

DELAWARE CAN WIN SUFFRAGE BATTLE

Research Chairman of Woman's Party Reveals Legislature's Opportunity

SEES ULTIMATE TRIUMPH

By a Staff Correspondent. Dover, Del., April 12.—If the Delaware Legislature...

This is the message Mrs. Helena Hill Wood of Connecticut...

"It isn't as though I failed to ratify the country from voting for the next president," she said.

"All concede that final ratification can be put off later than next January, for then Vermont and Tennessee, which now have presidential suffrage, are bound to ratify."

"Remember, also, it is a legal question whether women, coming up for their first vote, regardless of age, are in the same status as men just attaining their majority."

"Our fight here is really in aid of women of the South, for in most southern states registration is required far in advance, in Georgia it is six months in advance."

"Mrs. Wood has just come from Connecticut, where, she said today, it is not at all certain the governor will not call the special session for ratification as being asked for."

Public Sentiment Turning. A turn in the tide of public sentiment is reported by suffrage leaders who have gathered here today...

Both Sides Busy. Both the suffragists and the anti-suffrage have been as busy as bees in the state following the adjournment on Thursday.

Of the Senate the suffragists feel sure. They know, however, the resolution must not be allowed to come before the Senate until they are positive it will be concurred in by the House.

TURK NATIONALS REBEL. Will Not Negotiate While British Occupation Continues.

Constantinople, April 12.—(By A. P.)—Turkish nationalists refuse to negotiate with the British until allied forces have left Turkish soil.

When Alan Curran and Constantinople, now wrongfully occupied by the Allies, are evacuated, the nationalists will enter into official relations with the British.

An anti-Moslem meeting is expected to open before April 15, and it is said a frank declaration that the members are rebelling against the authority of the sultan will be made.

It will be contended the sultan has no religious power while the Allies retain control of the caliphate and no orders issued by him will be respected, it is said. It is expected plans for the creation of an independent caliphate will be discussed.

Danger that all of the Caucasus and Transcaucasus regions, including Armenia, may turn Bolshevik is causing much uneasiness here as the Syrian and Anatolian situation.

TRANSIT BODY TO BEGIN SURVEY

Twining Will Give Members Working Idea of Task They Are Expected to Tackle

FRANKFORD MEN ORGANIZE

Mayor Moore's transit committee will begin its active survey of transit conditions in Philadelphia with a meeting this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce.

Director of Transit Twining will appear before the committee and give them a good working idea of the task the members are expected to tackle and complete within thirty days, ending their job with a series of recommendations to the Mayor.

Colonel Barba conferred with the Mayor for an hour this morning on the general transit situation. After the conference the colonel said this afternoon's session would be closed to the public.

"We don't want members to be talking for newspaper effect," he explained. "We want them to get right down to work and formulate a solution of the transit problem."

Whether future meetings will be secret, he added, will be decided today. Pending the recommendations of the committee, the members of the Frankford Board of Trade, who conducted a drive for the speedy completion and operation of the Frankford "L," are organizing a company to bid on the "L."

If the P. R. T. and the city are unable to reach an agreement on the operation.

Larry Shumaker is in active charge. He said the company already has raised $1,000,000, and plans to raise additional funds by conducting a drive through the mills of the northeast to sell stock to those workers most interested in the completion of the "L."

The shares will sell at $10. Engineers and inspectors of the Public Service Commission will come here from Harrisburg today if the railroad situation permits, and resume survey of the P. R. T. lines.

FIRE OFFICER HURT IN FALL

James Riggs Thrown to Ground When Ladder Slips at Blaze

A falling ladder hurled a fire lieutenant to the ground this morning at a two-alarm fire in an annex of the Simister Mills, Nixon street above Umbria, Roxborough.

James Riggs, lieutenant of Engine Company No. 39, who lives on Ridge avenue below Fountain street, received a severe laceration of the scalp and numerous body bruises. He was sent to St. Timothy's Hospital.

About $10,000 damage was caused by the blaze, which was confined to a two-story stone annex to the four-story brick mill. The fire began in the picker room of the plant. It is believed a spark from a machine ignited a bunch of shoddy.

About 400 employees were at work in the main structure, most of them men, when the fire started. All fled from the building in orderly manner.

Several men who were working in the picker room escaped safely. Firemen prevented the flames from spreading beyond the annex.

One man was climbing a ladder, ax in hand, and had ascended about twenty feet when the ladder swayed and fell.

OPEN MARINE WEEK EXHIBITION TODAY

Port Booster Show in Parkway Building Is of Great Interest

MANY FEATURES ON DISPLAY

"Afloat and Ashore," a free marine exhibit fostered by the Seaman's Church Institute to show that organization will provide for seamen visiting this port was opened this morning in the auditorium of the Parkway Building.

Special features on display include exhibits loaned by the navy, merchant marine, Hog Island and other institutions interested in visiting sailors and ships.

The musical program arranged for each day is of exceptional merit. Band concerts and community singing will be featured. Four-minute speakers will tell of the port.

The Hog Island display is particularly interesting, showing, as it does, every step in the process of building ships and many of the intricate instruments used in navigation.

The exhibit furnished by the navy is warlike and gripping. Paravanes, the secret guarded so well during the war, are on display, along with exhibits showing just how the paravanes were used in cutting loose anchored mines.

Members of the committee who avail themselves of the free privilege may peer into it and get a view of the entire auditorium, and also objects from the captured U-124 added to the display. Intricate instruments of air navigation round out the naval booth.

This morning the exhibit was open to clerghmen, but thrown open to the public later. The musical program this afternoon will be in charge of the Maritime Musical Club.

This evening the exhibit will be opened in special showing to members, aids, hostesses, committees and the public in general.

Mayor Moore, who has indorsed the project heartily, will speak Thursday evening.

ADMITS SLAYING MAJOR

American Missionary Killed Officer After Hearing Wife's Confession

Bombay, India, April 12.—Ten minutes after hearing his wife's confession of infidelity, the Rev. L. W. R. Jackman, the American missionary, deliberately went to the bungalow of Major H. D. Choetee and shot him. Mr. Jackman testified during the trial. His wife followed him and asked him not to shoot in general.

The judgment of the court in sentencing Mr. Jackman to two years' imprisonment set forth that, although the accused had been for some days in a state of mental torture, it was necessary to impose the legal penalty.

ALLENTOWN GIRL MISSING

Friends' Relief Worker Disappears in Europe on Eve of Return

Paris, April 12.—Paris and Vienna police are searching for Miss Mary Ellen Apple, of Allentown, Pa., who has been missing since the eve of her proposed departure for the Austrian capital Wednesday. She was engaged here in relief work with the Society of Friends and had been in France eleven months.

Miss Apple had concluded her service with an organization helping in the Marne region and had volunteered to go to Vienna to continue relief work among civilians for the Austrian branch of the society.

Miss Apple, twenty-six years old, was considered one of the best workers of the society and had many friends, Americans and English.

Allentown, Pa., April 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Wilson H. Apple were astonished when shown the cablegram that their daughter, Mary Ellen Apple, had disappeared. The last information that they had from her was a letter received March 17, written in Paris, in which she stated she expected soon to leave for Vienna.

Miss Apple was graduated from Allentown High School, Allentown College for Women and Holyoke, after which she taught for several years at Sleighton Farm before entering war work with the Quaker Relief Association.

SIMPLICITY

Some Clothing designers, in their zeal to create new styles, overlook the fact that true style is simple, unobtrusive, unsensational.

The result of their faulty endeavor is that instead of producing clothing that is truly stylish and in good taste, they only succeed in making freakish garments—what we in the trade call "trick" clothes.

The clothing "style" that really appeals to well-groomed men is that of Simplicity.

Clothing of this type is not easy to design, it is not easy to make, and it is not easy to find manufacturers who have an organization adequate to meet these several requisites. But our advantageous connections enable us to provide precisely this kind of clothing.
