Think Them Victims of Attack, as Both Maintain Silence as to Details

ARE IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Two men were found badly injured near the riverfront early today and the police believe that they were victims of an attack. They think the injured men are trying to shield those responsible for their injuries.

The men are James McCarthy, 451 North Seventh street, and Joseph McCarthy, who gives his address as Cleveland, O.

McCarthy was found unconscious in front street near Callowhill by a patrolman of the Third street and Fairmount avenue station, shortly after midnight. His left arm was crushed and his body bore many cuts and bruises. He was taken to the Roosevelt Hospital. After recovering somewhat he said he had been struck by a motor truck. It was necessary to amputate his arm. His condition is critical.

McCarthy was found on Delaware avenue near Willow street wharf. His

Work at Hog Island Delayed by Carpenters' Strike

The strike of carpenters at Hog Island has resulted in the laying off of a number of gangs of riveters, caulkers, chipers and kindred mechanics whose work depends on that usually done by the strikers, according to an announcement made today by officials of the American International Shipbuilding Corporation.

The carpenters, 650 in number, who have been on strike since May 1, are demanding $1.25, an increase of forty-five cents an hour. The industrial board of the Atlantic Coast Shipbuilders' Association, in a recent meeting, recommended to the shipping board that the men be offered piecework as a compromise. The carpenters refused this offer.

According to the Hog Island management, it will be compelled to continue to lay off other gangs of riveters and other workers unless the striking carpenters return.

OFFICE ALIBIS UPHELD

Hundreds were late to work this morning because an accident tied up four trolley lines at Thirteenth street and Glenwood avenue. A bolt in the motor came loose and dinged the entire motor on the street. The accident occurred at 7:20 o'clock and affected lines 24, 2, 53 and 29 for one-half hour.

WOMAN PASSENGER SHOT

Bullet Passes Through Magazine and Fractures Thumb

A bullet passed through part of a magazine held by Miss Florence Cook on a Twentieth street trolley car late yesterday, fracturing one thumb. A negro passenger had accidentally dropped a revolver on the car floor and the weapon was discharged.

Miss Cook, who lives at 2604 North Thirty-first street, was taken to the Women's Homeopathic Hospital. Passage of the bullet through the pages of the magazine she was reading checked its velocity.

The negro, Uriah Stephens, forty years old, Oxford street near Twentieth, was held in $1000 bail at the Nineteenth and Oxford streets police station.

Chestnut St. Shops

Do the best things really cost more? 'Tis a question to be pondered over. You must acknowledge that there is an immense amount of satisfaction in knowing that one is the owner of an article of good quality. This feeling is only equalled by one's appreciation of its wearing quality. Buying the best really pays in the end, as you will find if you make your purchases in the Chestnut Street Shops.

Delorah Logan

ONE of the surest signs that spring is here are the delicious, sweet, red cherries, the first arrival from California at the store of Henry R. Halliwell & Son, Broad Street below Chestnut. They lend a festive touch to Halliwell's lovely Gift-Baskets of Fruit. These Gift-Baskets, you know, are hand painted, and in them, besides the cherries, are Kelsey Japanese Plums, Secure Winter Nels Pears, and sometimes a Cabazona Pineapple or a South African Honey Dew Melon to lend an odd and interesting touch. They are truly springlike, with their bright color, and make delightful gifts. I wish you could have seen the expression of joy on a certain patient's face upon the arrival of one of Halliwell's Gift-Baskets of Fruit at her room in the hospital.

MANY Philadelphia men have formed the habit of going to Macdonald & Campbell's store, at 1334-36 Chestnut Street, for their underwear. This store makes a special point of selling men's union suits that are shaped-to-fit. This means that they are neither "skimpy" nor "bunchy," and always comfortable. The fabrics are all-white cotton, lisle and mercerized cotton, all of good-wearing quality. This last sentence does not always mean a great deal to the man who reads it, but, to paraphrase a well-known saying, "the proof of the union suit is in the wearing," and the man who buys one union suit at Macdonald & Campbell's usually returns for more, because he finds that it has worn so extraordinarily well.

DO YOU know how to Use Color in Your Home? is the title of a current magazine article, and I couldn't help but remember the writer's advice as to the use of bright colors in the small accessories, when I saw those new red baskets at the store of J. Frank Miller, 1612 Chestnut Street. There is one in which orange blends happily into brown, one in which light green shades into dark, and a delightful one in two shades of blue. There are spruce willow baskets with designs painted in gay colors, and there are window boxes of willow painted leaf-green, silver-gray or brown, which are most attractive when filled with growing plants. They are really worth considering, for they have a distinct decorative value.

HAVE you ever tasted a chocolate nut-pattie? I discovered it this week at the store of Edouard D. Kruse Company, 102-104 South Eleventh Street, and found it a most delicious confection. The Kruse stores also have a certain tempting butter cream. I know you will be delighted with these once you taste them. One of the things which I like particularly about a box of Kruse candy is that it contains so many different kinds of pieces. There is no monotony of flavor about it. Another feature which I am sure you will appreciate is that the prices of the various kinds of candies have not been advanced. They are still selling at the same prices as last year, and you will find them really delicious.
