

LEGION TO HONOR MEMORIAL DAY

Committee Asks $1000 From Council for Celebration in Fairmount Park

Celebration of Memorial Day on May 29, in conjunction with the Grand Army of the Republic, the Spanish War Veterans and the Naval Veterans, is being planned on behalf of the American Legion by the committee on co-operation with other veteran organizations, of which Benjamin Golder is the chairman.

This committee has appeared before Council, at the suggestion of the Philadelphia county committee of the Legion, and requested an appropriation of $1000 for defraying the expense of this celebration, which will take place on Belmont plateau, Fairmount Park, Saturday, May 29.

Within the week a program will be worked out by all groups of the Legion in the city to participate in this observance in uniform unless there is objection on the part of a post to the wearing of the uniform on this occasion. It is the aim of the committee that each of the seventy-eight posts in the county should take part in the event and make this day a memorable one in the history of the Legion.

William H. Creamer, Jr., of Post 105, has been deputized to work with the Spanish War Veterans and Naval Veterans in the decoration of the graves of naval heroes.

An appeal has been made by William J. Smyth, assistant state adjutant, for a volunteer assistant in the work which the state department has been doing in connection with the naturalization of former service men.

The Harry Ingersoll Post 174, of which National Commander Franklin D'Olier is a member, announced today that it will hold a get-together smoker on the roof garden of the Hotel Lorraine Saturday evening, May 22. M. F. Olsen is the adjutant of the committee on arrangements, and Captain F. R. Naile, United States navy, in charge of the United States navy recruiting office, the chairman.

PHILHARMONIC CLOSES ITS CURRENT SEASON

Splendid Concert at the Shubert
Theatre—Pasternack Re-engaged as Conductor

The Philharmonic Society of Philadelphia closed the present season with a fine concert at the Shubert Theatre last evening before the largest and most enthusiastic audience which has yet attended any of the Sunday evening concerts. Announcement was made that Mr. Josef A. Pasternack had been re-elected conductor for next year.

Last evening's concert was a "popular" one in the best sense of the word, for all the music, while not of the really "heavy" order, was of the highest grade of excellence. Mr. Pasternack conducted the orchestra, which was made up of members of the Philadelphia Orchestra, and played the "Migron" overture, Sibelius' tone poem, "Finlandia," the second "Arlesienne" suite of Bizet, Strauss' lovely waltz, "The Blue Danube," and the "Dance of the Hours," from "Gioconda." The program thus presented a diversity of musical interest and proved to be the best of the season as well as the most enthusiastically received. It was well performed, although there were several orchestral slips due probably to insufficient rehearsal, for a composition does not have to be in one of the large forms to be difficult to play. Indeed, the attacks and changes of tempo are more difficult in a waltz by Strauss or Waldteufel than in the average classic symphony.

Two soloists were presented, one, C. Marziale, a well-known tenor of this city, and the other an amazingly talented youth, Marvin Manzell, pianist, of New York, son of one of the contrabass players in the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra. Mr. Manzell played the Tchaikovsky B-flat minor concerto. Mr. Marziale appeared first of the soloists and sang with good tone and fine volume the death scene from "Otello." He made a very favorable impression and was heartily encored.

Mr. Manzell played at the close of the program, except for one number, an excellent arrangement for the one really heavy number of the evening. He is evidently quite young, but this characteristic was not apparent in his playing, which was mature in style, while he himself was perfectly serene and generally. His technique is cleaner and generally better than that of the average concert pianist and while his interpretation was not especially elastic nor original, it was sound and in excellent taste throughout. He was obliged to respond with two encores, the "Musical Staff Box," by Ignatz Friedmann, and the G minor Prelude of Rachmaninoff, the last being unusually well played.

The future outlook of the society is most promising, according to one of the board of directors last evening. Plans are already being made for the bringing out of young soloists of talent and the presentation of the successful candidates for the various medals to be awarded by the society. The women's committee has announced a musicale and dance in the Rose Garden of the Bellevue-Stratford for Friday evening, May 21.
