

LAYMEN TO LEAD PRESBYTERIANS
 Willis Baer, of Pasadena, Will Be Moderator of Assembly Here

General Assembly opens in this city May 20 at the Academy of Music. The layman chosen for this distinction is J. Willis Baer, of Pasadena, Calif.

Nine hundred commissioners from all parts of the United States will attend the assembly, and many will be accompanied by their wives.

The various committees which will aid in details of the assembly were named yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Alexander MacColl, who heads the general committee.

Dr. Alexander MacColl is chairman of the executive committee. The other members are: The Rev. M. A. Bronson, William Austin Obydyke, J. G. Bolton, William P. Fulton, Jr., Allan Blair, H. Alfred Boggs, Edward Y. Hill, J. A. MacCallum, G. H. McCartney, William H. Roberts, Clarence Woods, Jr., Craig N. Liggett and F. L. Waldo.

Prominent Philadelphians are on the finance committee, which also was announced yesterday. They are: Thomas De Witt Cuyler, chairman; William P. Gest, Charles L. Houston, Alba B. Johnson, William A. Law, George H. McFadden, William B. Nicholson, William A. Obydyke, G. Colesbury Purves, Samuel Ros, Francis B.

Reeves, George Stevenson and John Wanamaker.

To Discuss Movements
 The New Era Movement and the Interchurch World Movement promise to furnish exciting discussion at the assembly, according to a statement made yesterday by Doctor Bolton.

In connection with the 132d assembly will be observed the centennial of the old Board of Education which has been absorbed in combination with the old college board, in what is now known as the general board of education. A number of the women will attend the assembly as representatives of missions and humanitarian enterprises. Many of the 900 commissioners from throughout the United States will be accompanied to Philadelphia by their wives and other members of their families.

Easter Offer Extraordinary

A collection of the finest worsted suits ready for immediate wear that can be found anywhere in America.

$50

THAT is a strong assertion to make, but the facts bear it out.

These worsteds were purchased from a jobber who deals only in the best tailoring cloths the looms can produce.

They were bought by a manufacturer whose finished product compares favorably with our own.

An artist designed them and an artist trimmed them; good Philadelphia benchmen tailors made them.

We feel certain that no better suits than these will be sold in Philadelphia this season at $75 and $85.

But we would like to let the suits speak for themselves, and if you pass 1217 Chestnut Street today or tomorrow, make it a point to examine them critically.

They are on display in our west window.

THE BIG FACTOR OF SAFETY

Engineers have been building safety into Pierce-Arrow Cars for two decades.

Their nicely balanced weight holds them to the road at any speed. The greater power of Dual Valves and twin-spark ignition permits acceleration that takes them through traffic jams unscathed.

Their improved gear shift, almost automatic in its action, invites use when needed and permits the shift at any speed.

Faithful brakes that grip and hold and a steering system that responds to the lightest touch—these are some of the ways by which the Pierce-Arrow owner is safeguarded—ways that have been developed and improved as the need has arisen.
