Nancy Wynne Attends the Pony Show at Wynnewood. She Sees Many Smart Costumes-Supper and Dancing in the Evening

THE bazaar and fair was very successful yesterday out at Mrs. Billie Clothier's Pony Show, which was held for the benefit of the Polyclinic Hose Paul and Miss Julia Rush. pital all day, ending with a "bang-up" supper and dancing on a pavilion arranged for the purpose. It was great fun and every one seemed delighted to be in summer gowns and white shoes once more. It was warm, though not too hot, and the country never seemed wire inviting.

Miss Jane B. Yeatman, daughter of Mrs. Pope Yeatman, will be the guest of honor at a luncheon on Thursday, May 27, at the Sedgley Club, to be given by Mrs. Franklin Bache, of 2102 Pine street.

The dog show did not start till 2 o'clock, but from about 12 o'clock there sat in the middle platform of the tent the darlingest puppy I have almost ever seen. He was, I think, a wire-hair fox, that is what he will be eventually, but yesterday he was a ball of short. fluffy hair, and his wee green collar was so cute. Then he would arrange his two front feet in a straight line, look around once more and sit down again. I do not know to whom he belonged, but if that purp didn't get a prize I'm glad I did not stay to see it through, for my heart would have ached worse than his.

DO not know when I have been so perfectly enchanted by a costume as I was yesterday with that worn by Ella Brock DuBarry. She always does wear lorely things, but for exquisite daintiness and gorgeous color I have seldom seen anything as pretty. She was sell-ing flowers at the Pony Show, together with Mrs. Walter Wood and several others, and she wore a white accordion-pleated crope de chine skirt, a sheer linen waist, white shoes and stockings and a sweater of ciel blue made in light wool and finished at the neck with a collar of sable fur. Her hat was a round sports affair of silk velour of the same heavenly shade of blue as the sweater, and turquoise earrings with pendant drops were another bit of won-derful color. 1008 Ghestnut Street Post Reasonable Prices for Quality

UPON THIS PLEASANT SHOPPING STREET IS TO BE FOUND MERCHANDISE OF UNQUESTIONABLE QUALITY AND VALUE—IT IS THE STREET PATRONIZED DISCRIMINATING PHILADELPHIA WOMEN. THIS DOES NOT MEAN, HOW-EVER, THAT WALNUT STREET PRICES ARE PROHIBITIVE, BUT SIMPLY THAT THEY ARE CONSISTENT WITH QUALITY, AND OFTEN UNEXPECTEDLY LOW.

That adorable shop of Benguyer's, at 1214 Walnut street, is having a millinery sale that isn't to be missed upon any account. You know, it doesn't handle any but exclusive hats, and when the prices are brought down to $7.50 and $10.00, as they are at present upon a group of models selected from their regular lovely stock, you may know that you are getting hats valued all the way to thirty-five dollars. There are street and dress hats of infinite variety, in every hue and fabric, and for practically all occasions. It is advisable to shop for the hats early as such bargains will not last long. While you are in this satisfying, pleasant little shop, do not fail to have one of the obliging attendants show you the good looking capes they have at prices actually starting at

A few steps below, at 1210 Walnut street, you will find Sterling's, a house with an established reputation for pleasing. At present they are having an interest-ing exhibition of frocks for afternoon and evening at greatly reduced prices. Dresses which sold for prices ranging from $69.50 to $110 are now marked at $35 to There are taffetas, meteors, satins, crepes de chine, tricotines, tricolettes, georgettes, and gowns of materia reduction, but the shop wishes to participate in the effort to reduce that formidable "H. C. L." This house is noted for its ready-made tailored suits. Just at present it is possible to get their entire stock of navy tricotine suits at substantial reductions. Some are to be had for $69.50.

B. Chertak-Wenger, at No. 1229 Walnut street, is displaying an unusual array of the "different" and exclusive hats for which she is famed. At present the summer models predominate, though included are many dark hats for the woman who prefers them to models of gayer hue. Most interesting, though at the same time expressing that graceful restraint so appreciated by women of good taste, is a medium-sized chapeau of black maline, having a deep upturned brim of the maline flared and fluted. It is stiffened to position by very narrow ribs of black straw braid, as in also the round crown of maline, from the center of which the braid radiates. Its sole ornament is a small pin of French brilliants placed at the side

The woman of today is exceedingly young for her age. "Where," asks some one facetiously, "will we find grandmothers for tomorrow?" Each year femininity grows younger-it is employing rejuvenating thoughts, not to speak of scientific methods for keeping youth, such as can be found in that establishment of high integrity, Denney & Denney's at 1513 Walnut street. There one finds unexcelled experts in all the arts that well-groomed women of good taste now consistently use to appear at their best and preserve or regain that youthfulness of appearance possible to women even of advanced years. The Denney & Denney facial treatments even change the contour of the face, give new life to the skin, and are recommended as a nerve tonic. When you try one you will immediately make out a check for the course. Single treatments are $2, ten treatments $15, and twenty-five treatments $35.

Gidding's, frequently referred to as "The Paris Shop of America," in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, is ever the mecca for the newest of the sartorial new. Picture, if you can (you really should drop in to see it with your own eyes), an afternoon frock of lemon yellow handkerchief linen, a creation of Eymard's. Having straight chemise lines, it is relieved by fluted side ruffles of the material, and Dutch collar, narrow belt and unexpected pockets are all trimmed with black patent leather darned in red and blue wool and studded with tiny diamond-shaped buttons of yellow enamel. There is an inset banded breast pocket on the right-hand side of the bodice and there are two equally odd pockets, one atop of the other, on the left skirt-front. Truly, it is a most unique frock.

Many far-sighted women who wish furs for the coming fall and winter are selecting them at the present time at that reliable furrier's, Theo. F. Siefert's, at 1426 Walnut Street. The shop offers the convenience of selection and storage of winter furs upon a reasonable deposit for good faith. There is an impressive array of new fur pieces and fur wraps for the coming cold seasons now displayed at this establishment at prices 25% lower than they will be at the height of the season. There are furs at all prices, from a stunning coat of brown pony trimmed with beaver at $375 to a luxurious full-length wrap of rich mink sable, at $2350-it is expected that it will cost about $3500 to duplicate this wrap later in the season. Siefert's also have a splendid assortment of those one and two animal scarfs of marten and sable, priced from $65 to $300.
