

TY HAS LOST HIS BATTING EYE, SO JENNINGS MAY BE ACCUSED OF HAVING BLIND TIGER

PENN'S CHANCES GOOD, BUT MOAKLEY IS FOXY

Cornell Not as Weak as Shown Against Quakers; Robertson Springs Many Surprises

By EDWIN J. POLLOCK
ON MAY 20 Penn will be in the thick of the running for the intercollegiate track and field championship.

The Quakers have an excellent chance to grab the title. The outlook never has been more brilliant and all that, but any one who comes out in bold type and declares that the Red and Blue will be the winner has more courage than good judgment.

Has 'Em Guessing
Moakley has a sure point winner in Watt, the young man who cracked the record in the mile, and who has won the mile, the half mile, and the quarter mile.

Next among the notable exhibitions were the victories of Eddie Shields and Larry Brown in the two-mile and mile, respectively. Dickman was close to Shields over the entire distance, in fact, had the lead as late as the seventh lap, but he was unable to stand the gaff at the finish.

Yale and Princeton Strong
In figuring out the probable winner of the intercollegiate, Yale and Princeton must not be overlooked. The Elis showed their strength in trimming Harvard in the annual dual meet Saturday.

Plum Shoots Noteworthy Game
Phillipsburg, N. J., May 17.—Fred Plum, of Atlantic City, who has won the 400-yard championship on Friday, landed another victory yesterday when he captured the seventh tournament of the New Jersey State Athletic Association by breaking the 471 feet of 200 yards in the 400-yard event.

Anyhow, It's Been Years Since Jack Moakley Lost

Penn's victory over Cornell in the dual meet on Saturday was the first in many years. Every one agrees to that, but the exact year in which the Quakers triumphed before is a point of argument.

HOHNFELD GETS FINE START

Wine Opener of Industrial League; Fleisher to Play Sunday Ball
The Holfeld Manufacturing Co. baseball team got away to a good start on Saturday and with one object in mind, that was to equal the record made by the soccer team during the last season.

Track Cinders

Hilles, of Yale, turned in a speedy two-mile race, winning in 8:40.15. Allen Swede, of Princeton, looks like the champion in this event. Larry Shields, of Penn, and W. Dickman, of Yale, should be up in the running.

Another great race is expected in the mile. Last year Bob Crawford, of Lafayette, gave O'Connell, of Harvard, a thrilling battle, and he is expected to be able to do anything.

Will Chase Gambler From Red Sox Park

Boston, May 17.—Another effort is being made to rid major league baseball in this city of open gambling. Secretary Lawrence Graver, of the Boston Americans, announced today that the betting crowd which gathers in the first base bleachers will be cleaned out, and open wagering stopped.

COOMBS RAISES MACK'S BALL CLUB

Colby Jawn Says Connie Has Right Smart Bunch—Perry Against Daus Today

DETROIT, May 17.—Athletic director, J. M. Coombs, today announced that he had raised the Mack's ball club.

"How do I like the A's?" asked Colby Jawn Coombs, ex-Mack hurling hero, ex-Brooklyn moundman, ex-Phil manager and present coach of the Tiger twirlers, this morning after the same query had been put to him.

"Well, I'll tell you, I think Connie has a right smart ball club. I believe his boys are much better than most people give them credit for being. At least that was my impression on Saturday when they beat Leonard. You know Leonard is some pitcher. He can stand most clubs on their ears, and yet the A's went right after him and beat him."

TENNIS IS GETTING MANY STAR ATHLETES

Bill Viebahn, ex-Major League Pitcher and Baseball Player, Now Devotee of Court Game

By SPICK HALL
A TOUR through the city and suburbs of Philadelphia is a revelation, from an athletic viewpoint.

Wherever there is an open plot of ground it is invariably being used for some form of sports. This is particularly true of lawn tennis. There are now two courts in every section where one grew before. Although golf is attracting many, especially since the opening of the Cobb's special municipal course, tennis is adding to its ranks with surprising rapidity.

Former college and professional athletes are very strong for tennis because it is essentially a game of action. Take the case of one of our Philadelphians, Bill Viebahn, former major league baseball pitcher and basketball star.

"And make no mistake about this chap Naylor. That boy can pitch. I look for him to do something this year. He showed me a lot on Saturday. Our Sunday wit discouraged over the poor start we've had this year. We all feel that we'll get going soon, and they are going out there today to see if they can't start a winning streak."

Mayer Finally Joins Winning Ball Club

After having been released from the Phillies, Pittsburgh, Chicago White Sox and the Lebanon Club of the Bethlehem Steel League, Erk Mayer has finally landed a winning job.

Manager Potteiger, of Lebanon, released Mayer late in April after he had been badly hammered by the Sparrows Point Club.

game I have ever played and I have played a good many."

Yes, Bill Viebahn has played a lot of games and he made a great reputation as an athlete. Before he went to Chicago, where he pitched for the White Sox, Bill amused himself by out-guessing the batters in the Southern Association while a member of the Nashville, New Orleans and Chattanooga clubs.

Fine Cage Athlete

Although Bill was well-known throughout the baseball world, he was just as prominent a figure in basketball. He played on several teams in the old Pennsylvania state league, which at that time boasted of the greatest cage teams that ever played in one organization.

bench watching the other fellow. That becomes monotonous.

"When I am playing anything I want to play, and tennis is the old game that gives you the action. It develops all of the muscles and requires quicker thinking and a keener eye than any basketball for some time he is still able to play a rattling good game.

Several years ago, when Joe Fogarty was managing the De Neri team, of the Eastern league, several of his men got on 'the sick list at the same time. Joe hustled out Woodland avenue way and signed Bill up for duty. Bill took part in several games, jumping center and playing any other position that was needed down at Musical Field Hall.

At the Penn relays recently held at Franklin Field, Bill sat through rain and everything to see the athletes perform in the field and on the track. It was great stuff, Bill remarked, but not as good as playing tennis.

Dick Harte, of Boston, is another star athlete who has become a tennis devotee and incidentally he has suddenly jumped from complete obscurity to a place high in the ranks of American players.

Right now Harte is being considered for fourth place on the American Davis cup team, which sails May 29 for England to take part in the preliminaries. The Davis cup committee has chosen Bill Tilden, R. N. Williams and Billy Johnson and will make its selection for the other member from Wallace Johnson, of Philadelphia, Chuck Garland, of Pittsburgh and captain of the Yale tennis team, and Dick Harte.

Harte played end on the famous Harvard eleven of 1915, with Eddie Mahan and King. He was considered one of the best ends in the country, too, in spite of the fact that that year produced a bunch of the greatest football players in the history of the game.

In baseball also, Harte was a star. He caught for the Crimson nine and made a big hit here when he played against Penn on Franklin Field. Harte was also a rattling good hockey player and an all-round athlete.

Although Harte has been in the tennis limelight but a short time, he has made remarkable strides. Many experts think his service is even more severe than Bill Tilden's, which is about the last word that can be said of services.

This afternoon the Women's Interclub Tennis League will play off the matches postponed from Friday, one of the days of the downpour. The Philadelphia Cricket Club team plays Huntingdon Valley at Noble; Germantown meets the Country Club at Bala and Bplfield plays Herion at Haverford.

Tomorrow the regular schedule will be continued with Huntingdon Valley playing the Country Club at Bala; the Cricket Club against Belfield at St. Martins and Germantown playing Merion at Manheim.

Anti-Contractor Ticket TO REPUBLICANS OF PENNSYLVANIA

Republicans of Pennsylvania are hereby cautioned not to be misled by last-hour cards and sample ballots marked to promote the political interests of the Contractors' Combine which has disgraced the Republican organization of this city.

A desperate effort is being made to humiliate the Mayor of Philadelphia, recently elected by the friends of good government, by the cutting of his name on the primary ballot for Delegates-at-Large to the National Convention and marking that of a candidate who is a favorite and the personal representative of the Contractors' Combine.

Specious arguments are being made to further this scheme in different Counties of the State. There is reason to believe, however, that the intelligence and patriotism of the Republicans of the interior of the Commonwealth will not countenance any deals, no matter upon what pleas they shall be based, to further this proposition.

It is therefore urged that the following candidates whose names are followed by a cross (X), shall be supported for Delegates-at-Large to the National Convention by Republicans throughout the State who wish to aid the cause of civic betterment.

Delegates-at-Large to the National Convention

Table listing delegates-at-large to the National Convention, including William Wallace Aterbury, Andrew W. Mellon, Edward V. Babcock, Asher Miner, Charles J. Biddle, J. Hampton Moore, Percy M. Chandler, Boies Penrose, James Elverson, Jr., J. Leonard Replogle, W. Freeland Kendrick, William I. Schaffer, Philander C. Knox, Robert J. McGrath.

TO REPUBLICANS OF PHILADELPHIA

In addition to the twelve Delegates-at-Large, there will be elected in each Congressional district two district delegates to the Republican National Convention.

Contractor leaders are running candidates, some of them ostensibly in the cause of General Leonard Wood, but in reality representatives of the Combine, who also in the event of their election will serve the interests of the Combine.

Herewith are given the names of the candidates for district delegates to the National Convention in this city, who are in sympathy with the administration of Mayor Moore, and WHO ARE OPPOSED BY THE CONTRACTORS' COMBINE!

District Delegates to National Convention

Table listing district delegates to the National Convention, including Joseph Argentero, Onnie O. Carter, Thomas Develon, Jr., Powell Evans, Joseph P. Bartilucci, William Rowen, Alfred E. Burk, William Freihofer, Harry Brocklehurst, Joseph H. Bromley, Bayard Henry, Samuel P. Rotan.

CUT THIS OUT AND TAKE IT WITH YOU TO THE POLLS. Vote for these candidates and complete the rout of the Contractors' Combine.

Respectfully submitted, REPUBLICAN ALLIANCE OF PHILADELPHIA.
