

LEGION TO LAUNCH CAMPAIGN TONIGHT

Roosevelt to Address Mass-Meeting of Veterans at Academy of Music

SPROUL TO BE PRESENT

With a mass-meeting at the Academy of Music tonight, the campaign of the American Legion in Philadelphia for an increased membership that will for an average one of the former service men and women in this city into the ranks of the organization will be begun.

Now and then some one writes to ask about articles not mentioned in this column, and we are always glad to be of service and to supply any information that we can concerning any of the articles sold in the Chestnut Street Shops. Write to Deborah Logan, 1218 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

ONE'S thought and taste are reflected in the car one purchases just as in the kind of house one chooses to live in. Those who demand that their automobiles have distinction and individuality—that combine utility with beauty—will want to see the Milburn and Rauch & Lang electric cars at the showrooms of George Hugh Smith, 228 Chestnut Street, Market.

HONEY Dew Melons—think of it! At this season of the year! Fresh Japanese Plums and Nectarines, too—all the way from South Africa! And they are so good! Many hostesses are giving their guests a delightful surprise by serving these fruits. Used as a first course or dessert, they make a novel addition to the carefully planned menu. In spite of the strike these fruits have arrived on time and in perfect condition, at Henry B. Hallowell & Son's, Broad Street, below Chestnut. Alligator Peas—before the first shipment of these have just arrived from Central America. They are known as the "salad fruit of the tropics," and are really most delicious. Asparagus, from the Imperial Valley, California, is arriving at Hallowell's, and is particularly delicious and tender.

I SAW some particularly good-looking half-hose for men at the store of Jacob Reed & Sons, 1424 Chestnut Street. They are of imported French lisle in plain colors with clocks in the heel, and are vertically color, or they are striped vertically in contrasting colors. The man who affects the note of quiet individuality in his accessories will like these, and they are well known for their excellent wearing qualities. Heeds have also some very good-looking half-hose of silk in two-tone striped effect. These have lisle feet. They are of good quality and reasonably priced. Silk half-hose in all the desirable plain colors and others with clocks embroidered in the same contrasting colors are of good heavy quality, and, not only look well, but wear well.

WHEN one sees the man of the house moving mysteriously about the place and hears him declare in no gentle tone that some one has taken his hose, and that he has a trowel in the corner near the door, one may feel quite certain that a spring has arrived. These plants are but the forerunners of the store of J. Frank Miller, 1612 Chestnut Street, where he will find rakes, shovels, spades, trowels, hand forks, and pruning shears for all the window boxes of wicker in attractive colors and designs. You can just imagine the effectiveness of pink and green English ivy in silver-gray basket.

When You Buy Shoes, Ask About the Leather and the Methods of Manufacture!

If you should be attracted by any offering of so-called "cheap" shoes, described merely as made of leather, with no word of the kind of leather, and nothing said of the manner of applying the soles, we advise that you ask questions. If they are of split leather instead of calf or kidskin, or if the soles are sewn through and through to the inside of the shoe instead of by the welt or turned-sole method, or if the heels are made of composition, you ought to know it.

These Shoes at Reduced Prices are High-Class in Every Way

They are all of SOLID LEATHER, kid or calfskin; they all have either WELTED or TURNED SOLES, and they all have solid leather or leather-covered heels—the kind of shoes it pays to buy. As nearly as we can estimate, the REDUCTIONS AVERAGE ONE-THIRD:
