

NOT ON $5,000,000 BOND THEFT TRAIL

Canadian Banks and Brokerage Houses to Be Combed for N. Y. Stolen Securities

MASTER PLOTTERS HUNTED

By the Associated Press
New York, May 5.—Employees and books of banking and brokerage houses in Montreal, Toronto and Quebec will be examined in the hunt for securities stolen in New York's $5,000,000 bond plot, and for traces of their marketers, it was announced here today.

Arrangements already have been completed with the Canadian High Court to honor United States Federal Court orders for such examinations in the Dominion, and application for them will be made here this week, it was stated by Paul S. Myers, counsel for a surety company which bonded many of the Wall street messengers who vanished from the financial district with millions in bonds and stocks.

It previously had been hinted that the elusive "master minds" of the bond plot, Jules W. ("Nicky") Arnstein and Nicholas Cohen, may have established a marketing system leading into a number of brokers' houses in various cities of this country and the Dominion. Yesterday Myers declared that before the hunt is ended there would be involved other New York brokerage firms than that of David W. Sullivan, who already is under indictment in connection with the disposal of stolen securities here.

The trail of Cohen is leading to the West, Myers said. Indications pointed to Cleveland as his hiding place.

Testimony of Miss Raye Cohen, "Nicky" Cohen's sister, before United States Commissioner Gilchrist recently, concerned a mysterious "woman in the case," a Miss Margaret Meeker, said to be a member of a well-known New England family, who had met Cohen while she was studying art in Greenwich Village, New York's "Bohemia."

Miss Cohen said she had seen the girl here in March, well after the hunt for Arnstein and Cohen had been started, packing two trunks for shipment to California. One of these, Miss Cohen said, she admitted contained clothes belonging to Cohen.

The Allies made peace for the United States.

Even Germans Announce Peace

"There is everywhere outside of the United States itself, with all of the great powers, including ourselves (save only Russia) peace from the recent conflict," said the senator. "The powers say it, the Germans say it.

"Our national executive, with a stubborn irresponsibility, continues to declare we are at war. But as a practical matter the only war which he wages is against American citizens and American industry. With Germany he wages no war.

"Having thus in law and in fact international peace, having nothing left but a domestic status of war created by a legislative declaration of war, with no hostilities, heretofore or now existing, or possible in the territory over which this status exists, it is not only legally sound, but economically, morally and patriotically necessary and indispensable that we at once repeal the declaration of war and so immediately end the despotic war powers with which a power-maddened administration continues to misrule this great people."

Versailles Treaty Discredited

Reiterating opposition to the treaty of Versailles, Senator Knox said it was almost universally discredited and that the Senate reservations did not Americanize the League of Nations, but merely made it safer for America to join. The league, he added, "promises little but mischief unless recast on such radical lines as will entirely obliterate its identity." Instead of the league, he urged "an arrangement for the codification of international law, the establishment of a court of international justice and the outlawry of war."

Senator Knox said that although America probably would secure virtually all desires from Germany without ratifying the treaty of Versailles, a supplemental treaty with Germany should be concluded.

"Wisdom requires the negotiation of a separate treaty between the United States and Germany," he said, "which should provide reciprocal rights and obligations between us and that country alone."

Summing up his arguments that the war was at an end, Senator Knox said:

"First. The war is at an end by virtue of the armistice of November 11, 1918, and of amendments and renewals thereof, such armistice being in fact a capitulation ending hostilities by virtual surrender of the enemy.

"Second. The war is at an end by the 'silent cessation' of hostilities, which concluded the war in fact.

"Third. The war is at an end because the government against which we specifically declared war has ceased to exist.

"Fourth. The war is at an end because we, together with our associates, negotiated with the people whom we had been fighting a treaty of peace which provided that the war should terminate and diplomatic relations be resumed when the treaty came into force."

President's Powers Limited

"Sixth. That the powers of the President came from two sources, that of the chief executive and that of commander-in-chief; that the powers of neither capacity could be invoked to augment the other; that he possessed no extraordinary powers as chief executive, save only to the extent such powers were conferred by statute which, to authorize action by him, must be duly and legally in operation.

"It results from all of the foregoing

Legal Points of Proposal

Senator Knox summed up the legal aspects of the question as follows:

"First. War is actual hostility.

"Second. That it was so understood by our constitutional fathers.

"Third. That the power to declare war was exclusively with Congress, which created the status of war by a law which, like any other law, could be amended, modified or repealed.

"Fourth. That the purpose of the war powers of the constitution was to give the national government the legal power and practical ability to conduct a successful war, that is, actual hostility.

"Fifth. That war powers could not be exercised after actual hostility had ceased.

AND AT A DINNER TO H. R. H. THE PRINCE OF WALES

A FACT: Of the many elaborate functions arranged for the Prince of Wales during his recent New York visit, there was one in particular where only the exclusive few of New York society were received. And for this affair the cigarette chosen by the hosts was Fatima.

LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Fatima's famous "just enough Turkish" blend has received many noteworthy endorsements from great hotels, leading clubs and prominent people—but here is recognition not merely of its quality but, if you will, of its "social standing."

Nor is the reason difficult to find. Three words explain it—"just enough Turkish."
