TO GET ALL EUROPE

Emboldened by Disorders in Germany, They Set Date for General Strike

MODERATE CHIEFS PROTEST GOVERNMENT QUITS

Geneva, March 27 .- Although many Suropean labor leaders have been showing a tendency to moderate their revolutionary policy, the extremist minority, Poles Move to Bromberg as Bolemboldened by disorders in Germany, are more determined than ever to precipitate a general revolution.

Left-wing leaders of the Socialist parties and the great trade unions are planning a vast general strike throughout Europe in order to establish the dictatorship of the proletariat.

Socialist chiefs, with some notions of statesmanship, however, like Hender-son in England, Thomas in France and Turati in Italy, are striving to prevent the execution of this plan. They declare the execution of this plan. They declare it is doomed to failure and would in-evitably lead to a violent reactionary movement, in which the working classes would risk losing most of the rights and privileges they now enjoy.

Thus, even so radical a revolutionist
as Jean Longuet, at the Strasbourg congress of French Socialists, expressed doubts whether the time was yet ripe "world uprising" championed

Most of the prominent labor union beders seem to be equally skeptical about the success and apprehensive of the consequences of a general Bolshe.

Bolsheviki, according to a wireless disvist coup. But these men are influenced by the radical successes in Germany. They are cowed by the violence of the extremists and fear losing their fol-lowing among the workers if they show toe much moderation. Therefore, it is by no means certain that they will succeed in averting the spread Spartacism throughout Europe.

Minority May Seize Power

The Bolshevist plotters are not dis-couraged by the fact that they are a minority. Their doctrines teach how a minority may capture power.

The recent French railroad strike is a case in point. It was started by a minority of employes on a single railminority of employes on a single rail-road.
