor store. The new one-eyelot ties in brown oxford that was very good-looking. I saw there a neat dark brown and black are correct for wear with the tailored suit and look particularly well with the one-piece dresses that we will be wearing in a few weeks. Black patent leather pumps to be worn with spats are most attractive, and you will also find the dull black leather and dark brown leather spats at the Del-Mar shop.

Smart Suits and Dresses for Easter
And All So Moderately Priced

The Easter season rush for new clothes is at its height, and admiration and satisfaction are evident every minute. There is a delighted trying on of this style and that, and all the new fashions are so lovely, so feminine, so new and different, that "trying on" is the happiest pastime. Our stocks are wonderful—there's nothing new or beautiful in the whole realm of fashion that is not represented here. Suits and Dresses at the following prices are so much in demand that we are outlining them briefly for your perusal:

Tailored Suits, $42.50 to $62.50
 These show the tendency toward plaited and tucked jackets, with the waist-line youthfully outlined by a belt. There are also beltless models smartly flaring from the waist-line, other models on straight lines and loosely girdled, and some on plain, straight, close-fitting lines, almost mannish in severity. Developed in fine serge, Poiret will, tricotine and gabardine. Black, navy blue and some colors.

A Fine Group of Extra-Size Suits
 Especially modeled for full figures, and showing all the fashionable types known in regular-size Suits, but adapted to the larger proportions. Large women who have had difficulty in being fitted will find they are as well cared for here as their more slender sisters. These Suits are of men's-wear serge, Poiret twill and tricotine, and are to be had in black, navy blue and plum shades. Prices $57.50 to $125.00.

Silk Dresses, $22.50 to $30.00
 Crepe de chine and taffeta silk, in styles suitable for afternoon wear. Some are on straight lines, others have tunics, some have draped blouses fastening on the shoulder, others are made with smart little vestees. In navy blue, Flemish blue, taupe and black.

Silk Dresses, $40.00 to $55.00
 Beaded crepe Georgette, combinations of foulards with crepe Georgette, and lovely models of taffeta and crepe de chine, and of figured crepe Georgette. Beautiful Dresses, with draperies and plaitings and sashed girdles—and the taffetas are all frilled and quilled and puffed and tucked, in the most approved fashion. In all the newest spring shades.

Wool Dresses, $16.50 to $210.00      Evening Dresses, $75.00 to $425

Women May Pay Much Less for Handsome New Silk Blouses

Timely indeed, the remarkable opportunity to save on the most wanted kinds of Blouses—models of CREPE GEORGETTE and TRICOLETTE. New designs, new shades, just the kinds well-dressed women are needing to accompany new Easter costumes:

Crepe Georgette Blouses
 $4.95, $5.95, $6.75

Remarkable values in models trimmed with frills, vest effects, stylish closing at the side, or Slip-over Blouses. In bisque, blue dawn, Bermuda, orchid, peach, flesh-color or white, beautifully beaded, embroidered or lace-trimmed.

Tricolette Over-Blouses
 Now $6.50 and $8.75

These are the distinctive new Over-Blouses so in vogue. Some are in picturesque tie effect with saucy little pockets. Others in peplum style. Shades include orange, jade green, Copenhagen blue, Bermuda, tan, flesh color or rose.

Men's Suits With Two Pairs of Trousers—Special

Of Gray Worsted or Blue Serge—$47.50
Of Medium-weight Gray Fabrics—$43.50

Both groups are attracting unusual attention. The former in spring weight, all spic-span new; the latter in a good year-around weight. The wear-prolonging feature of the extra pair of trousers is worthy of special consideration—and the prices are about one-third less than actual retail value.

The Suits, at $47.50, are of "Alco" and other good makes and are to be had in all regular and "stout" sizes. The Suits at $43.50, are in single- and double-breasted styles for men and young men and are in practically all sizes and proportions. They would be excellent value without the extra pair of trousers, at these prices!

Hart, Schaffner & Marx Light-weight Top Coats Reduced—$23.50, $27.50, $33.50

They arrived too late for last autumn's selling. In every essential of weight, style and fabric they are desirable for wear this spring—the only difference being a substantial reduction from former prices.

Men's Clothing Styles for Spring

—are now ready for inspection. From Stein-Bloch, Hart, Schaffner & Marx, the "Alco" shops and our other dependable suppliers, we have Suits and Top Coats, in the most recent authentic styles for spring, 1920. Correct single- and double-breasted effects, of fine fabrics in smart new pencil stripes, checks, mixtures, and herringbone patterns. Plenty of fine Flannel and Worsted Suits in plain blue, green and brown.

Muslin Underwear
Night Gowns—High or surplice-neck models of cambric, trimmed with neat embroidery; three-quarter-length sleeves. Very comfortable for chilly spring nights—$2.00.

Windsor Crepe Night Gowns, in various pretty styles. Some plain, others figured—$2.50 to $2.95.

Unionettes—Ever so practical and comfortable, these plain tailored models of madras, voile or barred muslin, some with ribbon shoulder straps. Among them Flesh-color Unionettes. Prices—$1.65 to $3.95.

Short Petticoats—Of soft cambric, trimmed prettily with sturdy embroidery—50c.

Long Cloth Marcella Drawers—$1.50

1200 Men's New Neckties to Sell at One Dollar
