

SCHOOL AID PLEAS MADE IN CHURCHES

Governor Among Speakers Who Urge Necessity of Advancing Teachers' Salaries

NATIONAL LIFE AT STAKE

The necessity of paying school teachers adequate salaries in order that they may meet present high living costs was dwelt upon by speakers yesterday in many Philadelphia churches.

A word of warning was given by many clergymen that unless the people take a sincere interest in the present campaign to save the schools a large number of teachers would leave for more lucrative employment.

Among those who spoke in behalf of the teachers was Governor Sproul. He spoke at the First United Presbyterian Church, Fifty-second street and Chester avenue.

After speaking of the "small minority of the lawless element in our country," the Governor said the records in Washington would show that "no one apprehended in activities against the state or federal government was a product of the American school system."

See Real Crisis "The educational institutions of our country are its chief mainstay," continued the Governor. "There is now a real crisis in the school situation. If something isn't done quickly to help the public schools, and if people aren't willing to support them in a more general way, they will break down. No higher duty can be performed than to help bring about more efficiency and contentment among the teachers. We have had men in Philadelphia who served the state and country in politics in a broad-gauge way. They must now take hold as plain citizens and help solve the problems confronting the country."

The Rev. Dr. J. Gray Bolton, preaching in Hope Presbyterian Church, Thirty-third and Wharton streets, said: "The enemy of education is the enemy of the republic. If this republic is to live it must live by giving the rising generation the proper care for body and soul. The life of the republic can be preserved only by carefully educating the youth in their moral and spiritual life."

Rabbi Makes Plea Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf, in his address to the Koneseth Israel congregation, said: "We have traveled a far distance from the time when, excepting a parent, no one exceeded a teacher in consideration shown him. Our greater care in obtaining knowledge has cheapened our regard for it and for them that impart it. The teacher has almost dropped out of ranking. As a profession that of the teacher is rapidly passing out of consideration on the part of those who are conscious of intellectual power and ambitious to make use of it to their own best advantage."

The Rev. Frederick R. Griffin, of the First Unitarian Church, Chestnut above Twenty-first street, also spoke.

EUROPE STRUGGLES UP, SAYS TAYLOR

Investigator for U. S. Grain Corporation Reports Natives Heroically Aid Reconstruction

FRANCE AND ITALY SUFFER

Although still confronted by many obstacles, natives of several countries of Europe are giving valuable aid in the work of reconstruction.

countries have improved, he said, as a result of the work done by Herbert Hoover's relief commission. Through relief societies organized by Mr. Hoover, Doctor Taylor said, the health of the children of war-ridden countries has improved wonderfully.

In central Europe, Doctor Taylor said, conditions are not as hopeful as in other sections. The people there have consumed more than they have produced, clothing and ordinary commodities are scarce than they were last summer and much disease prevails.

LAST time I visited the store of Jacob Reed's Sons, 1224-26 Chestnut Street, I discovered that they have some particularly good-looking silk half hose in plain colors at a most attractive price.

CHERRIES are here—ripe, red cherries from California. They are the first of the season, and are at the store of Henry R. Halliwell & Sons, Broad Street below Chestnut.

SILK shirts count for more in a man's wardrobe during this and the coming season than at any other time of the year. They are certainly mighty comfortable on a warm day, and they always look well.

THE matter of buying a vacuum cleaner is one which is deserving of serious thought, for one hesitates to invest one's money without the assurance that it will bring returns.

ALL these interesting examples of Georgian architecture that we see springing up in Philadelphia's beautiful suburbs surely possess an increasing interest in things Colonial.

"THE best test of the value of our electric car," said a certain Philadelphia business man, "is its dependability. It is all days on the job, at any time of the day, year in, year out. Why, we drove that car to town this winter over the worst roads in this section of the country, right through mud-drifts and through mud holes when the snow came. It's that constant, even-pulling power that counts. In the electric car you have a steady, even flow of silent power, no explosions, no lapses of power, no jolts, no noise and vibration are eliminated, and the load is carried silently and smoothly."

"I want people to get rid of the common notion that France is sitting idle waiting for indemnity. The impression has gone forward that France is militarily that is unfortunate. France today is more economically minded than she was a year ago. If our country entertains a contrary impression it is wrong."

Pastor to Resume Duties The Rev. H. Alford Boggs, pastor of the Princeton Presbyterian Church, Thirty-eighth street and Powelton avenue, is expected to return to Philadelphia tomorrow for two weeks.

Dr. Alonso E. Taylor, of the University of Pennsylvania, who has reached London after a tour of Europe, made a statement to this effect yesterday. Doctor Taylor visited several countries in behalf of the United States Grain Corporation.

Furniture of Sterling Worth For Every Style of Home

With more Furniture to choose from than in any other Furniture Store in America, and with an almost unlimited style and price range to add to the delights of selection, customers can be as certain of the high qualities at the Great Van Sciver Store as they can of the sound values.

The countless thousands of homes we have furnished, and the thousands we are furnishing for our customers throughout the year, are the best evidence of the important economic position this Great Store holds in the family life of the community.
