

Please Tell Me What to Do
By CYNTHIA

Answers "Acetylene"
Dear Cynthia—Kindly print this for me to "Acetylene." "She's" here at last. I answer the description of the girl you're hunting for. Maybe some day we'll meet.
I am a young girl of eighteen years. Have blue eyes, dark brown hair and am five feet three inches tall. I never went out to work. Since I was graduated from school I was kept home to learn housework. So you see, I am a very competent housekeeper now.
I spend all my evenings at home with the exception of some nights, every now and then, I go to a show with my girl friends and must be home at 9:30. I have had no men callers as yet, so you see I'm quite lonesome.
I dance a little; you don't mind, as I only dance at home when the girls call.
"Acetylene," I don't think you know where to find your type of girl. In Philadelphia there are lots of good, home girls, the kind you're looking for. Nowadays the fellows don't seem to like the home girls. They want to go around with the artificial dolls. Then at the end fall back on us good girls who never went out with a man. Do you sympathize with me, "Acetylene"?

A O'CLOCK BIRDIE
Your contention might be taken that good girls do not go out with men. That would be a very foolish and far-fetched idea. Extremes are never wise. Temperance in all things, save wrongdoing, is to be encouraged.
They Are Disgusted
Dear Cynthia—We are two girls of nineteen and twenty and we would like to know what boys are good for. We've never found any use for them yet. Most of the girls who write to your column seem to be crazy about boys. Would they and the boys themselves kindly tell us what there is in them? We don't hate them for nothing. We used to go with them a good deal when we were younger and we seemed to very popular with them, as we have both had several proposals of marriage, none of which we have accepted. We stopped going with them because we have never found one yet who could keep an engagement. They are very flake and we know some that are engaged to two girls at once. They always freeze on us at first and then after a while they get tired of us and go for some other girl. They always want to kiss us and we know that as soon as they leave our house they go straight to some other girl's house, and want to kiss her, too. Most boys are poor losers. In any game we have played nine boys out of ten get sulky if they are beaten.

People talk about girls being flirts, but what about boys? We think the boys are much worse because they always start the affair.
Our opinion of boys is that they are desperate flirts and poor losers; in other words, dreadful nuisances. Don't think that we are sour grapes. We like to have good times as much as any other girl, but we have never yet found our standards, and, Cynthia, don't you really think we have some ground for our ideas?
If anybody reads this who thinks he hasn't any of the traits we have mentioned, or any girl who knows a boy of that sort we wish they would speak up, as we would be only too glad to be disillusioned.
We are so interested in your column, Cynthia, and we hope this won't be too long to print.

James C.—You have not met the right girl yet. Perhaps in these days of the H. C. of L. a practical girl would find it difficult to make up her mind to marry a man who makes only $1500 a year. When one considers rent, food, clothes, possible doctor's bills, it would take a brave woman to marry a man with
