

NAVY WILL TRAIN RESERVE OFFICERS

Men Told They'll Be Sent to Sea as Soon as Congress Provides Money

Service at sea on naval vessels and definite study courses will be arranged for reserve officers in the Fourth Naval district as soon as Congress makes the necessary appropriation. At a meeting of nearly 300 reserve officers last night this was announced by Captain J. J. Ziegemeier. The meeting was held in Common Pleas Court No. 2 in City Hall. Captain Ziegemeier is in charge of naval reserve force matters in the Bureau of Navigation at Washington. The meeting also was attended by Rear Admiral Charles F. Hughes, commandant of the Philadelphia Navy Yard and the Fourth Naval district, and Commander R. C. Needham the district's aide for personnel. The active training plan, as outlined, calls for the retention and concentration of the naval reserve forces as an essential backing for the regular navy in time of war. For officers sea service will be a requisite to confirmation in rank, and those whose duties kept them ashore during the war will be given the opportunity to qualify by three months' sea duty. Special study classes probably will be arranged during the coming summer under the direction of Rear Admiral Hughes, and an effort will be made to lead encouragement and opportunity for all officers to keep in touch with naval development and affairs.
